Staff hearing tests

Last Monday, 44 City employees from the Police Department, Middlefield Golf Course, Utilities, Building Maintenance, Shop, Water, and Wastewater received hearing tests. Employees in job classifications within these City function areas are routinely exposed to loud or repetitive noise. City policy requires employees to use hearing protection when working in loud or repetitive noise environments. Annual hearing tests create a baseline level for each employee that can be monitored for any significant changes.

Row River Water Treatment Plant in the news

Version 2.0 Communications of Boston and New York recently contracted with Pall Corporation to prepare several case studies of Pall membrane water filtration plants around the country. One of these case studies specifically highlighted the Row River Water Treatment Plant. This week, Ray Pardee, Water Production Superintendent, was notified by Version 2.0 Communications that the trade publication, Treatment Plant Operator, is interested in publishing a summary of the Row River Water Treatment Plant case study in the publication's Nov., 2016 issue, which will coincide with that issue's editorial focus on "treatment and filtration".

Vehicle and equipment repair and maintenance

With the close of the FY 15-16 budget, it is interesting to note what the City spends on vehicle and equipment repair and maintenance services during a fiscal year. The City Shop repairs and maintains all City departments. Total equipment and vehicle repair costs, for Fiscal Year 2015-2016, were $72,845. This amount was generated by a total of 303 repair orders. During the previous Fiscal Year (FY2014-2015), total vehicle repair costs were $69,275 for a total of 277 repair orders.
