TENNIS

THE GAME'S TOP PLAYERS HOLD COURT IN RIO

The biggest names in the sport gather at the brand-new Olympic Tennis Centre, which will remain as a permanent reminder of the Rio 2016 Games. Five gold medals will be awarded in men's and women's singles and doubles, and mixed doubles. Defending men's champion Andy Murray and his long-time rival Novak Djokovic will likely be the favorites, as this tournament should favor the hard-court specialists. Serena Williams, who brought home the singles gold in 2012 (also winning the doubles tournament with her sister Venus), should be the heavy favorite again in Rio. 8/6-11 Q; 8/12-14 M

TRIATHLON

Triathlon is composed of three disciplines: a 1,500m swim, 40,000m bike ride and 10,000m run, with separate competitions for men and women. British brothers Alistair and Jonathan Brownlee – who won gold and bronze medals, respectively, in 2012 – are back to try to keep the gold in the family, but 2012 silver-medalist Javier Gomez Noya of Spain hopes to prevent that. America's best chances for a medal are on the women's side with Sarah True, who finished 10 seconds away from a bronze in London, and Gwen Jorgensen, who had a disappointing performance in 2012 when her bike got a flat tire, and are among the contenders looking to challenge Switzerland's Nicola Spirig, who hopes to repeat her gold medal-winning performance.
