CELEBRATING OUR FARMERS

Celeste Donaghy watches her son Asher and friends Halen Norris and Selena Mateny create face masks out of a variety of different seeds. The Celebrate Our Farmers event offered other family activities such as various lawn games and a farmer's market. Farmers from around the area gathered at Bohemia Park on Saturday to educate locals and children on their products as well as promote fresh produce. The farmer's market and games were followed by a dinner and dancing at the Bohemia Public Market across the street.

an opportunity to be the cool kids, to have something that is theirs alone to be able to share."

Last week, students Jon Robertson, Vincent Smart and Sean Butler got their opportunity to be the "cool kids" and share what they know about guinea pigs with this reporter, which includes the fact that Butler cares for one of Hoot's offspring, named Pea Shooter, at his own home.

There are other lessons to learn from guinea pigs as well. Last week, Smart, Butler and Robinson spent part of an afternoon practicing math by collecting what Jenkins referred to as "poop data," a running tally of which guinea pig pooped and when. They also shared knowledge about the sounds the animals make and why.

"It's nice to see it all happening in front of them for real," said Jenkins, who describes Harrison as a welcoming, accepting and encouraging school for her students.

"It's been a dream come true for me," she said.
