At approximately 5 a.m. Sunday morning, the windows broke on city hall.

According to Creswell City Administrator Michelle Amberg, five windows and a door were broken. Two windows on the north side, two on the north east and a door on the north east side of the building.

"It was about $12,000 to $15,000 in damage," she said, citing the double-paned, special ordered windows.

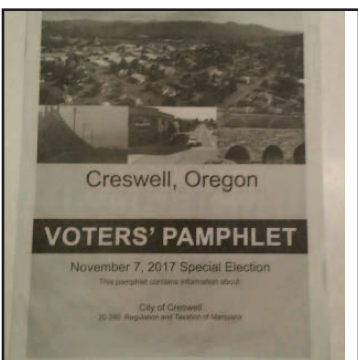

Creswell resident Donald Jackson Harvey, 28, was booked on charges of felony charge of criminal mischief and misdemeanor charges of criminal mischief, criminal trespass and disorderly conduct around 7 a.m. on Sunday morning.

The Lane County Sheriff's Office--which contracts with the city of Creswell--released a statement, reading in part, "During the investigation, deputies found that several large windows on the perimeter of Creswell City Hall had been broken out, causing extensive damage. One window to a local real estate business across from City Hall was also broken out. The full cost of the damage is unknown at this time, but exceeds $2,000. Creswell Public Works employees responded to secure the building and deputies found no other damage."

Ad for marijuana vote confuses residents

Voter's pamphlet distributed by Keep it Creswell and No to One Gro.

Tensions in Creswell over a ballot measure that would allow recreational marijuana continue to grow.

Measure 20-280 has sparked debate and last week, political advertisements that arrived in mailboxes added confusion to the mix.

The pamphlet mirrors voter pamphlets that provide information on issues appearing on ballots. However, the pamphlet was not released by officials at the state, county or city level. Instead, political action committees associated with Keep it Creswell and No to One Gro claimed responsibility for the pamphlet.

According to its website, Keep it Creswell is against Measure 20-280 and posts articles, information and event information on its webpage as well as a donation tab. An attempt to contact Keep it Creswell was unsuccessful.

No t o O n e G r o is in opposition o f s t a r t - u p O n e G r o which wants to sell marijuana in Creswell. The pamphlet that reached residents last week was titled "Voters' pamphlet" and claimed to contain information on Measure 20-280.

However, where official voter information guides note both the arguments for and against a measure, the pamphlet cites only the argument against Measure 20-280 and in place of the argument in support, writes, "No argument in support of Ballot Measure 20-280 appears because the sponsors of the measure did not feel that a voter's pamphlet was needed." It also quotes One Gro's Daniel Patrick from a social media post that read, "It's the only issue on the ballot and thus it doesn't need a pamphlet or the expense. It's yes for pot, no for not."

Official ballots should have arrived to voters for the November 7 special election. If you have not received a ballot or are unsure about the validity of the information you received, contact the county clerk's office at 541-682-4234.
