Breathe. Consider the ongoing Star Wars saga. And then, just breathe. Reach out with your feelings. What do you see?

If you see a bright future, then you must be strong in the Force. The slumbering Star Wars saga was reignited by 2015’s “The Force Awakens,” which pulled in more than $2 billion worldwide. Released a year later, the standalone “Rogue One: A Star Wars Story” earned an impressive – most impressive – billion for Lucasfilm and corporate parent Disney.

That leaves us to ponder the direction of December’s “Star Wars: The Last Jedi,” written and directed by Rian Johnson (“Looper,” “The Brothers Bloom”). How will the latest film steward the 40-year legacy of film’s greatest franchise?
