

Shauna Neigh has been selected by the Chamber of Commerce board to serve as the organization's new CEO/President beginning April 1.

Neigh's work in the city has seen her focus mainly downtown. Through her experience with the Main Street program and public works department, Neigh saw the new Chamber position as an opportunity to think outside of downtown and embrace the larger Cottage Grove picture, though she added she's kept her feet on the ground by waitressing at Buster's Main Street Café on Saturdays.

"I put myself through college being a waitress and it's one of the things — it's in your blood," she said.

"And it kept me talking to the community."

By maintaining and expanding her ties with local businesses inside and outside of downtown, Neigh said she's looking forward to making the Chamber an involved and active element of the city.

"It comes to the overall health of the town, which will make people want to come here, which will make people want to start their businesses here and the people from town will want to shop at the businesses here," she said.

"I really care about the success of our town and our community."
