

CG to begin Local Foods, Local Places workshop

The City of Cottage Grove invites the community to participate in its Local Foods, Local Places Workshop being held virtually Nov. 5 and 6.

Cottage Grove was one of 16 communities selected from across the nation by the U.S. Environmental Protection Agency (EPA) and the U.S. Department of Agriculture under the Local Foods, Local Places program in 2020 to help revitalize Main Street and the surrounding community through food systems and place-making initiatives.

Registration for the upcoming workshop is free and will be a two-day brainstorming session, leading to a plan of action for better integrating local foods systems into Cottage Grove's economic recovery.

The city is asking farmers, producers, growers, restaurant owners, entrepreneurs, business owners, tourist organizations, non-profits, local government officials, etc. — anyone who has a stake in the local food system's future — to help.

With an overarching theme of building a resilient local/regional food system, four topics have been identified by the Local Food, Local Places steering committee:

- Identify strategies to support and enhance existing commercial kitchen and food incubator spaces.
- Improve food security and public health in Cottage Grove.
- Increase the involvement of Cottage Grove's underrepresented/immigrant populations (e.g. youth, BIPOC representatives) in local food and place-making initiatives.
- Build stronger supply chain connections for farmers and food producers with both local and regional markets.

There will be time in the sessions to discuss and refine the topics if necessary.

"Participants will brainstorm potential actions or next steps necessary to advance each goal and there will be breakout rooms to detail the actions selected by participants as highest priority for each goal.

The workshop will consist of a series of seven virtual sessions leading up to the completion of a draft community action plan framed around the community goals for this technical assistance process.

SLSD from A1

For three weeks in a row, a county must maintain a case rate of 10 cases or less per 100,000 of the population and a test positivity rate of 5 percent or less in the preceding seven days.

Statewide, the metrics must hold at a test positivity rate of 5 percent or less in the preceding seven days, also for three weeks.

So far, Oregon has not yet met the standard. For the week of Oct. 11-17, Oregon Health Authority (OHA) reported Oregon's cases per 100,000 at 54.4 and test positivity at 5.8 percent.

Furthermore, Lane County has seen a steep rise in the number of cases.

For the week starting Oct. 11, OHA reported the county as having 77.6 cases per 100,000 and a 8.2 percent positivity in testing.

The trend seems to be reflected locally as well. Lane County Public Health data on Wednesday listed COVID-19 cases as having risen to 65 in ZIP code 97424 and 29 cases in ZIP code 97426.

The school district did not reply to a request for comment on this story. SLSD officials have previously stated they could not speculate yet on what a new timeline might look like.
