Eakin & Bristow's

Goto

Griffin & Eatich, For All Kinds of

Eakin & Bristow's

No Century Begins on Sunday.

There are some curious facts about our calendar. No century can begin on 31st December, Friday or Sunday. The same calendars can be used every twenty years. October always begins on the same day of the week as January, April as July, September as December. February, March and November begin on the same dates. May, June and August always begin on different days from each other and every other month in the year. The first and last days of the year are always the same. These rules do not apply to leap years, when comparison is made between days before and after February 29th. —S. F. Chinn.

Big Nuggies

On display in the Jewell Hardware Co.'s window are some nuggets taken out of the Hayes, Jewell & Moore placer on Ora Creek—the result of only three days panning. One nugget is worth $341 and the balance are smaller, making in all over $500. —Oregonian.

At the Grave of Poe.

For over half a century Uncle Daniel Spencer has been the sexton of the Methodist church. Around it is a graveyard which contains a simple stone with the words "Edgar Allan Poe" cut in its base, while a medallion cut in the center commemorates the son of the dead poet.

Many years after Poe's body was placed in this vault there came a dumb brute, who now watches over the grave. He was in the supernatural thought that he was sent there for the purpose. Uncle Daniel was presented with a dog by the master of a Russian vessel while he was at Harwich. The dog, on account of his ferocity, was dreaded by the sailors, and the captain determined to leave him ashore. Sailor was taken to the little office which is in a cellar of the church. Bestial path along the walk between the graveyard and his daily food was ten steps, and by day and night he is on the watch.

The especial object of his solicitude is the poet's grave. Here for hours at a time pining will remain, and even Uncle Daniel cannot persuade him to leave. One of his favorite haunts is the high wall over the stone coping. He seldom lies down but walks with his eyes fastened upon the spectacle of his eye, as if he were looking for something. He has a great dog's house, at the back of one of the largest tombs, and goes to it for an hour or more at a time. —Toledo Blade.

Hold Hold up.

P. J. Jennings, a mining man, having an office in the Marquand building, and at 353 Grant Street, was held up on the corner of Clay streets at 7:30 last evening. He was pointing a gun at his head and compelled to give up his money. The robber went through him so curiously and some jewelry making his escape.

There is no doubt that this is the same man who held up Orr, Moninger a few mornings ago, a man who lives in the neighborhood of the holdup days, he sent the robbery, but as he was some two blocks away he concluded that it was nothing more than two men talking. He said that five minutes after the holdup occurred there were five policemen on the spot but not one robber. —Saturday's Oregonian.

Complimentary.

The Bohemia Nugget succeeds to the Cottage Grove Messenger and makes its bow into our office last week. It is "a thing of beauty" to the people of Bohemia and "a joy forever" to its readers. We are somewhat circumspect in our estimate with its editor and we think this will succeed in his enterprise—we know he ought to have it. —Our editorial font. —Bend-Adve.

An effort is being made to organize the Bohemia Nugget into a literary enterprise which will and prove a source of pleasure and profit to its citizens. —Drake Watchman.

The Bay Look Through

Goto

Griffin & Eatich, For All Kinds of

How to Prevent Pneumonia.

You are perhaps already aware that pneumonia always results from cold or from an attack of grippe. "Walking the picturesque" of Multnomah a few years ago when so many cases resulted in pneumonia, it was observed that the attack was never followed by death except when the "walking the picturesque" became a "walking the picturesque" with a cold or in grippe in that disease. It is the best remedy for the world for colds and grippe. Every home should have it. Sold by the Benson Drug Co., Cottage Grove and Lyle Drugs of Lyle.

At the Grave of Poe.

For over half a century Uncle Daniel Spencer has been the sexton of the Methodist church. Around it is a graveyard which contains a simple stone with the words "Edgar Allan Poe" cut in its base, while a medallion cut in the center commemorates the son of the dead poet.

Many years after Poe's body was placed in this vault there came a dumb brute, who now watches over the grave. He was in the supernatural thought that he was sent there for the purpose. Uncle Daniel was presented with a dog by the master of a Russian vessel while he was at Harwich. The dog, on account of his ferocity, was dreaded by the sailors, and the captain determined to leave him ashore. Sailor was taken to the little office which is in a cellar of the church. Bestial path along the walk between the graveyard and his daily food was ten steps, and by day and night he is on the watch.

The especial object of his solicitude is the poet's grave. Here for hours at a time pining will remain, and even Uncle Daniel cannot persuade him to leave. One of his favorite haunts is the high wall over the stone coping. He seldom lies down but walks with his eyes fastened upon the spectacle of his eye, as if he were looking for something. He has a great dog's house, at the back of one of the largest tombs, and goes to it for an hour or more at a time. —Toledo Blade.

Hold Hold up.

P. J. Jennings, a mining man, having an office in the Marquand building, and at 353 Grant Street, was held up on the corner of Clay streets at 7:30 last evening. He was pointing a gun at his head and compelled to give up his money. The robber went through him so curiously and some jewelry making his escape.

There is no doubt that this is the same man who held up Orr, Moninger a few mornings ago, a man who lives in the neighborhood of the holdup days, he sent the robbery, but as he was some two blocks away he concluded that it was nothing more than two men talking. He said that five minutes after the holdup occurred there were five policemen on the spot but not one robber. —Saturday's Oregonian.

Complimentary.

The Bohemia Nugget succeeds to the Cottage Grove Messenger and makes its bow into our office last week. It is "a thing of beauty" to the people of Bohemia and "a joy forever" to its readers. We are somewhat circumspect in our estimate with its editor and we think this will succeed in his enterprise—we know he ought to have it. —Our editorial font. —Bend-Adve.

An effort is being made to organize the Bohemia Nugget into a literary enterprise which will and prove a source of pleasure and profit to its citizens. —Drake Watchman.