

Revival.
The K. of P's of Helmet Lodge Eugene and of Juventus Lodge No 48, of Cottage Grove held a sort of a revival last Saturday afternoon and evening—and to several new donors of knighthood it seemed almost like a protracted meeting. Saturdays afternoon local brought up from Eugene twenty-two of Helmet Lodge boys, one from Junction City, and last but by no means least one from Portland. It was purely a fraternal visit, only one of many that are frequently made by one lodge to another, thereby cementing the ties of fellowship into one solid band that is rapidly encircling the earth. The Knights of Pythias, as a lodge, as its very name suggests, is nothing if not fraternal. It is not strictly speaking an insurance company, although some attention is given to life insurance; but it is a fraternal order, pure and simple, teaching humanity in all its nobleness and grandeur, ever watchful of the rights of others. This "protracted meeting," was occasioned by a few young and misguided youths who had neglected to "enter therein" upon former occasions, but who at last having been convinced of the evil of their way, sought recognition. The following gentlemen were initiated: R. F. Martin, C. F. Patterson, S. Davidson, E. Hebard, Ernest Lockwood, Robt. Cooley, C. J. Howard. Those present from Helmet Lodge Eugene, and who did the honors were M. O. Warner, J. O. Watts, F. C. Fish, R. O. Brady, Andy Taylor, Geo. M. Smith, A. G. Holden, A. G. Mathews, C. L. Winter, G. W. Griffin, J. W. Kays, H. M. Holden, Wm. G. Martin, L. E. Bean, W. H. Alexander, W. L. Cheshire, D. E. Yoran, F. L. Armatage, Welby Stevens, C. A. Wintermeier, H. W. Rowland, I. T. Nicklin, Geo. O. Powell, Junction, and Grand Chancellor Wm. Calk, of Portland. Shortly after 12 o'clock the members presented themselves at the Bohemia Hotel where a substantial lunch had been prepared, and about fifty midnight Knights did then and there stretch their capacity in the attempt to eat the proprietor out of house and home. The Eugene boys returned home upon the morning overland, with the sincerest well wishes of the members of Juventus lodge, and many words of appreciation were extended for their kindly service. A jollier and better set of boys never got outside of their home town.

The Webers.
The Weber Dramatic Company did the town Friday, Saturday and Monday nights. It was generally known that the company was composed of amateurs and so the patrons of the theatre did not expect much—and their expectations were realized. "Chick" was put on Monday night, and this play went fairly well. The little lady, who did the title role was fairly good in the part, also the man who did the Irish servant, but his double in the deformed jailer was rotten. "Ten Nights in a Barroom" was given Saturday night to a fair house, but was rotten to the core. Monday night "The Little Detective" was put up. There was only one man in the cast that in any way redeemed himself and his name cannot be given as the programs distributed were printed several years ago when the Weber Company was composed of entirely different people. By way of identification, however, he did the "Plakerton detective" turn. The company would do the public an everlasting favor if they would arrange a plan whereby they could get the drop on the alleged thespian who prides himself as the "heavy"—the man who does the villain—and kill him off. He's horrible. Mr. Weber is a little ashamed of his company and Saturday night during a long "wait" made an apology in mixed German and English. Now Mr. Weber should do one of two things get some good people in his company and then wardrobe them, or sell his old car and "special scenery" to some second hand man and quit business.

Court Cases.
Among the cases before the circuit court now convened in Eugene are the following: J. E. Young, admr. vs W. S. Chrisman; to set aside deed. Report of referee. James Hemenway vs The Hartford Mining Co; to recover money. B. C. Veatch vs James E. Thorp, et al; foreclosure. G. U. Snapp vs J. H. Weaver, confirmation.

Accepted a Position.
Mr. H. B. Brehaut of Portland arrived in this city last week and has accepted a position in the leading drug house of Benson Drug Co.

Choice Line of Candies.
The Benson Drug Co. has just put in an excellent line of choice candies, including Bon Bons, chocolate creams and fruit tablets.

The Suspicion Cleared up.
For some days, prior to his departure S. E. Coffin of this city acted very strange and some of his friends became alarmed and apprehensive of his condition, and so strongly was this impressed upon them that they were not quite certain as to what his intentions were when he departed; and some even doubted that he went to Portland. Now, it transpires that he is innocent of all crime. The other night he returned home with one of Portland's fair daughters as his wife. Mr. S. E. Coffin and Miss Emma Ridgley were married at the home of the bride's parents in Portland on Sunday, March 5, 1899, Rev. O. H. Lance officiating, and they arrived in this city Monday where they will reside. This explains the queer actions of Mr. Coffin. Congratulations.

Business Change.
Since the last issue of the Nugget F. B. Phillips has sold his grocery store to Messrs. Johnson & Baker. Mr. Phillips has built up an excellent trade in this city and his many friends will regret to see him depart from business circles, but it can be safely said that he has sold to men old in business experience and who come with the best of recommendations to carry on and eventually enlarge the business so nicely gotten under way by Mr. Phillips. It is to be hoped that Mr. Phillips will meet with the success he so justly deserves in whatever business venture he may enter into, and that his successors will never regret having located with us.

On to his Job.
John Stewart the well known stock buyer of Eugene passed through on Monday's afternoon local, enroute to Roseburg. When John boarded the train at Eugene, his dog "Rix" was at the depot and as John went into the coach, "Rix" got aboard the rear platform. He was discovered by the conductor and John ordered him thrown off at Henderson. As soon as the dog hit the ground he went for the front end of the train and some hard hearted wag yelled that "Rix" was "next." He had traveled with his master before and was making for the "blind."

Will be Appreciated.
It is now understood that beginning March 12th the Northern Pacific railroad company will inaugurate a double daily train service between Portland and Eastern points. The Northern Pacific is an excellently equipped road, and its officials are ever on the alert to further the convenience of railroad patrons, not only in point of comfort while aboard train, but in time. The tourist sleepers have long been a praiseworthy feature of the northern Pacific, and they will cut a prominent figure in this new service.

School Election.
A meeting of the voters of this school district was held at the school house in this city last Monday afternoon at 2:30 o'clock. Considerable argument was indulged in as to who was qualified to vote, owing to the recent ruling that one must be on record as having paid taxes on $100 or over as per the last assessment roll. A school director and clerk were elected for the ensuing year, Mr. L. Morse being the new director by acclamation, while Oliver Veatch was elected clerk.

Appreciated Gift.
Alf Walker is in receipt of a handsome ebony cane just from Manila, a gift from Henry Landess. It was suggested by Henry that his father give it to the homeliest man in town, and of course intimated that Alf stood a pretty good show of getting it. It is needless to say that there were numerous contestants for the prize, but Walker won it by a scratch, as the editor of the Nugget was barred in the beginning of the contest.

Could not Get Here.
It was announced in last week's Nugget that J. O. Watts the Eugene optician would be in this city the first of this week. A letter from him requests the Nugget to say that owing to an increase in trade at home he was unable to make the date, but later on will announce his arrival.

Among them are two sets of Spanish rifle shells, one set as they are made with only the powder drawn from the shells, and the other made into souvenirs with knives, penholders etc., attached to the base of the steel bullets. Mr. Hawkins also received some very nice cigars, and the Nugget man is just now enjoying the pleasure of smoking one. Here's good luck Claude, and may you return home safe and sound.
