The Oregonian.—

And the Bohemia Nugget for $2 per year, cash in advance. This is without doubt the greatest clubbing offer offered by Oregon newspapers today. The Oregonian is without doubt excelled by none, in point of news both local and foreign, is a clear print, and besides has that great redeeming feature, devoid of sensational and disgusting literature. Remember the two papers, the Weekly Oregonian and your home paper the Bohemia Nugget for $2.

ADMINISTRATOR'S NOTICE.

Notice is hereby given that the undersigned has been duly appointed by the County Court of Lane County, Oregon, administrator of the estate of Elias Lane, deceased.
All persons having claims against said estate are hereby required to present the same to me, properly verified, at my office, in Cottage Grove, Oregon, within six months from the date hereof.
Dated this 22nd day of February, 1899.
G. C. SNAPP,
Administrator.

Rev. E. Edwards, pastor of the English Baptist Church at Minersville, Pa. when suffering with rheumatism, was advised to try Chamberlain's Pain Balm. He says: "A few applications of this liniment proved of great service to me. It subdued the inflammation and relieved the pain. Should any sufferer profit by giving Pain Balm a trial it will please me. For sale by J. A. BENSIX, Cottage Grove. JOE LYONS, Drain Druggist.

LABOR'S WAGE INCREASE.

The following editorial from the Denver Times Sun is well worthy of consideration:

To a careful reader the recent increase in wages throughout the East ought to become a political object lesson. Hardly a day passes that some paper does not tell the story of a general advance in the price paid for labor in some Eastern factory or mill. "Oh, yes," the followers of hate and calamity assert, "the increase is but temporary. There is but one reason for it. The steel manufacturers and all the others are behind with their orders for the present. Do not pin your faith to the elusive star which seems to twinkle out the news that prosperity has come."

Here we have the admission of the democratic party and its argument. It admits that the man who earns his bread in the sweat of his face has turned his face toward prosperous times and his back upon the black period of the past. We do not have to think back very far to recall the day when, under a democratic administration, these same toilers were marching across the country an army of beggars supplicating the charity of the people. Those were the days of Coxeyism, of Clevelandism, of Waiteism, when calamity was in all its glory. At that time the democratic party predicted that revolution—a war between capital and labor—was the only solution to the problem. The bayonet of the workingman was pointed to as the instrument through which chaos should be transferred into order.

But today we note that these changed conditions have come about as a result of restored confidence. Security for the capitalist and employment and comfort for the workingman. It is not a temporary prosperity. The mills and factories are not flooded with orders for the immediate present. They see before them orders increasing every day in the year. Old Glory floats triumphantly over a new merchant marine. The commerce of the world is being divided. The Orient and the Occident are demanding goods of American manufacture. This is what is putting the toilers at work. Trade is following the flag. Capital is investing its surplus and applying itself to the latent energies that have been slumbering for the past five years.

The democratic party has always said that republican prosperity was not permanent, but history disproves the assertion. The only thing to effect the stability of republican prosperity is a period of democratic rule. Note the development of the country after the civil war for twenty-five years. Take history as your proof. If not satisfied with this, ask any of the people who lived and pursued some vocation during that period.
