

Broke a Sacred Obligation.

Attorney J. S. Medley, broke a sacred obligation the other morning and in consequence he is carrying one of his fingers in a rag. John got a little ambition amid ships the other morning, and surprised his wife by crawling out and splitting, or attempting to split the kindling. Now this was contrary to one of John's cherished obligations, and therefore he had to suffer the consequences. In place of splitting the kindling he split his first finger wide open to the bone, and if Mrs. Medley had't been compelled to split the kindling all this while with a dull ax, John would surely have cut his finger clear off. It is strange how sentimental men will get sometimes anyway.

Clever Window Ad.

In the south display window of Eakin & Bristow's store may be seen a very clean bicycle advertisement, the product of Mr. John Eakin's ingenuity. The "ad" is designed to call attention to the Crescent wheel. The window is covered with white beans, and at the upper end is the word "we" inlaid with colored beans; immediately below is the shape of an ax handle also outlined by colored beans; then the word "the" followed by a "crescent" and a wheel also outlined by the use of colored beans, the "ad" reads: "We handle the Crescent wheel."

Improvements.

Cottage Grove is commencing to show improvement already by the erection of several desirable residences. J. I. Jones' new home in the southern part of the city, is fast nearing completion and will make a handsome addition to the residence part of the city. The cottage of Mr. Jas. Hart is now ready for the painter and paper-hanger, while the house belonging to Mr. Roberts, which will be occupied by C. Howard and family, is being rapidly pushed on to completion.

Salmon Eggs.

Mr. Earnest Sharp, assistant in the salmon hatchery at Siuslaw, who returned home last week, brought with him a number of fine specimens showing the several stages of the growth from the eggs, from the time they are received into the hatchery up to the time they are turned out full-fledged young salmon ready to take care of themselves. It is an interesting study, and the specimens are now on exhibition in Benson Drug Co's window.

"A word to the wise is sufficient" and a word from the wise should be sufficient, but you ask, who are the wise? Those who know. The oft repeated experience of trustworthy persons may be taken for knowledge. Mr. W. M. Terry says Chamberlain's Cough Remedy gives better satisfaction than any other in the market. He has been in the drug business at Elkton, Ky., for twelve years; has sold hundreds of bottles of this remedy and nearly all other cough medicines manufactured, which shows conclusively that Chamberlain's is the most satisfactory to the people, and is the best. For sale by Benson Drug Co, Cottage Grove, Jor Lyons, Drain Druggist.
