IN REACH OF ALL.

Many ponder over the word "millionaire" as conveying the idea of a vague and chimerical state of being far out of the ordinary and beyond the reach of all save a favored few. And many even look upon the men who own their millions with an eye of jealousy and a contemptuous feeling as though they were alone the great impediments to this world's happiness. These people never stop to consider that half the great money owners of the United States started with not as much as the average country store keeper of today and some of them with not even a single penny to their names. It is a fact very significant when we consider that the young man just emerging from college today stands upon a much better foundation than did Collis P. Huntington when he started, for he was nothing but a country store keeper only a short time ago, although now he is worth over $50,000,000. Chauncey M. Depew began his career in a country law office. Needless to say he had no small change to spare. Now he controls over 30 railroads and has a fortune of $3,000,000. The Hon. Russell Sage, this prince of all American financiers began his business life as an errand boy in a grocery shop. Now he is estimated to be worth $100,000,000. Of his success he speaks as follows, in Pearson's magazine: "No young man need despair, if he wants to be successful he has only to make up his mind to be honest and industrious, with proper economy, and he will succeed." John Wannamaker, the great dry-goods prince and politician began his career as a clerk earning three dollars a week. He is worth now something like $15,000,000.

These figures taken from a well written article in Pearson's March number fully illustrate what men can do and what is as much in the reach of the young man today as it was forty years ago. And when we more thoroughly consider how these men made their fortunes we cannot honestly condemn them for doing the same thing that we are trying to do every day—that is to get a start in the world. A great majority of these rich men have done no wrong in becoming rich for the tide has simply set in and they have taken it "at the flood." This same tide "young man" is setting in every hour of your life, and who is to blame if you do not set sail upon it? Is the community to blame? Is your country or its laws to blame, that gives you the opportunity? To become rich today is in the reach of all—true—destiny will not let all see it or no one would be rich for riches would then be common.

Take it in our own state, Oregon. A well known man of Salem came to that place in an early day with no more than the average pioneer. He is worth over a million dollars now. The story is told of how the richest man in Portland began his ascent in the world by removing a stump from the front of a store for ten dollars. He became worth several millions. Let no man become discouraged for the opportunity to become wealthy lies with you or you, and no man can tell how fortune may behave upon the morrow. Simply honesty, industry and economy are ever the guides that lead smiling fortune.—Oregon State Journal.

The new game law passed by the state legislature makes a close season for deer from November 1 to July 15; beaver are wholly protected for 20 years; pheasants, grouse, prairie chickens and quail are to be killed during the month of November, only; Mongolian pheasants are wholly protected in Jackson, Josephine, Coos, Curry and Clatsop counties for a period of three years. The penalty for the violation of this law is a fine of from $15 to $200, and costs.

I was reading an advertisement of Chamberlain's Colic, Cholera and Diarrhoea Remedy in the Worcester Enterprise recently, which leads me to write this. I can truthfully say I never used any remedy equal to it for colic and diarrhoea. I have never had to use more than one or two doses to cure the worst case with myself or children.—W. A. The Oregonian.

And the Bohemia Nugget for $2 per year, cash in advance. This is without doubt the greatest slubbing offer offered by Oregon newspapers today. The Oregonian is without doubt excelled by none, in point of news both local and foreign, is a clear print, and besides has that great redeeming feature, devoid of sensational and disgusting literature. Remember the two papers, the Weekly Oregonian and your home paper the Bohemia Nugget for $2.
