FRIDAY, MAY 19—1899.

Last Friday and Saturday evening's entertainment at the Martin hall demonstrated the fact that Cottage Grove hasn't a large enough hall. Standing room was at a premium, and not a little danger to life and limb was attendant. Too much attention to good ventilation and safety of the patrons of a public gathering place cannot be given. The proprietors of the hall have shown a marked inclination to make material improvements in the opera house since they took charge some few months ago and no doubt in the course of the summer will make their property a much more desirable place for public gatherings. However in case of packed houses such as last Saturday night's school entertainment afforded, chairs unless they are bolted together and set in stationary rows should never be used, and at no time should they be placed in the aisles of a hall. One loose chair, in the event of a fire, can be the cause of a hundred broken bones and perhaps death.

Claude Branton, while confined in the Lane county jail, wrote many letters, some sketches of his travels, also some poetry. In one of his poetic efforts, with reference to his crime, he wrote:

"My confidence in man is as I have said:

Three men can keep a secret providing two of them are dead."

No better proof of his murderous disposition could be asked for. Branton during all these months never once gave expression of regret for having murdered old man Linn, although he did confess to the crime. He was always looking for a loop hole through which to escape. His only regret from the time Deputy Sheriff Day arrested him until the moment he went through the trap, was that he didn't murder Green, his accessory to the crime.

James McCalley, one of the best known and certainly one of the most highly respected railroad men in Oregon met with a sad and sudden ending last Saturday noon in the frightful wreck in Cow Creek canyon. Mr. McCalley was a man respected not only by all his railroad associates but by all who knew him. He was honorable, just, and a faithful servant of his employers. The Southern Pacific has lost a faithful servant, and the community a just and honorable citizen.

The Eugene Guard had a magnificent writeup of the Branton execution. Mr. H. W. Rowland the very efficient city editor of that paper, who was in attendance upon the execution is responsible for it. The Guard has no occasion to regret its choice of city editors.

The Branton murder case is a thing of the past. The public has two regrets to file. One, that the murder of Linn was committed; the other, the murder of Linn having been committed that both murderers didn't hang together.

"Our democratic friends are becoming convinced that there is a conspiracy of the money power to increase wages. This is known to be one of the most devilish of the money devil's methods of deceiving the 'producing classes.'"—Ex.

Heart Failure!

A Common phrase! But why does it fail? If I mistake not, it is because of diseased blood, which induces and promotes a diseased growth in and around the heart. This is often called fatty degeneration of the heart. Now is the time to prevent this process before you become enfeebled or an invalid.

You will find that RADAM'S MICROBE KILLER will cleanse the blood, prevent disease growth, and fatty degeneration of the heart. Thus this remedy will prevent sudden or premature heart failure. Send or call for pamphlet.
