The Capital Journal has the courtesy to clip from its exchanges whenever a squib is published which the Journal thinks worthy of reproduction. This is to the credit of the Journal. As a rule county newspaper men don't expect to see the columns of larger papers filled with country "editorials" and news items, but when they do see an item taken from the country paper, they like to see the paper that thinks well enough of the article to reprint it, give proper credit for it, and not deliberately steal it. It's a little thing to mention, but its little things that count, and its little things that some of the "great" papers of Oregon deliberately steal. The Journal has set a good example.

The Oregonian is giving more attention to the mining interests of this section just now than ever before. In the past, the Oregonian has either been misinformed with reference to the value of the mining interest which lay in the back yard of its office or else wilfully ignored it. However the time has come when the Oregonian cannot afford to close her columns to the mining industries of this section either through ignorance of the true worth, or disinclination to assist in their development, especially when its columns are overflowing with Buffalo Hump literature.

Every road supervisor should realize the responsibility imposed upon him and do his duty. That's one thing that has been the matter with road work in Oregon. Supervisors, while no doubt, meaning well, have been a trifle negligent and at all times too lenient. Every man who is in debt to the county in the some of a road tax should pay it in good honest work, and if he isn't interested in good roads, and manly enough to pay the slight obligation which always reverts to his benefit, the road supervisor should see that he does it anyway. That's one of his duties.

In way of a mining item we might mention that in the Bohemia district is already to be found one 20-stamp, two 10-stamp, three 5-stamp, and two 2 stamp mills, making a total of 47 stamps in operation there at the present time, with a number of others going in this season. When it is taken into consideration that not one has failed to pay a handsome profit on the investment, its a pretty good showing.

Claude Branton as previously announced in the Nugget, before his execution confessed to the killing of Linn. Tuesday's Guard acknowledges receipt of a copy of said confession and published the same in full Thursday. His confession in the main concurs with the testimony of Green, his accomplice.

An effort is on foot to celebrate the Fourth of July in this city. If it is possible to secure financial support to make the celebration a complete success, by all means let's celebrate; but if we can't have a good one we had better get along without any.

There isn't much danger of a drought before time for the June rains.

THE A AND L ASSOCIATION.

Closing Exercises of the Alumni and Literary Associations.

Owing to lack of space and time the following report was omitted from last week's Nugget.

Our public schools haven taken one more forward step during the past year—that of organizing a literary society and an alumni association. These two organizations have met a long felt need in our high school work.

During the school year just closed the Athenian literary society has been the means of accomplishing much good for the high school pupils.

Extemporaneous speaking and debating have been the main features of the work—the most usable points of an education. No high school can accomplish the best results without an organization where all the students meet and carry on their debating their discussions and their social work. Students of this grade should have their meetings at least once a week under careful guidance.

The Alumni association now consists of about 35 members, many of whom have not only completed the course of study in our high school but have also gone far into or have finished the course of other higher institutions of learning, such as the U of O, Portland University, State Agricultural College and O. S. N. S. at Monmouth. This association, having become permanent, will meet annually to renew the ties of friendship of former school days, and at the same time give to each other and to this community an educational inspiration.

At the close of the work this year these two organizations met and rendered a program at the Martin hall to about 300 invited guests. There were many visitors and friends from other schools in the state who speak in the highest terms of our schools.

The program consisted of vocal and instrumental music, recitations and short addresses from members of the Alumni. Each participant did justice to his or her part. Space will not permit us to mention each part separately.

The main feature of the evening's entertainment however was a lecture by Prof. E. H. McAlister of the U of O. Prof. McAlister had chosen for his subject, "The Age of Inquiry." There could not have been a more appropriate subject for the occasion. The speaker held the large audience in rapt attention for about an hour. Each member of the Alumni and the public generally spoke in the highest terms of Prof. McAlister's lecture. Indeed the Alumni could not have made a better choice of speakers this year, and may express the idea of trying to secure him on other like occasions if possible.

The people of Cottage Grove and vicinity have reason to be greatly pleased with the work done this year in the public schools.

With the assistance of the new rock crusher this section of Lane county will soon have passable roads.

One member of the Fourth of July committee on finance reports having received subscriptions to the amount of $30 in less than an hour Wednesday morning.

A friend at our elbow aptly remarks that the copperhead American can very accurately measure himself by noting the effect on an audience of the names of Fuston and Atkinson or Hoar and Dewey.—Statesman.

The Portland Evening Telegram of May 19, printed an excellent map of the Bohemia mining district, in connection with a truthfully and ably written article. Thirty copies of that issue of the Telegram were sent Bohemia Nugget and were sold in fifteen minutes.

Heart Failure!

A Common phrase! But why does it fail? If I mistake not, it is because of diseased blood, which induces and promotes a diseased growth in and around the heart. This is often called fatty degeneration of the heart. Now is the time to prevent this process before you become enfeebled or an invalid.

You will find that RADAM'S MICROBE KILLER will cleanse the blood, prevent disease growth, and fatty degeneration of the heart. Thus this remedy will prevent sudden or premature heart failure.
