FRIDAY, JUNE 2—1899.

Telegraphic communication tells us that the brave boys of the Second Oregon have fought their last fight and gone back to Manila to rest up and prepare for the journey across the big pond to home and loving relatives and friends. Who of us is not boiling over with anxiety to see each and everyone of those noble fellows tread old Webfoot again? No honor we can impose upon them is half good enough for them. Who of us has not watched the Oregon death roll of late,—knowing that the boys were soon to come home—with a keener interest for fear one more would be called into the shadow of the inevitable before home and friends could be reached? Who of us did not eagerly scan the death record to see if some blue coated hero laid down his life just as the struggle ended, when we read the joyful news "They have been in their last fight?" Who will be so low as to say cutting things, and give vent to sarcastic remarks about the militia in the future? The boys who in the future spend their spare time learning the sciences of the soldier, are not deserving of the contemptible slurs and bitter cuts which were oftentimes thrust upon the old militia by those, who, in many instances, showed a white feather when it came to doing duty for their country, and at no time were the equal of the boys they abused and insulted. Hereafter the 'tin soldiers' phrase will have no place in the vocabulary of Oregonians. All Oregon will welcome the home coming of her soldiers.

The Eugene Broad-Axe pays S. H. Friendly the following compliment: "S. H. Friendly has stood the test in Eugene for a quarter of century and he has proven to be one of the best men for the farmers extant. He buys your wheat, oats, hops, wool, chittum bark, and always pays the top price."

The above is simply a compliment to Mr. S. H. Friendly from a business point of view, but there is another phase in Mr. Friendly's Oregon career deserving of notice. Mr. Friendly has always been in touch with the best interests of Lane county, and ever alert and ready to assist in the development of this section. We have no compliments to bestow upon Mr. Friendly because he deals extensively in chittum bark, wheat, oats, hops, etc., because there are many others who do likewise, and in so doing the benefit, to the farmers which is truly great, is, to said dealers, only a secondary consideration. Its purely a business proposition. But we are prepared to say that Hon. S. H. Friendly is as public a spirited man as ever added a dollar to the wealth of Lane county. With S. H. Friendly, nothing is too good for Lane county in particular, and Willamette valley in general, and he isn't afraid to go down in his pocket to back up the assertion either.

Bohemia mining district don't do very much blowing, but there's a hump on 'em just the same. To be appreciated they must be seen, and when once visited by mining men they never get through talking about them.

MEMORIAL DAY.

Observed in this City—the Graves of Honored Dead not Forgotten.

Last Sunday, a large audience gathered early at the Christian church in this city, to listen to the Memorial sermon, preached by Rev. Kellems of the Eugene Divinity school.

At 11:10 Ord Post G. A. R. of this city, which had fallen in line at the G. A. R. Hall reached the church and filed into seats reserved for the occasion.

For several weeks a large number of vocalists of this city have been in diligent practice under the leadership of Mr. Thos. Aubrey and the music furnished on this occasion bespeaks praise for instructor and choir alike.

Rev. Kellems' sermon was one of much thoroughness, in every sense logical, and at all times straight to the point. He paid many good appreciative compliments to the boys who carried the nation's burden in the dark days of '61-'65, likewise to the "flower of the nation" now in the service of the country.

Rev. Kellems read three texts, but he hastened to remark that the reading of the three texts did not indicate that he was going to preach three hours, and he didn't, but he held the close attention of his hearers for a full hour.

In reality he preached two sermons one touching upon the temporal the other the spiritual life of man. Such sermons, without reference to church denominations, are well worth the hearing, and those who were not appreciative of the effort made last Sunday were certainly not very good listeners.

DECORATION DAY was fittingly observed. At 10 o'clock the procession formed at the City Hall, under command of W. H. Lincoln, Post Commander Ord Post G. A. R. The procession consisted of Ord Post G. A. R., Eagle hose team No. 1, Rescue hose team No. 2, and the Macabee lodge of this city, making a very pretty procession. As soon as the procession was formed the march was taken up to the cemetery, reaching there shortly before 11 o'clock. While the backward spring and exceedingly cold weather had a tendency to make flowers scarce still many flowers had already been strewn over the graves of loved ones, and when the procession arrived many more gave up their perfumed lives in honor of the dead.

Upon arriving at the cemetery, Commander Lincoln formed the procession to the west, south, and north of the dedication grounds and the beautiful and impressive G. A. R. ritualistic dedicatory service was read by Commander Lincoln, Comrades Griffith and Morse performing that service.

At the close of the service the procession moved to the west, north and east visiting the graves of friends and comrades, scattering flowers upon the graves as they marched along, a very pretty custom. At the close of the march, by request of J. N. Boyd the procession and many spectators formed high up in the grounds and a view was taken. This closed the ceremonies at the cemetery and the march to the city was taken up.

At 2 o'clock in the afternoon Martin's hall was filled with people many returning home on account of not being able to get seats.

The program rendered was well received and fittingly adapted to the occasion. The singing by the choir was thoroughly appreciated, Rev. Gardiner's address, while quite long, was interesting, and showed a true unprejudiced heart. Comrade Miller's address was well received, by those present and pleasantly spoken of.

The double male quartette under the leadership of Mr. Aubrey closed the entertainment with the patriotic song "America," and amid the thanks of Comrade Miller the audience dispersed.

Branton's confession was far from worthy the notice it received by the press of the Willamette valley, but the perusal of it serves to strengthen the convictions of the many that he was a black hearted, braggadocio villain who, as he was, according to his own evidence, avoided by earlier associates. Even in his confession of a most diabolical crime he failed to exhibit manhood sufficient to refrain from bragging of and gloating over his conquests of women. In one sentence he boasts of his disloyalty, and in the next proves himself a murderer and a coward, and then whines for mercy.

Heart Failure!

A Common phrase! But why does it fail? If I mistake not, it is because of diseased blood, which induces and promotes a diseased growth in and around the heart. This is often called fatty degeneration of the heart. Now is the time to prevent this process before you become enfeebled or an invalid.

You will find that RADAM'S MICROBE KILLER will cleanse the blood, prevent disease growth, and fatty degeneration of the heart. Thus this remedy will prevent sudden or premature heart failure.
