

COMMENT.

A prominent mining man who visited this city last week in conversation with a Nugget man said in substance the following, which is worthy of space considering the authority:

People will not pay large sums for "prospects," but men that have made their money out of mines, are generally willing to develop properties, and when a real value is demonstrated they will pay a fair price, and not until then.

In mining districts bonds are given for one, two and three years and often five years; then the man of means is encouraged to invest, with a show to get his money back.

With capital Bohemia district may be made foremost among mineral districts. Give mining a show. If you have fifteen or or twenty locations sell or give them away, all but one. One good mine will make you well off, two poor ones will keep you poor forever. An undeveloped property is as big a load on one's hands as a poor one. Who will develop the district. Capital! "Let him in." Who will put in smelters, chlorination works, etc? Capital! Let him in.

Who will give us good times and enable us to discover the riches at our very door? Capital.

Who would rather avail themselves of some of the world's goods, this year, than wait five years.

In summary let us say, give the practical mining man a chance, remember that a one year bond, here is equal to only three months work which is not satisfactory or encouraging to those that would spend money to open our vast mineral resources.

There are too many attractive mining districts; we cannot afford to let any opportunity to interest the one side would escape us.

Geo. Willoughby of Eugene was in the city Thursday looking for a building for a bowling alley. He failed to find one.

During the winter of 1897 Mr. James Reed, one of the leading citizens and merchants of Clay, Clay Co., W. Va., struck his leg against a cake of ice in such a manner as to bruise it severely. It became very much swollen and pained him so badly that he could not walk without the aid of crutches. He was treated by physicians, also used several kinds of liniment and two and a half gallons of whisky in bathing it but nothing gave any relief until he began using Chamberlain's Pain Balm. This brought almost a complete cure in a week's time and he believes that had he not used this remedy his leg would have had to be amputated. Pain Balm is unequalled for sprains, bruises and rheumatism. For sale by BENSON DRUG CO., Cottage Grove. LYONS and APPLGATE, Drain Druggists.
