The Salem Statesman has purchased one of the latest improved power newspaper presses and expects to have the same turning out the Statesman about the middle of December. R. J. Hendricks, well known in political and newspaper circles of Oregon, in association with Geo. Saubert became identified with the Statesman early in the 80's and Mr. Hendricks has maintained a controlling interest since that time. Mr. Hendricks is progressive and up to date in his newspaper ideas and those who are acquainted with the history of the Statesman concur that to his untiring energy and determination to lift the one time raggedly dressed sheet into a prominent place in Oregon newspaperdom, is due the present influential standing and splendid circulation of Willamette valley's leading paper. When a paper discards the old hand press for a country power press its a sure thing that paper is growing; when the country press is discarded for a better one its a sure sign the paper is growing fast; when that press is thrown aside and a bang-up modern improved press of the latest pattern is placed in position that paper isn't only growing, and growing fast, but its taking a 2:10 clip for a place along side of the biggest of 'em. Success to the Statesman, and we might say, success to Bob too, but then he don't need it—He's a success anyway.

It seems to hurt the Review, a paper of a few hundred circulation published at Roseburg to think that the Plaindealer, the Review's peer, morally and intellectually, dared to criticise said Review's method of sticking its journalistic nose into other people's business, in the matter of publishing "news" items regarding the Bohemia mining litigation, and finds solace in the remark that "a paper that gives the news without fear or favor gets used to being maligned." Now this is good, but the honest (?) Review should have added, "without regard to the truth," for everybody knows that the scurrilous article which the Review allowed to disgrace even its columns, and which that paper is pleased to call "news" was as unwarranted as it is scurrilous, and the truth isn't in it. It is hardly necessary for the Review to mention the little affair again. Everybody knows it was a ridiculous and scabby falsehood, written by an individual who didn't have manhood enough to sign his own name to it. In fact its of little consequence anyway—those who happened to get a "marked copy" of that issue of the "only great" (Roseburg) Review—just consider the source.

We WOOD suggest to subscribers who have promised Bohemia Nugget WOOD on subscription that it WOOD be a brilliant idea if said subscriber WOOD bring in the WOOD this week. Of course we WOOD not use all of the WOOD this week but we WOOD like to have it in our borrowed WOOD-shed so we WOOD know where to get it when our neighbors shall have locked their WOOD shed. An arrangement of this kind WOOD enable us to burn our own WOOD and the subscription book WOOD look better. Line up boys and while you are lining up it WOOD be a good idea to WOOD up.

TOOK COUNTY FUNDS.

Deputy H. J. Day Betrays His Chief and Skips With $2110.49.

Friday Oct. 20, Deputy Sheriff H. J. Day left Eugene for Portland on official business. He was expected to return Sunday, but instead of coming he wired to his wife that he would be home Monday or Tuesday. Tuesday came but no Deputy. Mrs. Day became uneasy and telegraphed Mr. Day's brother at Newberg, who answered that he knew nothing of Deputy Sheriff Day's whereabouts. Mrs. Day consulted Sheriff W. W. Withers who wired the Hotel Perkins Portland, ascertaining that Day had given up his room Sunday the day he telegraphed his wife that he would return early in the week.

Sheriff Withers became suspicious and upon going over the county's books, of which Day as his first deputy had direct charge, found to his bitter disappointment that $2,110.49 of the public money which had not been turned over to the treasurer was missing.

The blow was a heavy one to Sheriff Withers not only from a financial point of view, but owing to his implicit confidence in his deputy.

The county court immediately offered a reward of $100 for news of Day's whereabouts, but he seems to have covered his tracks well, and thus far no information is at hand.

H. J. Day was perhaps as well known throughout this section as any man in Oregon. He has served as marshal of Eugene a number of terms, as well as deputy sheriff two terms under Jas. Noland, and has been closely identified with politics in the democratic party for the last 15 years. He was prominent in lodge circles in Eugene and had friends by the score who can hardly bring themselves to the belief that he would betray his greatest benefactor Sheriff Withers.

It is difficult even at this late day for many residents of Lane county to associate H. J. Day with the crime of appropriating public money to his own use. Nevertheless we are compelled to accept the situation as it is. In doing so, no matter how black we may paint the absconding deputy, we must raise our voice in admiration for the commendable and honest methods of Sheriff Withers. He has straightened up the affair with the county, and today he is the only man suffering for the crime and ingratitude of his favorite deputy, who so far as the looks of the thing is concerned might just as well stabbed his benefactor in the back. The affair places Sheriff Withers in an embarrassing position financially, but where there is a loss there is a gain. He has proved himself to be an honest man.

Many of the editors of this great commonwealth who never shot off a pop gun are busily engaged in giving the government advice as to how the war should be conducted.—Statesman.

The Boers captured two regiments and a Mountain battery of seven guns of the British Oct. 31. The English press is severe in its criticism of the management of the British war department.

Vice President Hobart is reported slightly improved in health.

Perry Ely, of Kelso, Washington, who has been looking after his Bohemia interests returned home Thursday.

CHAMBERLAIN'S PAIN BALM CURES OTHERS, WHY NOT YOU?

My wife has been using Chamberlain's Pain Balm, with good results, for a lame shoulder that has pained her continually for nine years. We have tried all kinds of medicines and doctors without receiving any benefit from any of them. One day we saw an advertisement of this medicine and thought of trying it, which we did with the best of satisfaction. She has used only one bottle and her shoulder is almost well.—ADOLPH L. MILLETT, Manchester, N. H. For sale by BENSON DRUG Co., Cottage Grove, druggist. LYONS & APPLIGATE, Drain Druggists.

A School Shoe RIGHT.

The Little Samson is the ideal school shoe for boys and girls who are hard on ordinary shoe leather. It is made from tough but soft and pliable leather, especially selected; has sole leather tip and double strengthened back. It is built upon principles of comfort, strength and good looks, a combination hard to beat.
