M'Kinley's Message

Text of President's Annual Address.

POLICY IN THE PHILIPPINES

Rebellion in Greatly Reduced and Made

Recommendation for Future Government to the United States: Favorable

At the thirtieth of your dissolution and to the end of the session of Congress, you have based your government on the policy, and under the policies of your administration, the results of which have been most satisfactory. The policy of the United States in the Philippines is now in its third year. The progress of the Philippines has been securable, and the satisfaction of its inhabitants has been great, both in the United States and abroad. The progress of the Philippines has been marked by the development of the country, the increase of its wealth,

and the extension of its commerce and manufacturing

interests. The policy of the United States in the Philippines is now in its third year. The progress of the

Philippines has been marked by the

development of the country, the increase of its wealth,

and the extension of its commerce and manufacturing

interests. The policy of the United States in the

Philippines is now in its third year. The progress of the

Philippines has been marked by the

development of the country, the increase of its wealth,

and the extension of its commerce and manufacturing

interests. The policy of the United States in the

Philippines is now in its third year. The progress of the

Philippines has been marked by the

development of the country, the increase of its wealth,

and the extension of its commerce and manufacturing

interests. The policy of the United States in the

Philippines is now in its third year. The progress of the

Philippines has been marked by the

development of the country, the increase of its wealth,

and the extension of its commerce and manufacturing

interests. The policy of the United States in the

Philippines is now in its third year. The progress of the

Philippines has been marked by the

development of the country, the increase of its wealth,

and the extension of its commerce and manufacturing

interests. The policy of the United States in the

Philippines is now in its third year. The progress of the

Philippines has been marked by the

development of the country, the increase of its wealth,

and the extension of its commerce and manufacturing

interests. The policy of the United States in the

Philippines is now in its third year. The progress of the

Philippines has been marked by the

development of the country, the increase of its wealth,

and the extension of its commerce and manufacturing

interests. The policy of the United States in the

Philippines is now in its third year. The progress of the

Philippines has been marked by the

development of the country, the increase of its wealth,

and the extension of its commerce and manufacturing

interests. The policy of the United States in the

Philippines is now in its third year. The progress of the

Philippines has been marked by the

development of the country, the increase of its wealth,

and the extension of its commerce and manufacturing

interests. The policy of the United States in the

Philippines is now in its third year. The progress of the

Philippines has been marked by the

development of the country, the increase of its wealth,

and the extension of its commerce and manufacturing

interests. The policy of the United States in the

Philippines is now in its third year. The progress of the

Philippines has been marked by the

development of the country, the increase of its wealth,

and the extension of its commerce and manufacturing

interests. The policy of the United States in the

Philippines is now in its third year. The progress of the

Philippines has been marked by the

development of the country, the increase of its wealth,

and the extension of its commerce and manufacturing

interests. The policy of the United States in the

Philippines is now in its third year. The progress of the

Philippines has been marked by the

development of the country, the increase of its wealth,

and the extension of its commerce and manufacturing

interests. The policy of the United States in the

Philippines is now in its third year. The progress of the

Philippines has been marked by the

development of the country, the increase of its wealth,

and the extension of its commerce and manufacturing

interests. The policy of the United States in the

Philippines is now in its third year. The progress of the

Philippines has been marked by the

development of the country, the increase of its wealth,

and the extension of its commerce and manufacturing

interests. The policy of the United States in the

Philippines is now in its third year. The progress of the

Philippines has been marked by the

development of the country, the increase of its wealth,

and the extension of its commerce and manufacturing

interests. The policy of the United States in the

Philippines is now in its third year. The progress of the

Philippines has been marked by the

development of the country, the increase of its wealth,