Roseburg has a new paper. It is a three column four page, known as the Roseburg Oracle, issued by the Roseburg Book and Job Printing Co. It is small but promises to grow. As the growth of newspapers is dependent upon patronage, its destiny is in the hands of the business men of Roseburg. It is bright and newsy for its size and it is probably edited by one of Oregon's best newspaper men. It has a column under the head of "Our man about town says," which will either establish the little paper in the good graces of a sufficient number of supporters to keep it alive, or send it to an early grave. However the Nugget wishes it success.

When you hear of a young man going wrong in any walk of life, you can conclude almost to a certainty that that young man has been spending more money than he earns. The condition of affairs in which he is placed may have been the result of one of many circumstances attendant upon those who earn a salary, dress well, feed well, and court the society of the night reveler; but the young man of today should stop and think of these things, and make up his mind that he is going to live within his means.

Democrat papers of Eugene and Roseburg stated last week that a large democratic club has been organized in Florence. Inquiry developed the fact that the so called 'large' club has seven members and that nearly if not quite half of these have for several years past called themselves populists. If the party shows the same strength all over the country, the populists may well ask. What has become of the democratic party.— Florence West.

The Oregonian would turn McBride down for re-election; but thus far it has failed to present a reasonable excuse for doing so. There may be others as good as Mr. McBride, but thus far he has proven himself pretty good timber and simply because the Oregonian is opposed to him for reasons best known to itself, it is no indication that McBride will not be re-elected. The Oregonian is usually on the losing side of the senatorial question anyway.

At the biennial meeting of the Oregon Republican Editorial Association, held at Portland Feb. 5th, the following officers were elected for the ensuing two years: President, D. M. C. Gault, Hillsboro; secretary, Wm. J. Clarke, Gervais; treasurer, S. S. Train, Albany; executive committee, J. B. Eddy, Forest Grove; J. J. Whitney, Albany; C. L. Ireland, Moro.

At the meeting of the Oregon Republican League held in Portland Feb. 6 Hon. S. B. Eakin of Eugene was elected delegate to the National Convention, Mr. Eakin is one of the most staunch republicans of Lane county and the honor fell upon the right man.

Hon. J. M. Church mayor of LaGrande, Oregon was elected president of the State Republican League at the League meeting last week. Mr. Church is a popular man a life long republican and no doubt will make an efficient presiding officer.

Hon. Ivan McQueen of Lorane is out for renomination on the republican ticket for representative for Lane.

Along with the 45 cent wheat the Guard of Eugene and the Sentinel of Salem may incidentally mention 50 cent potatoes.

Bohemia Nugget appreciates the gift of a number of volumes addressed this paper by Senator McBride, which are indeed valuable to any newspaper office.

While the Guard is ranting about 45 cent wheat, it might interest some of its readers by saying something about $85 and $100 work horses, $25 two-year-old steers and 4-cent-a-pound hogs in 1899 and 1900, as against $25@$35 work horses, $15 two-year-old steers and 2-cent-a-pound hogs in 1896. Come Brother Campbell, speak right out in meeting!

The old relic of a fifty years misadventure, who has "edited" the Broad-Axe since its birth, jumped upon the Nugget last week because it mentioned a bull dozing sheet published in Southern Oregon, as a blackmailer. The files of the Nugget show that once upon a time it spoke of the Broad-Axe in something of the same manner. Now if the Nugget had lied about these papers, no harm would be done by calling attention to it; but simply because the Nugget calls a paper by the right name occasionally, the old huckster, who is dying of a broken heart because of non-attendance of the sheriff's office, should not jump so far sideways.

The war in The Transvaal still continues. The British government has massed and placed on the field of battle the greatest army ever organized on English soil. England has met with many misadventures and up to the present time has made the worst of it, but the days are not far distant when she will, in her present methods are closely followed, strike a blow that will change the tide of battle, and again place her in the front rank of warring nations in the eyes of the world. England must fight this war to a successful issue. She cannot afford to lose. Should she acknowledge in any manner whatsoever the inferiority of her African enemy, she will then and there lose her prestige as a war nation. England will not admit of defeat. She will fight until she conquers.
