MINES & MINING.

Devoted to Bohemia Notes and Mining Items of General Interest to Mining Men.

Parties wishing to purchase a map of Bohemia should call on or address Bohemia Nugget. This map is a late production by Messrs Hard and Lloyd of this city, and is thoroughly accurate. Price $5.00.

John Brund, of Bohemia, who has been visiting for several weeks at his old Siuslaw home near Florence has returned leaving Cottage Grove for Bohemia last Sunday. Mr. Brund is interested in the Sweep-stake group with Knowles and Gettys, and the gentlemen are doing some extensive development work on their property.

The winter has been up to the present time one of the most open in the history of Bohemia. If the roads were what they should be freighting could be carried on at the present time.

The well known Champion property in Bohemia, owned by the Hartford Mining Co., of Chicago was sold last week to Benham and a kin of Tacoma, Wash., for something like $50,000. This is one of the most promising properties in Bohemia, and is well equipped with a 10-stamp mill and tramway, and hundreds of feet of development work; but the past few years has been poorly managed. The gentlemen who have made the purchase are men of large mining experience and it is said that the days of shut-downs and idleness at the Champion are numbered. This is a sale that will meet the approval of every mining man in Bohemia who knows the true state of affairs.

Portland has now a well organized mining exchange. Those of the Pacific Northwest interested in mining properties can congratulate themselves upon the business enterprise and energy of the people of the metropolis of Oregon. Some are of the opinion that a mining exchange should have been gotten under way at Portland before this, and Portland has been accused of being slow as to the mining interests of Oregon. This accusation has been made by those who have only the most friendly feeling for Portland, through their anxiety that that city should not let the opportunity slip, contending all the time that Oregon's metropolis is the ideal place for the leading Pacific Northwest Mining Exchange, and more particularly has bitter comments been made relative to Portland's slowness in the matter, on account of the many people who are interested in mining properties being desirous to rush their properties upon the market. Upon conservative consideration, however, it must be admitted that Portland has not been slow. On the contrary she has been on time. In fact Portland is usually on time in the majority of enterprises beneficial to that city and the state at large. It is not consistent that Oregon should have a mining exchange before there is business in the territory which, geographically shall come under its control, to justify. The fact of the matter is there is barely sufficient business at the present time; but Portland has taken the matter in hand and has organized ready for business. Now let those who have heretofore accused Portland of being slow, get a swift move on and stimulate the enterprise which means the life of Pacific Northwest mining, by their united effort. Geographically Portland is so situated that she will control the bulk of the mining business of Oregon and Washington.

Portland now has a smelter proposition under way that will revolutionize mining in Oregon. It is what many have looked forward to, but heretofore the developed properties of Oregon have not been sufficient to justify the erection of a first class smelter. It takes one to help the other. Development has gone on slowly but to an extent to give those who were interested in the smelter proposition, a feeling of security that the time was at hand to make the start. The start is made and a smelter is assured. Now the next thing is more development work. More ore in the dump. A smelter must have ore. Oregon mines have the ore. Get out the ore—the smelter will do the rest.

NOTES FROM ABROAD.

SPOKESMAN REVIEW.
The labor troubles which have been on in the Slocan country since last July are now reported at an end and the big mines are resuming operations.

Buffalo Hump to inst.—A large and extensively rich body of ore was recently struck on the Fortune claim, showing a grade running much higher than any heretofore encountered.

The miners union has granted permission for the miners in the Slocan country to go back to work at $3.25 per day.

The gross production of the Mercur, Utah, mines for December is officially stated to have been $54,345.

According to a report which J. H. Fisk recently made to the Seattle assay office, Oregon had on the first day of this year 533 stamps, of which 500 were working, and 150 more were being put in. Within a year Oregon may have 1000 stamps. Mr. Fisk estimates that Oregon's quartz mines are now yielding $5000 a day; the placer mines $7500 a day.—Oregonian.

Uncle Sam has 61 new vessels under construction for his navy.

The democratic state convention will meet in Portland April 12

Senator Simon has introduced a bill asking for $250,000 for the establishment of a government mint at Portland, Oregon.

The Oregon Weekly published at the University of Oregon made its appearance this week. It is a four page paper devoted to the interests of the university, with C. N. McArthur editor-in-chief, and E. N. Blythe and Grace I. Wold associate editors. It is a bright news paper and should be supported by every college student.
