JENNINGS BROS--BRUNEAU

Win The Famous Helena Mining Case--The Most Interesting Litigation in The Mining Northwest.

The great mining law suit which has demanded the attention of Judge Hamilton's Court at Roseburg, Douglas County, went to the jury Monday forenoon and after 4 hours deliberation that body returned a clear verdict in favor of Jennings Bros and Bruneau.

The title of the suit just decided was G. G. Warner, et al vs Jennings Bros and Chas. Bruneau, and was begun over a year ago to decide title to the "Helena" the richest mine on the Pacific coast located in the BOHEMIA MINING DISTRICT.

Warner set up that he had a prior location known as the Badger and that Chas. Bruneau, the locator of the Helena, jumped his claim. However this angel of truth (?) (Warner) let Mr. Bruneau go on with his prospect and development work without making any resistance, and in fact few people knew that he made claim to the property for nearly three years after Bruneau located and commenced development work.

Chas Bruneau is one of the manliest, and best thought of boys who has even entered the district and he worked away on his new location with firm determination which was rewarded with success. He soon struck flattering prospects, which promised to develop into magnificent showings. In the mean time being without money, he decided to sell an interest in the Helena to Jennings Bros in order to develop the property. The Jennings Bros having considerable means, development was immediately commenced. From the very first great leads of marvelously rich free milling ore was struck. There is always a vagabond in every community, and in this instance it proved to be this man G G Warner who had come here and made himself generally obnoxious to the working class in the mines by being instrumental in beating them out of a portion of their pay for labor performed for Mr McGee who was then running the property now known as the Noonday Co. Warner watched the progress of the rich strike at the Helena with hawk like eyes and as good prospects were reported he sent out rumors to the effect that he had prior location and that the Helena was his. These reports were received by most people acquainted with the affair as a joke, but Warner was in earnest. The adventurer had detected an opportunity to get something for nothing. He laid his plans in the start well, but his avariciousness-his desire not only to get the claim, but to get three or four years work and, perchance, a stamp mill for nothing added him.

He was without funds to carry on a case and so he hustled up men with capital and legal knowledge to whom he told a smooth story and made out a good case in his favor.

THE TRIAL.
At the trial in Roseburg over 70 witnesses were examined. In fact the best people of Cottage Grove and Bohemia were witnesses for Jennings and Bruneau, notwithstanding that this man Leigh, who is alleged to be the offal of pollution, made assertions that the Jennings' had all the skum and s-- of h--s of Cottage Grove and Bohemia as witnesses.

It is not necessary to speak disparagingly of many of Warner's witnesses. Some of them were good and worthy citizens, but were unfortunate in being subpoenaed upon the wrong side of the case.

Judge Hamilton instructed the jury Monday morning at 9 o'clock in his masterly and impartial manner, and the jury took 4 hours to deliberate, when they brought in a verdict in favor of Jennings Bros, and Bruneau. Judge Hamilton is one of the most able, painstaking and conscientious jurists in Oregon and his opinion is to be regarded as sound. There is hardly one chance in 100 of the higher court reversing the verdict.

Was composed of conservative and able men of Douglas county. Men who were not afraid to decide the case strictly upon its merits. Men who could not be influenced nor even approached by individuals who would barter the character of their best friends to gain a point.

About this time Jennings Bros. and Bruneau applied for a patent. Then the fun began. Warner set about concocting little underhanded, dirty schemes to get the owners of the Helena into bad repute, and create public sentiment against them.

About this time he hooked up with one Herbert Leigh, one of the large sized warts of the earth, who boasts of the guns he carries, the grave yards he has made, the suicides he has caused, who exists upon the money furnished by his sister, who it is said is a charming and praiseworthy lady who expends a certain amount of her income on this black sheep of the family just to keep him out West where he will not disgrace the good name of the family. This man Leigh commenced to slander and vilify the Jennings Bros, and Chas. Bruneau. He was not content with such underhanded methods but he deliberately slandered and in some instances threatened those who had sympathy for Chas Bruneau and the Jennings Bros.

With those who knew the author of this vile trash he had no influence, but he succeeded in poisoning some of Roseburg's good people who for a while were strongly opposed to the Jennings and Bruneau, but who have in the past few weeks got their eyes opened. The Review of Roseburg was also lead into taking the part of the globe trotters, and without knowing the circumstances, presumably relying upon the word of Warner and Leigh, published scurrilous and uncalled for comments in which they insulted the legal owners of the best mine in Bohemia and slandered the name of 75 per cent of the miners in Bohemia District.
