Southern Pacific's Famous Flyer

From San Francisco, December

"The Sunset Limited, the Southern Pacific's famous train of the Sunset route, will commence its service for the winter season on Friday, December

The schedule for this year is considered rather superior to any previous season, affording as it will opportunity for favorable view of points of interest along the line, and making close connections at New Orleans with trains of other lines to and from important centers of the east.

The train will leave San Francisco 5 P. M. on Tuesdays and Fridays, arriving Los Angeles about 7 o'clock the following morning, thus giving a daylight view of the orange belt of California.

Its connection at El Paso with through cars of the Texas & Pacific for St Louis, will place California passengers in that city from 10 to hours ahead of all other lines. The run from Houston to New Orleans, through the interesting plantations and bayous of Southern Louisiana, will also be in daylight, and the arrival in the city just in time to connect with trains for Washington, New York, Cincinnati, Chicago and other points.

The Sunset Limited equipment and service is up to its well-known standard. It is worthy of remark that the distance of 3900 miles from San Francisco to New York is traversed by the Sunset Limited in 114 hours, 12 hours longer that by the fast trains through Chicago, a distance of 3300 miles. The Sunset being a winter route, the traveler not subjected to any of the discomforts due to inclement weather conditions on more Northern routes."

Yours truly,
