ARGUMENT.

As an illustration of the matter found in the sheet across the way, and at the same time apologizing to our readers, who we are proud to say, are the best families in this city and vicinity, the Nugget submits a few brief extracts, from last week's Leader, which that paper calls political argument, as follows: "Down right falsehood;" "ignorance;" "devil hides his hideous ace;" "mentally defoned prodiges;" "another spew of slime from its venomous tongue;" "writhe and twist of the serpents;" "clense himself from the slimes in which he has so long been wallowing."

Think of the above coming from a paper, edited by a male person whose father is really intelligent, and thrown into the lap of a few people who have been unfortunate enough to get their names on its subscription books, as "political argument!" Think of Mr. Wooley calling anyone "ignorant," simply because one doesn't happen to gulp down the frenzied doctrines of a man who being gifted with a glib tongue is sharp enough to make a fortune under the guise of seeking the highest git in the power of American people! No one can deny successfully that Mr. Bryan, has not made a fortune in the last four years; and now to carry out the program he is campaigning for another nomination on a union ticket made up of disgruntled and worn out politicians and a few poor fellows who are standing out in the chilly damp and are holding the sack, when he, Bryan has no more of an idea of being elected to the presidential chair, than he does of flying to the moon. Mr. Bryan, relies upon his oratory to make the administration out extravagant; but in all of his utterances filled with criticisms and abuse (like some of the county papers which ape him) he has never advanced a sound theory, nor offered a logical remedy for any weak point he has attacked. The truth always hurts, hence the nasty expressions now current from the Guard, Democrat and the "rag" across the way.

The Oregonian has shown an unfriendly attitude to Congressman Tongue ever since the opening of campaign talk. How it can consistently come out and oppose Mr. Tongue after what it has in times past said in his favor is not quite clear to many people. The following is the bright complement the Oregonian passed upon Mr. Tongue in an editorial of April 8, 1896, just after the Albany congressional convention.

"The Albany convention has done its work well. Mr. Tongue is a man who will represent the intelligence of Oregon, who understands its needs and resources, and who has the energy and ability to make its influence what it should be in the national house of representatives. No man in Oregon has expounded the principles or upheld the traditions of the republican party more faithfully or more cogently than has Mr. Tongue. He understands the essential principles of the money question, and no telegram from Washington would be needed to furnish assurance that the platform of the St. Louis convention will be his platform. From a party stand point his nomination will be peculiarly gratifying, and his withdrawal from the senatorial fight last winter, after the caucus had declared for Senator Dolph, was prompt, in good spirit, and so far as appeared, conscientiously adhered to."

There are from 15 to 20 prisoners in the Oregon penitentiary from Lane county, who have been prosecuted and convicted by Prosecuting Attorney Geo. Brown and his able deputy, Attorney L. T. Harris of Eugene. At the last term of circuit court for Lane county seven criminal cases were on the docket. These arrested parties in every instance pleaded guilty to the charge. No better recommendation could be given the prosecuting attorney of this district and Attorney Harris than the foregoing. The prison rolls show the efficiency of their work and the fact that the entire criminal docket pleaded guilty, is conclusive that the average attorney does not wish to take any chances, when Brown and Harris are the prosecutors. Mr. Brown has indeed made an able prosecuting attorney.

Chas Statts of Independence representing a Montana Cattle firm was in Cottage Grove and vicinity Saturday and Sunday buying cattle. Mr. Statts is authority for the statement that yearlings are now worth from $15 to $20, and not very plentiful at that. Comparing this with $6, $8 and $10, the prices four and six years ago, it might be well for Mr. Bryan to sort 'o weave it into his 'crown of thorns' speal as another jabber in the face of home comfort and plenty. No doubt the farmers of this section who every year have a few head of yearlings to turn off will be greatly obliged to Mr. Bryan for any information he can give on the subject. Incidentally Mr. Bryan might find it convenient to pull the old wool lining out of the crown of thorns which was made out of 8 and 10 cent wool in '96 and put in a new one from a 14 cent fleece of 1900.

There was considerable difficulty among the "ward politicians" to get settled down to a regular ticket, and the fact of the matter is it was somewhat irregular all the way through anyway. However the matter of candidates for mayor and councilman was finally decided upon and everybody seems to be agreeable to the result. However the people who were perhaps more discommodated that others were the poor printers, who were kept jumping sideways to keep up with the sudden and radical changes in the tickets.

Among the Churches. There will be no preaching service at the Methodist church Sunday April 8th. Sunday school and Epworth League annual at the Masonic Hall.

NOTICE

Notice is hereby given that the prohibitionists of Lane county will meet in Eugene, Oregon on Saturday, April 14, 1900, at 9:30 a.m. in the court house, in the county commissioners room, for the purpose of nominating a full county ticket to be presented to the voters at the June election. This is to be a mass meeting and all prohibitionists are urged to attend, and will have a vote in the convention.

Thos. Gardner, of Amos, visited Cottage Grove Thursday and went through on the Bryan train, where he heard that gentleman speak Thursday night.

THEY'RE ARE OTHERS.

A Cottage Grove citizen who heard W. J. Bryan speak at Albany on the 28th of March does not speak very flattering of him and comments as follows:

Bryan is somewhat of an orator; he is not a man of logic. Bryan said the leaders of the republican party are disloyal to the American government, which was founded by Washington and principles set forth by Lincoln, and that honor and equal justice no longer pervades the republican ranks. He pictures out a deplorable condition of the masses of the American people, who are being crucified upon the "cross of gold." Now is this not preposterous? Why didn't he ask how it was that the farmers could come as far as 20 miles in carriages drawn by nice fat horses, put them in a lively stable and go to a hotel for their meals? All who came were well dressed, were able to pay the S. P. Co for special trains from Lebanon and Harrisburg and that he, Bryan, got $220, for his service. Why didn't he have a word of cheer to offer the people? What was the condition of those people four years ago, when Cleveland gave up the reins? Why didn't he tell that there are today about 3,000,000 more people employed throughout the United States than there were four years ago, with an increase of wages from 15 to 27 per cent.

Four years ago 147 factories in the United States were shut down and many went into the hands of receivers. Today they are all running night and day with increased capacity and there are today 27 new cotton factories in the Southern states under construction. We hear from all over the country demands for laborers at good wages. Oh, well, Harvey Scott writes everything in the Oregonian and Mark Hanna handles all the money, and has been doing this for the last four years because there will have to be another president to elect some day. Well the facts are simply that there is today more money in circulation than ever before,—everybody has money in their pockets; there is almost unlimited demand for every article of produce, and the producer realizes a good profit. Mr. Bryan simply wants to exalt himself to be a president, but alae, there are others.

Something like 800 people were at the depot to get a look at Bryan, The Nebraska gentleman was on the car platform with his bland smile to welcome them. Very little enthusiasm was manifested.
