FRIDAY, APRIL 27, 1900.

Some of "God's Regular Army" people were begging board and lodging, likewise funds, on the streets of Cottage Grove this week. These people may be all right, but it is evident that there is no field of work for them here. If they are of any benefit to mankind from a reform point of view, their legitimate field is in the cities. That being the case they should seek their support in the cities. Charity should begin at home. Cottage Grove has churches and upright and honorable preachers who look after the spiritual welfare of the inhabitants of this community, and naturally expect and derive their support from the people of this section. Before we extend our charity to those outside of our legitimate field we should be satisfied that we have done all the good we can in our immediate vicinity. The frequent visits of tourist preachers especially of irregular denominations should be discouraged by non-patronage.

SLYCOON DAVIS.

Those who expected something great in the way of oratory and logic Saturday evening were sorely disappointed in Davis' speech. Instead of forcible statements from which logical conclusion could be deduced he dealt in impossibilities entirely untenable. He assumed imaginary conditions of affairs and dilated upon them to rid himself of surplus steam. The conditions of the masses as he portrayed them never could nor never did exist. He built them up as he went along in order to harrow the feelings and work upon the minds of the credulous with the evident belief that his listeners were too stupid to detect his fallacies. His exaggerated pictures as the result of too strict economy were ridiculously absurd yet he thrust them on the public as though they were the results of the study of his mighty brain. "Where ignorance is bliss 'tis folly to be wise" was no doubt his maxim. That tear fetching romance about the goldbug husband with a wife and starving babes thousands of miles away begging for bread was enough to make a cowboy weep and pull his gun. It was too silly for even a child to believe let alone grown people. Not saying that the "cyclone" lied about this little matter it is safe however to say that he handled the truth very recklessly for in this fair land of plenty we have never yet heard of such a case of abject poverty. We have never yet heard of anyone even in Texas starving or crying for bread except through the paragon of a romancer and we conclude that this was in his own private part of the country where he has these things occur whenever he hears of a sound money man talking away from home. This is the rot that he would cram down the yoemanry of the country under the guise of logical facts. His absurd egotism capped the climax when he asserted that it was easy to run a government and a simple thing to do. Did Jefferson, Lincoln and other person find it so. Strange, 'tis passing strange, that at this late date this apostle of reformation should rise up and solve this difficult and vexed national question, and with a simple turn of his magic wand send this grand old government gliding along the ringing grooves of progress without stopping to take on wood or water. Compressed air no doubt is his secret. What he had to say about our nation having to consult Europe on the money question and the way he said it was so funny that even the children laughed for it had been a long time since they had seen a real live clown and he did look so much like a picture from a comic almanac. After warming himself into a rant he roared imaginary evils and screeched imaginary remedies never touching a living issue. He is a fair sample of the natural born kicker and is out for the spoils. If Bryan expects to be swept into the White House by this advance agent he might as well quit the show business, blow out the gas, and go to bed for the next four years.

Brother L. F. Wooley, of the Cottage Grove Leader quotes an item from the Eugene Register regarding a statement that laborers are wanted in that vicinity at $2 per day. Mr. Wooley heads the item "Oh, What a Lie," and infers that such a thing is impossible. We desire to call the attention of this apostle of Bryanism to the notice in this issue of Campbell & Alexander, of Comstock, only ten miles south of Cottage Grove, who have been advertising for the past month for timber men at $2 per day and can't secure them. The little men who propose to butt the prosperity locomotive off the track are the same ones who predict national calamity in case of the defeat of Bryan and his hobbies.—Roseburg Plaindealer.

COMPLIMENTARY.

In naming James Hemenway of Cottage Grove and Ivan McQueen of Lorane on the legislative ticket the republicans exercised judgment in distribution of legislative honors. Southern Lane with its extensive mining interests needs a man in the legislature conversant with the needs of mining legislation and Mr. Hemenway if elected will labor incessantly to that end not forgetting the wants and requirements of other sections of the county. Ivan McQueen knows the needs of Western Lane. Being well posted and formidable in debate he is amply qualified to hold his own with the best of them where Lane's interests are concerned.—Register.

The "confused" sheets of Oregon are as usual, hard up for campaign fodder—it was over thus, so far as that is concerned;—but the silliest thing uttered thus far this campaign, is the remark of the Albany Democrat, one of the out-for-the-pot organs, when it snarls at the Nugget because it remarked that it was quite a jump-down for Kincaid from secretary of state to the nomination of county judge. Anyone but a fool would admit as much on the face of it and let it go at that. But the brazen and ridiculous thing about the Democrat's remark is the comparison of Kincaid to Washington. If this wouldn't singe your whiskers and make the immortal Washington turn back up in his grave, nothing will.

The Leader last week berated O. F. Knox, republican nominee for county judge, and for want of no better ground for fault finding, cited the fact that when Mr. Knox was mayor of Lemati, he refused to publish the city's itemized expense account in the Leader, stating that if the people wished to know what disposition was made of the city funds they had recourse to the recorders books. For this offense to the 24th populist sheet, the editor denounces Mr. Knox and in the dirty and foul manner characteristic of the manipulator of that (hand) organ insinuates that Mr. Knox is dishonest and that he would be apt to be a party to corrupt methods were he elected county judge. This is about the size of the honor and integrity of the average populist paper anyway. Dishonest themselves, in a majority of cases, and always thirsting for public patronage, if they are refused that which they ask for, no matter how just the refusal, they always reach for their handiest weapons, slander and abuse and proceed to ply the lash. In this case, it is simply a guarantee of more votes for Knox. The people acquainted with the editor of the Leader and with

Mr. Knox, will smile a sad smile when they read Mr. Wooley's criticism of the republican candidate. Mr. Knox is known far and near in this community, and it will take a man with a reputation for truth and veracity about 100,000 degrees better than that of the gay editor of the 24th across the way to jam such rot down the necks of the average voter.
