If there is an ideal place in Oregon for the introduction of a creamery it is in South Lane county. It has been demonstrated beyond all doubt that it is one of the best paying propositions yet introduced in Oregon, and the farmers and business men of this section should take active measures to look into the merits of the creamery business and if possible encourage the introduction of one here. Would it not be a good idea to call a meeting and appoint a committee to inquire into the creamery business and designate a time to again meet and file a report? There would be no expense of consequence attached to an investigation; it would probably result beneficially to this community. The Nugget extends an invitation to those who are interested in enterprises calculated to benefit this section of the county, to discuss the proposition through the columns of this paper.

With such men as McKinley and Roosevelt at the head of the republican ticket there is little fear of defeat in November. This country will enjoy another four years of prosperity, by the good vote of the masses of the people who have observed the difference between the republican administration, which bases its principles upon substantial business hypothesis, and then practices and works out what it preaches, without fear of failure, and the other party—the name of which is a trifle uncertain just now—which exists upon theories, any one of which, up to date, has never been found worthy of practice.

It is, indeed, hard to see the result of the recent Chinese outbreak. Were one European nation only, involved, the contention that the affair might be patched up in a manner not materially damaging to the Chinese empire might pass current; but when open warfare against all of the great nations of the world is advanced, it is a good indication that the Chinese wall is tottering and about to fall, and in the event of the fall the Chinese empire will be under it.

Sunday morning's Register contained the pictures of President McKinley and Governor Theodore Roosevelt. The Register's cuts and print is the best yet produced by the papers on this coast. The proprietors of the Register are deserving of much credit in their efforts to keep in the lead, not only in the publishing of good, pure reading matter, but in taking on the finishing touches in the matter of illustration.

ABOUT A CREAMERY.

In answer to a letter of enquiry from the Nugget office, to C. H. Markham, general passenger agent for the Southern Pacific Company, that gentleman, commenting upon the advisability of encouraging the dairy interests of this section, says: "The movement is gaining ground all through the Willamette valley and it seems to us Cottage Grove presents a good field for a creamery, and any efforts you may put forth to encourage your people to interest themselves will be amply rewarded, as there is nothing the farmers can do that will pay as large returns as will dairying. Development of the mining interests in that section provides a good local market which we understand is now being supplied from other sources."

It is rumored that a wedding will occur in this city July 3, two of Cottage Grove's popular young people being the contracting parties.

In March of this year the creameries of Marion and Linn counties manufactured 18,000 pounds of butter. In May of this year the creameries of these two counties turned out 55,000 pounds. This remarkable increase of over 200 per cent, is only a beginning of growth, for several more creameries and skimming stations are now in course of construction, and others are being planned. This does not take into account the farm creameries, nor does it include the cheese factories. The development, while it has been greatest in these two counties, is by no means confined to them. It is going on in Washington, Polk, Yamhill, Benton and adjoining counties. Mr. T. S. Townsend, who owns the White Clover creamery in Salem, and several others in Oregon, is about to establish a cheese factory at Sheridan. May the good work go on. There is no sort of danger of over production. During a large part of the year our people can ship butter to New York City in competition with the Eastern producers. The freight is two cents a pound and fresh butter from Oregon, scientifically made from green feed, or part green feed, will sell for a cent and a half to two cents higher in the New York market than the product of the Eastern creameries from dry feed, or from cold storage, during the cold season. The difference will pay the freight, or nearly so. The whole country is our market. And this does not take into account the increasing demand from Alaska and from the Pacific ports. The real development and prosperity of the Willamette valley has only commenced. Our people are just beginning to come to their own. Their province is to feed the people of the mining and lumber regions and the cities. They can do it. They can produce enough butter and meat products to make up for all the grain ever heretofore grown, and still not reduce the grain product of Oregon one bushel. They will improve the fertility of the soil, and thus require a small acreage to grow as much grain as they have formerly produced.—Statesman.

The silver republicans of the state of Washington have dubbed themselves "Lincoln Republicans." If it so happens that the immortal Lincoln is in a position to look down from the star-decked heavens and let his sad eyes rest upon those disgruntled yaps, it's a two to one bet that he is thanking his lucky stars that he was assassinated.

The Nugget acknowledges receipt of tickets to Oregon's Fortieth Annual State Fair which will be held in Salem during the month of September, commencing on the 17th and closing on the 22nd. The Nugget man is appreciative of the courtesy extended, and if walking is good may attend—b'gosh.

believer or "bluffer," although holding what is called the poorest hand, wins the money. I might add that, to be a true game, the cards should be played with the faces up so that the players could see them. Then they could exercise their foresight, make calculations, and provide for attack and defense, with such intelligence as they might possess, instead of being, as now, victims of chance, and helpless in spite of their wits.

The distinction drawn between strategy and deception as the underlying principles of the true game, and the mere play of cards which is ranked as no game, may seem finely drawn. The difference between ozone and malaria is also slight. But one is invigorating and life-giving, while the other is baneful and death-dealing. So the true game is healthful, building up and developing mind and body for the serious work of life, while card-playing is degenerative leading to a false standard of conduct, and to a dependence upon the hazard of chance. It is essentially and "per se" demoralizing; with an influence akin to the play of "stealing" and "picking pockets," sometimes practiced by the "hoodlums" of the street. These plays cultivate, like card-playing, undesirable qualities, but as they are not quite analogous, so they are not quite so vicious in principle; for they are wanting in the deleterious element of chance, and leave the victim some room for defense by the exercise of vigilance.

For these reasons it is evident that the common feeling of distrust as to the ethics and moral influence of card-playing does not rest upon prejudice nor bigotry, but upon deep philosophical principles. The instinctive dread of the immoral and corrupting influences of the play has sound reasons for its basis, and it should be cherished until it becomes a positive fear.

STOCK AND FARM.

The poultry business has increased four fold in the Northwest in the past three years, and it is growing faster than ever now.

It is the opinion of the leading buyers of mohair in Oregon that the clip of this state for 1899 amounted to not less than 180,000 pounds, and that of the present year to at least 240,000 pounds.

The goat is less subject to disease than the sheep, but the American Sheep Breeder says the sheep and goat are so closely allied that treatment in the case of diseases is the same for both animals.

The Corvallis Times reports that John Smith, of Benton county, Oregon, secured a clip of 3800 pounds this season from his flock of 480 sheep. He sold the wool for 17 cents per pound.
