FOR PRESIDENT
WILLIAM MCKINLEY
OF OHIO

FOR VICE-PRESIDENT
THEO. ROOSEVELT
OF NEW YORK.

A number of valuable cows owned by the citizens of this city have been killed by the Southern Pacific Co. this season. In many instances the owners will get pay from the company, but the amount received from the company will hardly compensate the owner whose cow "just suited," and to whose family a cow was an actual necessity. Had the cow ordinance which was considered last spring, gone into effect the cows would, in all probability, be alive today and doing business at the old stand, the owners would not be looking for a "No. 1" milch cow, and the streets and sidewalks of the city would be in much better condition.

There seems to be little talk, other than good natured comment, regarding the coming presidential election. The people generally seem to have made up their minds as to which way they will cast their vote next November, and it is a safe prediction, judging from the financial condition of the people today as compared with that of four years ago, that their minds are made up to cast that powerful little slip of paper for one William McKinley, who at present resides in a house called "The White House," at Washington, D. C.

Jeffries, the alleged champion of the prize ring of the world, has declined to meet the winner of the Sharkey-Fitzsimmons fight, stating as his reason for refusing that there would be no credit in whipping a man who had fought another hard battle the same week. Perhaps he has also taken into consideration the credit that would naturally fall to the other fellow if he should succeed in putting the big Jeffries out the same week in which he had fought another hard battle.

Caleb Powers, accused of conspiracy in the murder of Goebel, of Kentucky, has been convicted of the crime and sentenced to life imprisonment, by a jury composed of "eight democrats, three anti-Goebel democrats, and one republican" who lied when he took the oath administered to the jury. Ye gods, Caleb! Why didn't you "gang out like a gude mon an' be hangt," and not make so much trouble and expense.

It is not as yet definitely known which one of the "important questions" Mr. Bryan will call the "paramount issue" next presidential campaign. Its a 16 to 1 bet, however, that it will not be "imperialism."

Colonel Bryan may never be president of the United States, but he has made a roaring success in making a shaggy, long-eared ass out of the democratic trick mule.

An exchange says that there appears to be more electricity in the air this year than usual. Possibly its campaign thunder.

BRYAN'S CLAP-TRAP.

The Oregonian.

The Helena Independent, an exponent of Bryanism and a sincere admirer of would-be United States Senator Clark's methods of purifying politics, makes pitiful and even pathetic plea from day to day in the name of the toiling masses for the defeat of McKinley as the one thing necessary for the financial equality of all mankind and the perpetuity of American institutions. The following paragraph illustrates the style and argument employed by that organ in its efforts to secure votes for Bryan:

"All day she had watched her baby brother while her mother was away at work. Relieved by her mother's return, she fell asleep at an open window and fell to the pavement, being instantly killed." So died little Anna Cossio, aged 4 years, in New York City last week. The awful heat, the close walls, and low ceilings of the four little rabbit hole rooms that left no breathing space. Five children and a mother working to eke out a miserable existence. The 4-year-old doing the work of a nurse all day, doing a woman's work in the playtime of life. Yes; wages are rising."

While recognizing the pathos of this picture and being moved to pity for the condition of the Cossio mother and children, one is puzzled to know what special feature of the policy of the present administration is responsible for it. "Imperialism," militarism," or the repudiation of the doctrine of 16 to 1? There are doubtless matter-of-fact, commonplace people in considerable numbers who will see in the circumstances and incidental tragedy depicted in the paragraph quoted the influence of "awful heat, the close walls, the low ceilings and the four little rabbit-hole rooms" in which this mother and her five children lived, not evidence of an unwise governmental policy, but of human short-sightedness and parental irresponsibility. Wages for the class of labor that this wretched mother and thousands like her perform and have performed throughout the ages as a means of keeping base life afloat, are not subject to fluctuation. The charwoman's wages in New York City have never been much beyond the starvation point, whether the one political party or the other was in power. They were no better in the first Cleveland administration, when industrial forces were literally taking the country by storm, than in his second administration, when labor—even skilled labor—reached low tide in remuneration and begged for employment of any kind at any price.

In all ages of the world irresponsible parentage has subjected helpless childhood to conditions of misery from which death offered the only release. To cite examples of this kind as evidence that the country is in a bad way industrially by reason of its governmental policy, is the cheapest political clap-trap, the shallowest demagoguery. It is an insult, moreover, to the intelligence of the community and to the sturdy common sense of its voters. Yet this is a fair sample of the stock arguments by which the democratic journalists—so-called—of the Rocky Mountain States seek to keep their states in the Bryan column. No wonder that republicans have hope of carrying even Montana with intelligent methods, or that to this end republican daily newspapers have recently been started in the three chief cities of the state—Helena, the capital and head center of the Clark pull and push; Butte, where Daly holds sway, and Great Falls, where both factions claim important following.

Clearly, there never was a better opening for a "campaign of education" than is presented in Montana this fall. The democratic contention, when not puerile, as in the example above noted, is most mischievous. This is witnessed in its constant attempts to array the forces of capital against those of labor, or to use the demagogue's pet phrase, the "poor" against the "rich." In either phase it is utterly contemptible and meaningless, except as it appeals to shallow men whose very existence is a grievance, the notes of which, whether socialistic, anarchistic, populist or hybrid democratic, "bray harsh discordance on the air."

An order was made some time since, by the city marshal, requesting that property owners drive the nails down in their respective sidewalks. Some of these days the marshal will take his hammer and go on a still hunt for those protruding nails, and do the job himself, and then the property owner will have a bill to pay to the city. It would not take but a few moments for each property owner to comply with the request of the marshal, thus saving considerable expense, and materially improving the looks of the sidewalks.

The Cottage Grove postoffice has been changed from a Fourth to a Third class office. This change has been looked for for some time and it is no surprise to Postmaster Sherwood, as the receipts of the office has entitled it to the Third class for some time.

Bryan tells us that "Man, the handiwork of God, comes first." Why didn't he say "Me und Gott," and done with it?

The allied forces seem to have had the key to the city of Pekin, and they didn't have much trouble finding the keyhole, either.

REBECCA'S SOCIAL.

The ice cream social given by the Rebeccas on Wednesday evening at Martin's Hall was a success in every sense. The hall was more than comfortably filled with both young and old and everyone who attended brought a large ice cream appetite with them. The entertainment opened with a prelude on the piano by Miss McQueen and was charmingly rendered. Then followed Miss Gracie Lincoln with a comic song entitled "The Kid That Knows it All," which was so well rendered and appreciated that she received a rousing encore, and gracefully responded by singing the pathetic and beautiful song, "Mamma is in Heaven." After this Miss Nina Ostrander sang "Believe," in a clear and pleasing manner and won the approbation of the large audience. The feast of cream was then announced and the relish for it was so great that the long tables in the center of the hall had to be reset four times. The cake that contained the gold ring was then cut and distributed by numbers, which was the cause of much merriment and lots of speculation as to who should get the gold ring. It was won by Miss Sina Orrell. Everybody was delighted with the entertainment and all had a real good social time and went to their homes saying and thinking all manner of good things about the Rebeccas.

ATTEMPTED SUICIDE.

A. Carlson, a logger at Alta, a wood camp near Comstock, attempted suicide at that place Wednesday forenoon. Carlson had been on an alcohol drunk for a week or more and had become unbalanced. He had the impression that some one was trying to kill him. He purchased a razor and attempted the job himself, making five severe gashes in his throat, but none of them deep enough to cause death, although he almost cut either juggler. Dr. Wall was wired just in time to catch the afternoon passenger, and attended the injured man's wounds at the earliest moment. The doctor reports him not in danger. He was taken to the hospital at Roseburg Thursday morning.

BOUGHT PROPERTY.

George Fleeman, of Eugene, who visited here a few days last week, was so favorably impressed with Cottage Grove and surrounding country that he purchased a two-acre tract in Gowdyville, and will build and move here this fall.

SUMMONS.
In the Circuit Court of the State of Oregon, in and for Lane county.

Nancy Jane Rodelheim, Plaintiff vs. L. Rodelheim, Defendant.
To L. Rodelheim, Defendant: In the name of the State of Oregon, you are hereby required to appear and answer the complaint of the plaintiff, Nancy Jane Rodelheim, in the above entitled court and cause, now on file with the clerk of said court, on or before the first day of the next regular term of said court, to-wit: On or before the 8th day of October, A. D. 1900, and you are hereby notified that if you fail to so answer, for want thereof, the plaintiff, Nancy Jane Rodelheim, will take judgment and decree against you for the relief demanded in the complaint, to-wit: dissolving the bonds of matrimony between the plaintiff and defendant and restoring plaintiff to her former name, to-wit Nancy J. Stewart.

This summons is published in the Bohemia Nugget, a newspaper printed, published and of general circulation in Lane County, Oregon, and is published once a week in said paper for not less than six weeks prior to and until the 8th day of October, A. D. 1900, by order of H. R. Kincaid, County Judge of Lane County, Oregon, made the 22nd day of August, A. D. 1900, in Chambers.
Date of First Publication, August 24th, 1900.

JEROME KNOX,
Attorney for plaintiff.
NOTICE OF DISSOLUTION OF PARTNERSHIP
Notice is hereby given that the co-partnership heretofore existing between Mrs. Jane Benson and J. S. Benson under the firm name of the Benson Drug Co., has this day been dissolved by the mutual consent of the parties, J. S. Benson retiring therefrom.
The business will be continued in the firm name under the management of Mrs. Jane Benson, who assumes and will pay all claims against the firm.
The accounts due the Benson Drug Co., have been placed in the hands of J. S. Melloy, Esq., by the former partners with instructions to collect the same in order that the business may be settled up, said retiring partner still retaining an interest therein.
Dated at Cottage Grove, Oregon, this 22nd day of August, 1900.

Mrs. JANE BENSON,
J. S. BENSON.

MOTHERS!

Don't Let Baby Suffer.
THERE IS ONLY ONE THING KNOWN for aiding the teething process and slow growth in infants and children, and that is, for very obvious reasons, called ANTIFRET. It stops the fretting, restlessness, general febrilities, colic and diarrhoea. Prevents brain troubles and convulsions. Renders lancing gums unnecessary. Has been estimated that five millions of babies die annually for want of mothers knowing what to do. Dentition is the danger-making her teeth. Your child needs bone making material. ANTIFRET supplies this want. Is tasteless, dissolves in milk and taken easily. One box will save your baby untold misery. Sent postpaid by return mail on receipt of 50 cents. Full instructions with each box. Address INLAND DRUG CO., 224 Washington Street, San Francisco, CAL. Antifret so certainly relieves teething babies that we will on all packages sold by mail refund the money by sending stamps in full for those returned within 30 days not over one fourth used.
