What to Wear!

When women see a stylish, handsome jacket, you often hear them say: "Oh dear, I wish I had one like that, but I'm sure it costs so much."

Now it's the surest thing in the world they're not familiar with the PALMER GARMENT.

They're absolutely correct for style—none made any more perfect as to that, and the price is within reach of any woman's pocket-book.

My! if every one could see them, how easy it would be to settle the question of WHAT SHALL I WEAR?

Eakin & Bristow.

FROM THE PHILIPPINES.

The following letter comes from one of our brave soldier boys who went from here as a volunteer at his country's call. It will be of interest to many, and especially to mothers who have sons in that distant isle beyond the sea. Some of the minor details are omitted, but the main portion is here given:

Mariquina, P. I., Aug., 13, 1900.

EDITOR BOHEMIA NUGGET:—I received last night a letter from mother, who told me she had been to see you, and had given you the little piece I sent home; and also that you wished me to write a description of the Philippino and his habits.

Well, sir, you understand I am no professional writer or even a common one, but a very poor one, but I will try to do the best I can.

The Philippinos as a rule are a very peculiar race. They are not a real black color but more of a brown color and the women have long flowing hair, black as jet and shining like silk. The men's hair is cut in a kind of pompadore fashion.

If you should see a woman walking along the street or elsewhere and she has anything to carry she always carries it on her head, no matter what it is. The men have a piece of bamboo on which hang two baskets, one on each end. In these they place anything they wish to carry. They can carry 80 to 100 pounds with the greatest of ease, and keep up a sort of dog-trot all day long. The horses they have are small but strong. One of the little fellows often have to draw in a small cart three and four persons, and they never think of giving them a rest, but drive them as fast as they can go till they entirely give out, for it is their belief that if they can go fast their horses have to, no matter how great the load; the plows they use have only one handle and are drawn by a caribou or water buffalo, a huge beast and very slow but strong. They cannot stay out of the water very long, two or three hours at most. On hot days the river can be seen lined with caribous large and small.

As for dress the Philippino is never very extravagant. He wears white pants and a shirt which hangs loosely outside of his pants, and a pair of wooden soled shoes. The women wear the same kind of shoes that the men do. They are called zopadoes. They also wear for a waist a piece of calico which has huge but short sleeves in it, and for a skirt they take a common piece of calico, wrap it about themselves and it is made fast at the waist. This consists of the clothing.

In nature the Philippino is somewhat like an American Indian. He is cunning and deceitful and often pretty sharp, but they have not a great deal of courage. It takes about fifty to seventy-five of them to whip ten American soldiers.

Well, sir, it is not a very good description of the modern googoo, but you can correct the mistakes and when I get home I will come and see you and give you better satisfaction, but at present I must close as fatigue call is being sounded, so Adios Senor.

Yours Respectfully,

W. B. STINNET,

Co. B, 27th U. S. V. Infantry.

August 16th, 1900.

Dear Sir:—Yesterday at 6 p. m. another brave lad of Company B passed away. He was a friend to all so I have ventured to try to write a very small poem, and send to you, which, if it suits you, you can publish. He died at the regimental hospital and in a very few minutes will pass by and we will turn out and pay our respects to our friend.

The Death of J. R. Saunders, Private of Co. B, 27th U. S. V. Infantry, Mariquina, P. I.

One more brave heart of Company B, Ceased its throbbing yesterday, And today his spirit's with the Lord above;

And his mother, now at home, Will soon be with him at the throne, Where the light of Christ in heaven makes all love.

A brave, true lad, surely was he, Next to the pride of Company B; And loved was he by everyone, no doubt, But e'en the bravest have to go, For he who rules all willed it so, And J. R. Saunders was not one to be left out.

So fare you well, brave soldier boy, We know that with Christ all is joy; But while God spares us we will fight for dear Old Glory.

Before you're lain beneath the son, We'll offer up a prayer to God, For you who fought for the flag in battles gory.

ENDURED DEATH'S AGONIES.

Only a roaring fire enabled J. M. Garretson, of San Antonio, Tex., to lie down when attacked by Asthma, from which he suffered for years. He writes his misery was often so great that it seemed he endured the agonies of death; but Dr. King's New Discovery for Consumption wholly cured him. This marvelous medicine is the only known cure for Asthma as well as Consumption, Coughs and Colds, and all Throat, Chest and Lung troubles. Price 50c and $1.00. Guaranteed. Trial bottles free at Benson Drug Co., Drug Store.

A WORD TO MOTHERS.

Mothers of children affected with croup or a severe cold need not hesitate to administer Chamberlain's Cough Remedy. It contains no opiate nor narcotic in any form and may be given as confidently to the babe as to an adult. The great success that has attended its use in the treatment of colds and croup has won for it the approval and praise it has received throughout the United States and in many foreign lands.
