The prospect for considerable work in Bohemia this season is now very promising, and a good showing is sure to be made.

The owners of cows should remember that there is a cow ordinance, and the fact that cows are taken to pasture at 7 or 8 o'clock in the morning is no excuse for turning them into the street at 5 or 6 o'clock to roam around and eat up the peoples garden. The city pound will be full of 'em some of these mornings.

There are few people in town, who make any pretention to having a lawn and garden, who would begrudge $1.50 per month for water privileges during the summer months, providing of course they would wish to use, while do begrudge 75cts per month and have a limit; and a mighty close one at that, put upon them. For a time the people of Cottage Grove were inclined to take the water system of this city seriously, but of late it is getting to be somewhat of a farce.

There is a law against shooting within the city limits, and only in extreme cases should it be resorted to. In the case of shooting the dog, belonging to Oliver Veatch, last Tuesday, several very careless shots are reported. In all probability the shots were not so dangerous to the welfare of the community as the running at large of a crazy dog, but there is danger just the same. There is no excuse for a man to shoot the length of a street, at a mad dog, even. There are few men who under excitement can hit a house at a distance of three blocks unless it is the wrong house. If a man is good enough marksman to shoot at a demented dog, he should have confidence enough in his prowess to get within easy distance, else surrender the honor to some other shootest.

A great many people wonder why the local papers do not get more of the daily happenings and why they contain so little news. This may be answered by stating the fact that the editor—like any other person—can not see or hear at the same time a dozen different occurrences or conversations. The only way for a community to obtain an interesting paper is for everyone in the community to become interested in the success of the local newspaper. Take enough interest in the paper to inform the editor of the little occurrences which every editor is only too glad to obtain, though they seem ever so insignificant to those who know nothing of newspaper work. Take your home paper; read it thoroughly; read the advertisements and know what the business men are doing. If you hear of a birth, marriage, death, serious illness, accident, new arrival or anything that might be of interest to some one, see that the editor hears of it. as he will be grateful for it and will begin to take an interest in your welfare and may possibly some day lend a helping hand. If you are in business advertise in your home paper and let the people know what you are doing, and, furthermore you can get value received for every dollar invested for an advertisement in your local paper.

A San Francisco machinist, healthy and willing to work, but who had been out of work six months, kissed his wife and two children good-bye Monday morning and started out to hunt a job, as usual. But he had walked but a little way when he swallowed some deadly poison and fell dead. He left a note devising his body to the medical students, on condition that they would help his family, which he said was starving, and that he could no longer endure their suffering. His story was found to be true; the wife and two babies had no money and nothing to eat. This, in these times, is surely an exceptional case, providing the man was a competent workman. Yet, some men who are capable enough when once they secure a job are somehow incapable of securing it. Under such circumstances as this man was placed in, out of work and with wife and children suffering for the necessities of life, most men would have rustled up work of some kind, and kept the wolf of hunger from the home door; while others, through no fault of their own but from constitutional lack of "rustling" ability, are utterly helpless. It is such men as these, when discovered, that need encouragement and a little aid; but the very weakness which prevents them from "rustling" up a job closes their mouths to any complaint or utterance disclosing the truth as to their situation. 'Tis a world of an infinite variety of characters, dispositions and temperaments.—Telegram.

DIED.—

Prof. E. B. McElroy died of heart failure at his home in Eugene Friday night. His death was a surprise to everyone as he was apparently in good health and was about the city in the evening. Prof. McElroy was well known throughout the state, having been prominent in politics and school work. He came to Oregon from Pennsylvania in 1874, settling at Corvallis where in 1876 he was elected to the chair of literature in the Agricultural College, which position he held until 1882. He also served as superintendent of schools of Benton county for six years and served 12 years as state superintendent of public instruction. In 1894 he was elected to the chair of English literature in the state university which position he held until last year when he resigned from the faculty. He has since resided in Eugene, until death overtook him Friday night.

EPWORTH LEAGUE CONVENTION.

The third annual convention of the Eugene District League convened at this place Thursday evening, May 2. Fifty delegates and many visitors were in attendance from the different "chapters" in the district, which extends as far north as Dallas and south to about Marshfield.

Rev. Hollingshead's sermon on "The Great American Fraud" will not soon be forgotten by those who heard it. God hasten the time when the curse of rum be driven from our fair land. Many earnest Christians, young men and women are in the League work and God came near by his Holy Spirit to consecrate anew their hearts and lives to his service.

Several ministers were present and the beaming countenance of the presiding elder, Dr. Ford, told plainly the interest he felt in the young people's work. "The youth of today will be the men of tomorrow," so let us follow the injunction of our Lord when he said, "Remember now thy Creator, in the days of thy youth; while the evil days come not, nor the years draw nigh, when thou shalt say, I have no pleasure in them."

The officers elected for the ensuing year are, pres., J. W. Menzies; 1st vice pres., Dr. C. V. Sittler; 2nd vice pres., Mamie Fisk; 3rd vice pres., Nellie Jester; treas., J. L. Jones; 4th vice pres., Sina Stouffer; sec., F. S. Dunn; pres. of junior work, Miss West.

The following resolutions were adopted:

Your committee on resolutions beg leave to submit the following report: As an expression of our appreciation, the members of the Epworth League here assembled in would thank the president and the executive committee for their well planned program and efficient management; for the admirable papers presented; for the kindly greetings of Rev. Crandall and his good people; for the cordial welcome and more than exceptional banquet given the delegates by the Cottage Grove chapter; for the open doors and kind entertainment so freely given to us by the people and friends of the church; for the kindness shown us by the Southern Pacific in granting reduced rates; and for the notices made of the proceedings by the local papers. Respectfully submitted.

H. N. ROUNDS,
KATE PORTER,
MAC JOHNSON.

Convention will meet in Eugene next year.

The smallpox epidemic which has prevailed at Glendale for the past month has about run its course. The public schools in the city opened last Monday with as large an attendance as before the first case of the disease appeared. One of the pest houses have been abandoned while the other is occupied by the only existing case, which is reported to be a light form of the dreaded disease. There is no longer any danger of contagion owing to the precaution taken by the citizens and health officers.
