FRIDAY, JUNE 14 1901.

Gentlemen, don't forget the lecture of Mr. C. L. Smith, on dairying and diversified farming next Tuesday afternoon at 2 o'clock. It will be worth dollars to you.

With the close of this week Main and Wall streets, present a finished appearance Mr. Lea having completed his contract in a commendable manner. Cottage Grove now has two of the best streets in any town in Willamette valley.

The city of Cottage Grove today has two admirable streets just finished in crushed rock. There is much speculation as to the length of time it will require the ordinary travel to wear the streets down smooth. Of course it will take some time, but right here a suggestion might be made that would, if put in operation, reduce the time necessary to make the streets smooth to a limit. There is a splendid street roller in the city, and if a good team or teams were attached to it and it was kept running over the newly made streets nine hours a day, making rounds just as the farmer would in plowing a field, in a weeks time the street upon which this system is employed would be in splendid condition and almost smooth enough to bike on. It would cost the hire of a team and man, perhaps two teams, but it would be money well expended by the city.

Joseph Merrill, a Georgia sheriff, is about the first southern sheriff who has faithfully discharged his duty with reference to protecting the life of a negro criminal, hounded by a howling mob, as vicious as the criminal himself in their thirst for blood. The negro condemned to death, was, at the last moment granted a new trial. Angry men, thirsting for blood, gathered and attempted to take the prisoner from the custody of the sheriff and hang him. The sheriff objected and ordered them away, warning the leaders not to advance upon penalty of death. They paid no heed to the warning, and when they advanced upon the sheriff and his handful of deputies, they were fired upon, with the result that two were killed and as many more wounded. When the mob found the sheriff was determined to stand his ground they slunk away like the cowards they must have been to be engaged in such work. The sheriff is to be congratulated, and should be given a gold medal. It might be a good idea to provide every sheriff in the sunny South with a gatling gun, and see if they might not be more successful in dispersing murderous mobs. Revenge is crime and only brutes will resort to it.

The Wizard Oil Company played to good houses here last week closing Saturday evening. The company is composed of well behaved people, who entertain fairly well, sell a good many bottles of the alleged pain reliever, distribute a number of prizes of cheap plated ware; raffle off a ring, and, withal, gather up the loose money of the good people about the town. It may be a wild calculation, but we will make it just the same: If the money spent in patronizing this pain-curing concern could be divided equally among those who attended the show, each one would have money enough to buy a sack of flour or a silver pepper box. If this is not a wild calculation it ought to be sufficient to give all of 'em a pain that Wizard Oil couldn't touch in two applications. If it is a wild calculation—just let it go Gallegar.

Farmers come to town with milk cans in their wagons and take home checks for the cream. They find the creamery is a good thing for them.—Register.

The city this week erected a new fire bell tower on River street, to provide adequate fire alarm for those residing on the West side. It will be appreciated and may result in protecting many a home from flames.

Every farming community in Oregon today is either provided with a creamery or is taking steps to so provide itself. Every community in which creameries are now being operated gives satisfactory reports of the benefit derived to the farmer. Thousands of dollars today are going into the farmers hands in the Willamette valley, through a medium directly benefiting them at this season of the year and which was heretofore unknown to them. Why the farmers of this vicinity should not take steps to investigate this matter and determine whether or no a creamery would be a money earner for them is a question not easily answered. The Southern Pacific Co. has a man Mr. C. L. Smith working throughout Oregon who for seventeen years has had practical experience in dairying and in the various branches of farming. Next Tuesday afternoon June 18 he will speak in this city and every farmer in this section of Lane county should make it a point to hear him. Points gathered from one of Mr. Smith's broad knowledge will be well worth taking home. Come out and hear him.
