

JUMPED ON A TEN PENNY NAIL.

The little daughter of Mr. J. N. Powell jumped on an inverted rake made of ten penny nails, and thrust one nail entirely through her foot and a second one half way through. Chamberlain's Pain Balm was promptly applied and five minutes later the pain had disappeared and no more suffering was experienced. In three days the child was wearing her shoe as usual and with absolutely no discomfort. Mr. Powell is a well known merchant of Forkland, Va. Pain Balm is an antiseptic and heals such injuries without maturation and in one-third the time required by the usual treatment. For sale by Benson Drug Co., Cottage Grove, Lyons & Applegate, Drain.

"Last winter an infant child of mine had croup in a violent form," says Elder John W. Rogers, a Christian Evangelist of Filley, Mo. "I gave her a few doses of Chamberlain's Cough Remedy and in a short time all danger was past and the child recovered." This remedy not only cures croup, but when given as soon as the first symptoms appear, will prevent the attack. It contains no opium or other harmful substance and may be given as confidently to a baby as to an adult. For sale by Benson Drug Co., Cottage Grove, Lyons & Applegate, Drain.

TO THE PUBLIC.

Allow me to say a few words in praise of Chamberlain's Cough Remedy. I had a very severe cough and cold and feared I would get pneumonia, but after taking the second dose of this medicine I felt better, three bottles of it cured my cold and the pain in my chest disappeared entirely. I am most respectfully yours for health, RALPH S. MEYER, 64 Thirty-seventh St. Wheeling, W. Va. For sale by Benson Drug Co., Cottage Grove, Lyons & Applegate, Drain.

THE REASON WHY.

There is no plausible reason why every farmer in America should not be a breeder of pure-bred cattle within the next five years. There is a greater profit in pure-breeds, whether they are raised for beef or for breeding purposes. Two steers, a scrub and a pure-bred, both of the same age, raised in the same feeding pen and on the same ration, will, at maturity, greatly surprise the farmer whose experience has been limited to the production of scrubs. The pure-bred steer will outweigh the scrub from 200 to 500 pounds and bring from 1 to 3 cents per pound more money. Why, then, not buy more pure-breeds?

The average farmer will contend that the first cost of a foundation herd is too great—he hesitates about paying $200 to $500 for a first-class bull, and, in his shortsightedness, is unable to figure a profit from his investment. He is either in debt or has lived up his income and would consider it the height of folly to pay more than $35 for a cow, which he breeds to a neighbor's grade bull—perhaps a Jersey. We are not speaking of the many farmers who are already raising pure-bred cattle, but of the small farmers who have not been awakened to the importance of producing better beef. The demand for better beef is growing rapidly, and the supply, instead of increasing at a corresponding rate, is diminishing.

Some farmers tell us they can't get money enough ahead with which to make a start. In this they are wrong—they can get ahead if they wish. In most cases one year of industry, self-denial and intelligent management is all that is required. The greater the sacrifice the grander the victory—get ahead and stay ahead, and a fund will soon be established which will enable the farmer to make profitable investments in improved stock, as well as improved farm machinery.

In any business worth pursuing the first object should be to get that business on a safe financial basis. It may be necessary to borrow some money to start with, and to borrow more money to repay with, but there is no business that can be called successful where this borrowing process remains permanently. We should prefer to see a farmer sell a load of pure-bred or high-grade steers, averaging 1400 pounds at 6 cents per pound than a lot of scrubs or very low-grades weighing three-fourths as much at 4 cents. Any farmer who has replaced his scrubs with pure-breeds will never permit the spirit of retrogression to influence him—his one aim will be to constantly improve his herd.

We know of no better plan for the farmer to secure a start in the breeding of pure-bred cattle than to buy bred cows. There are many prominent breeders who have in their herds cows from 8 to 10 years old which they will breed to their best bull and sell for $100 to $200 each. A farmer buying ten of these aged cows, properly bred, would double his money when each would be good for several calves after they pass their tenth year, and the farmer would have a foundation herd at a very slight cost. The bull calves might be sold for breeding purposes and the proceeds of the sale used to buy a herd bull. Several high-grade cows should be bought to breed to the herd bull, and from this mating would come the steer calves to be finished as high-priced beef. Thus in a few years the farmer would have a pure-bred herd, from which he would select his show animals and sell his fine breeding bulls, and a beef herd from which he would select animals for his feed lot. All that is needed is a good piece of land on which to raise the feed, a small amount of money with which to purchase the foundation stock and the energy to push a good thing along.

The only reason the farmer can give is that the first cost is too great. Is it a plausible one when the ultimate results are considered? We think not.—Drover's Journal.

MY HUNTRESS.

I know a huntress fair indeed
And womanly sweet is she;
Full many a trophy of the hunt
In her home you may daily see;
And many a story of the glory
Of the chase she has told to me.
How far away in the morning light
Where the forests drip with dew,
With shortened skirts and still-shod feet
She wanders the woodland through,
And swiftly creeps or quiet keeps
For her prey to come in view.
She has caught the deer in their liesome grace
As they drank from some rock-bound pool,
And the birds that come for their morning dip
In its waters sweet and cool.
Yes, many a raid has my huntress made
On the pupils in nature's school!
But never the forest has heard her gun,
Or its shadows seen its flame
And never a bird or beast has known
They were prey of her deadly aim.
Yet those she sought were surely caught
When into her range they came.
A camera only my huntress takes,
And she joys in life so free;
There comes no thought of struggle or pain
When she shows her "game" to me.
And her eyes are bright with kindness light,
For womanly sweet is she.
