CANCER

Sufferers from this horrible malady nearly always inherit it—by not necessarily from the parents, but from some remote ancestor, for Cancer often runs through several generations. This deadly poison may lay dormant in the blood for years, or until you reach middle life, then the first little sore or ulcer makes its appearance—or a swollen gland in the breast, or some other part of the body, gives the first warning.

To cure Cancer thoroughly and permanently all the poisonous virus must be eliminated from the blood—every vestige of it driven out. This S. S. S. does, and is the only medicine that can reach deep-seated, obstinate blood troubles like this. When all the poison has been forced out of the system the Cancer heals, and the disease never returns.

Cancer begins often in a small way, as the following letter from Mrs. Shiner shows.

A small pimple came on my [ear] about an inch below the ear on the left side of my face. It gave me no pain or inconvenience, and I should have forgotten about it had it not begun to increase and itch; it would bleed a little, then scab over, but I did not heal. This continued for some time, when my jaw began to swell, becoming very painful. The Cancer began to eat and spread, until it was as large as a half dollar, when I heard of S. S. S. and determined to give it a fair trial, and it was remarkable what a wonderful effect it had from the very beginning; the sore began to heal and after taking a few bottles disappeared entirely. This was two years ago; there are still no signs of the Cancer, and my general health continues good. —Mrs. R. Shiner, La. Plate, Mo.

S. S. S. is the greatest of all blood purifiers, and the only one guaranteed purely vegetable. Send for our free book on Cancer, containing valuable and interesting information about this disease, and write our physicians about your case. We make no charge for medical advice.

PHOTOGRAPHS LIGHTNING.

Professor Pickering Has Made a Wonderful Discovery.

Prof. Edward C. Pickering, of Harvard Observatory, has started the world of science by successfully analyzing lightning with the spectroscope. The analysis proves that the element hydrogen is a compound substance, perhaps the basis of all other elements. In a word of a single indivisible element, as chemists have supposed.

PROF. PICKERING, posed. And a startling revelation is the fact that the photographs of the spectrum of a stroke of lightning, showing that it is made up of lines belonging to chemical elements which seem to be split up into still more elementary substances, presents a remarkable resemblance with the spectrum of Nova, the new star in Persens. There, too, the spectral lines of hydrogen appear curiously different from their ordinary appearance, and both in intensity and position bear a close resemblance to what they show in the spectrum of lightning. What relation can there be between the vast glowing air of that distant star, too distant to be measured, presumably ablaze from center to circumference with intense heat—a conflagration extensive enough to involve many such worlds as ours in destruction and the cool air that envelops our little planet and carries the clouds and rains that make the earth inhabitable. Nova was discovered only a year ago, and the mightiest explosion of lightning is insignificant as compared with an outburst such as that which produces a new star, and yet both phenomena—the lightning from a summer cloud and the gigantic outburst of power that caused an extinguished sun in Persens to burst again into flame—produce a similar effect.

In Korea the medical profession is hereditary, passing from father to son. The basis of medical study is a work in 19 volumes, written about 2,000 years ago.

Another British Sporting Man.
Sir Thomas Lipton hardly stands for so prominent a representative of British sport as Lord Londale. The latter owns the finest pack of hounds in England, is a splendid boxer, rides and drives to perfection, and has earned fame as a yachtsman, hunter and explorer. He is also patron of 40 church livings.

KATE GREENAWAY.

Noted Reformer and Painter Who Died Recently.

Miss Kate Greenaway, the noted British artist who has passed away in London, is best known for her beautiful illustrations of children's books, and for the keen interest she has taken in reforming the dress of children. It was her mission to transform the over-dressed, tight-waisted British baby into the free and flowing-robed infant which is the delight of the books. Miss Greenaway has illuminated with the fire of her genius. This genuine artist was educated at the Kensington school, at Heathcote's and at the Slade school. She studied Reynolds and Romney, but she did not win her greatest success until 1879, when she published her remarkable volume, "Under the Window." The sale was enormous, approaching the success of "Alice in Wonderland." In 1880 appeared her "Birthday Book for Children" upward of 150,000 of which have been sold in Great Britain. Many of her best paintings were owned by the late John Ruskin. Her home was in Hampstead, London.

No More Gloves for Soldiers.
It is announced that the French army will soon be deprived of gloves from motives of economy. Each of the 500,000 soldiers receives two pairs a year, and each pair costs 1 franc 25 centimes. But the inhabitants of Nior, who live by the manufacture of these gloves, are protesting vigorously against the proposed measure. Four thousand people will be thrown out of work should General Andre persist in introducing the reform. Needless to say, every plouffe will hail it with delight. The glove, or rather the absence of it, has been the cause of more punishment than all the rest of the catalogue of military offenses. —Paris Correspondence Pall Mall Gazette.

A Forgotten Craft.

It was probably known to nearly every Roman citizen how the mortar which cemented the stones of their buildings was made—just as it is known to the majority of people that the principal ingredient of English mortar is street scrapings. But, the knowledge being general, nobody wrote it down, and in time, as the Romans shifted their building upon slaves and foreigners, the recipe of their mortar was lost. So far it has not been discovered, though the secret of it would be immensely valuable for the cement outlasts the very stones which it joins. —London Mail.

He Knew Better.

At a school in Kent an inspector was examining a class of children in arithmetic, when the inspector asked the following question:
"Now, John, supposing I gave you two rabbits and another kind friend gave you one more, how many would you have?"
John—Four, sir.
Inspector—No, my boy, two and one don't make four.
John (quickly)—"Eh, please, sir, I've got one old lop-eared 'en at home. —London Spare Moments.

Imperial Baptismal Font.

Babies of the Russian Imperial family are usually christened in the winter palace at St. Petersburg, where tourists can see the baptismal font, a piece of pure, solid crystal, 24x22x18 inches in size, with a basin chiseled in the center and heavily embossed on the outside with gold flange representing lilies and olive leaves.

Parental Sarcasm.

"Yes," said Farmer Corntassel, "our boy Josiah is devoting a good deal of time to games and light literature just at present."
"Isn't that rather an unprofitable result?"
"Yes. But, you see, all the cabinet offices an I' big diplomatic places is filled; so I reckon Josiah feels that there ain't much else for him to do at present." —Washington Star.

St. Louis' Rag-Time Music.

Mrs. James L. Blair, of St. Louis, has stirred up the musical circles of that city by reading a paper before the Congregational club in which she affirmed that "rag time" music in that city was more popular than classical music and that the city had utterly failed to show any appreciation of music of the highest quality.

Substituting Electricity for Steam.

The extension of the use of electricity in British war ships in place of steam for subsidiary purposes was made the subject of a series of experimental tests in November. At the present time the capstan, steering engines, ventilating fans and derrick hoists are worked by steam power.

Horseshoes Draw Electricity.

A writer states that the difference in susceptibility to electric shock between horses and men is largely a question of shoes. The sole of a man's shoe has a very high resistance, but a horse with his four iron shoes, fastened on with iron nails, is apt to get the full benefit of the current.

SYRUP OF FIGS

Acts Gently; Acts Pleasantly; Acts Beneficially; Acts truly as a Laxative.

Syrup of Figs appeals to the cultured and the well-informed and to the healthy, because its component parts are simple and wholesome and because it acts without disturbing the natural functions, as it is wholly free from every objectionable quality or substance. In the process of manufacturing figs are used, as they are pleasant to the taste, but the medicinal virtues of Syrup of Figs are obtained from an excellent combination of plants known to be medicinally laxative and to act most beneficially.
