Eruptions

Dry, moist, acaly tetter, all forms of eczema or salt rheum, pimples and other cutaneous cruptions proceed from humors, either inherited, or acquired through defective digestion and assimilation.

To treat these eruptions with drying medicines is dangerous.

The thing to do is to help the system discharge the humors, and strengthen it against their return.

WESLEY'S ANNIVERSARY.

Old-at Methodist University Will Fit-* ugly Commemorate the Event. It is fitting that Wesleyan University of Middletown, Conn., the oldest Meth odist institution of learning in the United States, should observe in June, 1903, the 200th anniversary of the hirth of John Wesley, the remarkable founder of Methodism.

Perhaps a greater religious organizer never lived and no one man, perhaps, ever accompliated so much. Every year for nearly 50 years, he is said to have ridden fully 5,000 miles, chiefly on horseback, and preached 500 sermons, In addition he arranged and governed his societies which had a membership of about 80,000 before his death, carried on an immense correspondence, read every work of note as it came from the press, wrote commentaries on the Bible, arranged grammars of the Hebrew, Greek, Latin and French languages, was the author of works on logic, philosophy, and controversial treatises, contributed to various journals and abridged over 100 volumes of a Christian Library. Yet, this versa-

the man was never in a horry. He was always cheerful, deferential to women and fond of children. His generosity was unbounded. When a young man he walked from London to Epworth, a distance of 160 miles, that he might have more to give away. In after life, though he received fully $100,000 for his writings and his personal expenses did not average $500 a. year, he left nothing at his death. His principle was: Make all you can by industry, save all you can by economy and give all you can by liberality. He lived in constant activity and cheerful-TICSH. In his younger life he was in daily danger from the fury of mobs. and his delicate mind felt keenly the contempt of the higher classes, his equals, yet he worked on and allowed none of these things to swerve him from his purpose. He lived long enough, however, to see the tongue of slander husbed and the hand of persecution stayed. He won golden tributes from such distinguished men and crities as Dr. Johnson and Alexander the great religious organization of Methodism. These young men were so intensely earnest in their religious devotions and so methodical in their ork and actions that the othdents applied to them, in a spirit of derision, the terms Methodists and Holy Club. This was in 1729. In the latter part of 1739, the first Methodist society was formed in London. It consisted of only eight or ten persons, but the movement spread rapidly and many societies were rapidly organized in other places in England. When Wesley died there were more than 75,000 members in England and over 40,000 in the United States. Now the organization extends round the world and its adherents number many millions. In 1735, when Oglethorpe started with his colonists for the New World. the two Wesley brothers, John and Charles, accompanied him, the former as a missionary to the Indians and the latter as Private Secretary to the Governor and a clergyman in the new colony. Georgia was the name given to the new settlement and here John Wesley labored until 1738, when he returned to England. During his short stay in America he had sown healthy seed, the plants of which were assiduously cultivated by his followers in the subsequent years. In 1757, Wesley contracted an un happy marriage with Mrs. Mary Vi zelle, a woman of talent and apparent piety, who later did everything possible to ruin her husband. He bore her behavlor with great forbearance. She flually robbed him of important papers and then left him forever. On March 2, 1791, Wesley died in London, surrounded by a number of his preachers and other friends. His last words were, "The best of all is, God is with Marria; e Among Australian Savages Ethnological experts agree that with most Australian tribes every woman is betrothed in infancy, or even in anticipation of her birth. According to some mysterious law of their own this is arranged by the old men of the family, the women having no volce in the matter. The age of the proposed husband is not taken into consideration, so that it frequently happens by the time the girl is of a marriageable age her intended is an old man. If in the meantime some younger man has set his heart upon her this means a fight, in which the unfortunate bride-to-be, as she is dragged away, is certain to come in for a share of the blows which the rival suitors deal out to each other.

Americans have had an opportunity of seeing Mrs. Patrick Campbell, the celebrated British actress, of whom they have read much, but who has up until recently limited the display of her talent to England. The phrase in such instances, how ever, has no significance as applying to the balt employed to allure the fish, but is merely an elastic term of dubious meaning and suspicious ori-gin, utilized, as I already have intimated, simply because of the sanction which it has gained by customary usage in fairy tales generally. # The Distinctive Value of Syrup of Figs is due to its pleasant form and perfect freedom from every objectionable quality or substance and to the fact that it acts gently and truly as a laxative, without in any way disturbing the natural functions. The requisite knowledge of what a laxative should be and of the best means for its production enable the California Fig Syrup Co. to supply the general demand for a laxative, simple and wholesome in its nature and truly beneficial in its effects; a laxative which acts pleasantly and leaves the internal organs in a naturally healthy condition and which does not weaken them.

To assist nature, when nature needs assistance, it is all important that the medicinal agents used should be of the best quality and of known value and Syrup of Figs possesses this great advantage over all other remedies, that it does not weaken the organs on which it acts and therefore it promotes a healthful condition of the bowels and assists one in forming regular habits. Among its many excellent qualities may be mentioned its perfect safety, in all cases requiring a laxative, even for the babe, or its mother, the maiden, or the wife, the invalid, or the robust man.

Syrup of Figs is well known to be a combination of the laxative principles of plants, which act most beneficially, with pleasant aromatic liquids and the juice of figs, agreeable and refreshing to the taste and acceptable to the system, when its gentle cleansing is desired. The quality of Syrup of Figs is due not only to the excellence of the combination, but also to the original method of manufacture which ensures perfect purity and uniformity of product and it is therefore all important, in buying, in order to get its beneficial effects, to note the full name of the Company-California Fig Syrup Co.-printed on the front of every package.
