Mines and Mining

Devoted to Bohemia Notes and Items of general interest to Mining Men.

The following article is clipped from the Pacific Miner of March 15, contributed by J. H. Fiske, the well known assayer, and may be of interest to Bohemia locators:

When you stake your claim off remember that not one claim in fifty are full size. Prospectors nearly always step them off, and count three feet to a step, when 2 1/2 feet is nearer correct. The best way is to take a tape line if you have one. If not, figure your steps at 2 1/2 feet, and don't be afraid of getting too much ground, for when you have your claim surveyed for patent, the surveyor will draw your stakes in if they are too wide, but he will not push them out if they are too narrow. The survey must be made inside your stakes. A compass is a very good instrument to have along so as to get your claim as nearly located square as possible. Very few claims are located where the lines turn at right angles. When several claims are located together it is proper to use one post for the corner of two claims, instead of cutting a post for each claim corner.
If you wish to join claims with someone else's claim you have a right to use his post for a corner also. I have known some old prospectors to locate two claims together and cut a post for each and set them side by side, when one post with the name of each corner on it would do as well. Besides, when your claims join it does not make any difference if they join by only a foot of ground, but they must join. It makes them continuous claims, and you can do all your work on one claim to represent them all. If you wish to patent them, $500 worth of work is sufficient to patent them all as though they were one claim. It costs about $250 to patent a claim, besides the $500 worth of work you must do before you make application for a patent. You can make application to the surveyor-general, and pay him $50 and he grants it. If you have several claims in a group you apply for each separately as a continuous claim, and pay $50 for each. Then the surveyor charges you about $75 to do the work. He must be a deputy United States mineral surveyor. You pay about $20 for advertising, and the land office fee will be about $128, but all this is not necessary unless you are going to sell your claim and agree to furnish a good title. Representation and possession by working the claim annually is as good as a patent.

The Le Roy Company are make ing preparations to put in some new machinery. Alferd Johnson of that company went to Portland last week, and while there purchased a part of the new machinery which will be shipped to Cottage Grove as soon as the roads to Bohemia are in condition to haul a load over them. The Le Roy people expect to run their mine at the fullest capacity possible during the coming season. They have the mineral and nothing more remains but to take it out, Supt. Johnson informed a Nugget man that but a limited amount of shares remain which are selling at five cents.

Cottage Grove ought to boom this summer from its trade with the Bohemia mines and its railroad enterprises.—Portland Evening Journal.

A MINING BUREAU.

The fifth annual meeting of the International Mining Congress will be held at Butte, Mont., from the 8th to the 12th of September next, and it promises to be an important meeting for the mining interests of the Pacific coast, especially in view of the efforts now being made to have a Mining Bureau established as a subordinate branch of the Interior Department of the government.

The mining interests and resources of Oregon are very extensive, but are not receiving the attention they should receive from her citizens. Why this inactive lethargic state on the part of Oregonians, is more than can well be understood by the average citizen.
This meeting of the International Congress is a very important one as questions of great importance are to be discussed.

Oregon so far has not joined in the effort nor signified her willingness to take part in the Congress, although Colorado, California, Idaho, Utah, Arizona, New Mexico, Wyoming, Montana and Washington have all expressed themselves and made preparation to take part.
This is a very strange condition of affairs. Oregon is evidently as rich in mines as most of those above named, but so far has been content to remain in the rear. She seems to have gone away back and sat down; not because she hasn't the resources but because her public men are, presumably, more interested in some other business.
But it now seems that she is about to awaken. The miners throughout the state have worked incensantly for many years under great difficulties and have opened up, in many places, ledges of inestimable value, thereby forcing notice, and as a result of these individual efforts Oregon is going to experience a great mining boom. Delegates, we understand, will be sent to the International Congress and we will be in the lead ere long.

Experimental stations maintained by the government to assist the mining industry in the same manner in which the agricultural industry is assisted is perfectly within the scope of the government, and should be encouraged. As an example, the instance of the large amount of low grade refractory ores which now cannot be profitably handled might be cited. Private individuals are all the time experimenting to perfect a process whereby this ore can be made profitable.
Many of these experiments fail because the inventor has not sufficient money to go ahead with them and is unable to interest capital in his scheme. Here is an opportunity for valuable national or state aid and would be work such as should be undertaken by a national department of mines and mining. There are other and similar suggestions which could be made and all fair-minded men must admit that such legislation would benefit not only those directly interested in the mining industry but many other forms of business.

If the Jennings Bros. build their proposed smelter in Portland this summer—and they say they will—well and good. If not, Portland should not rest until somebody else takes hold of this important enterprise. The East Helena smelter pays out $1,200,000 per year in wages. A Portland smelter would pay out at least half as much.
Have the business men of Portland ever thought of this?—Portland Evening Journal.
