FRIDAY, SEPTEMBER 26, 1902.

President Roosevelt speaks right out in meeting and has no apologies to make for his opinions.

The action of Speaker Henderson in declining a renomination for congress demonstrates the fact that talk of tariff revision in the republican camp is not a mere bluff.

New names are being placed on our subscription list every day as a result of the general growth of the city, the increased interest in Bohemia and our efforts to make this a first class up-to-date newspaper in every respect.

The large tracts of government timber land that have been lying vacant for many years near this place are almost wholly taken up and now there are only vacant forty or eighties of first class timber in a body and they are not at all numerous. A great many small tracts are now being filed on, and should they rise in value, as has been the case formerly, even a forty is a mighty good piece of property to have.

In his recent Cincinnati speech President Roosevelt gave utterance to the following regarding the regulation of corporations: "Since the state cannot work along the same lines, I believe that the best of grounds exist for a constitutional amendment for national control of large corporations. Corporations that are handled honestly and fairly make for the general prosperity of our land. Law can guide, protect and control industrial development, but it can never cause it. In dealing with the corporations we intend to proceed not by revolution, but by evolution. The trust problem cannot be solved if the qualities brought to its solution are panic, fear, envy, hatred and ignorance. The line of demarcation we draw must always be on conduct, not wealth."

"There was strong talk last evening of running all the negroes out of Libby and out of the country. Against this the Mail would have not a word to say. An ounce of prevention is worth a pound of cure, and while the lynching of one nigger would not repair the damage he has wrought, the removal of our entire colored population would let us all rest easier when our wives are alone." So says the Marshfield Mail commenting on the recent lynching of the negro there, who criminally assaulted a white woman, wife of one of the lynching party. It clearly demonstrates the fact that when such cases are brought very close to home we view them differently than when they happen in the south or some distance in any direction. However, there is as much difference in negroes as there is in white people, and the decent ones should not be held accountable for the misdeeds of the criminal class.
