

NLY A FARMER'S DAUGHTER.

By MRS. FORRESTER.

MRS. FORRESTER.

It is foults for us to Mild our eyes

CHAPTER II.—(Continued)

Wish me to entwisted the subjects regard

Wish me to select the content of the fact that more should be done to improve the condition of our negregation. And it should be all rety mild be all rety m Hor Hastings was not a fit disconcerted, he held the reins with one hand, sud with the other took off his hort to the girl as if she had been in compress. She was so graceful and heat one has been graceful and took one had been graceful and took one.

"Well, then, it was our count, also Eyre; and I can tell you she is nothing to be ashamed of, either. I could see how much he admired her, and was just "I am affaid not," Mr. Hastings said.
"I am affaid not," Mr. Hastings said. the time he got them in hand again, it had gone out or my mind. However, the information will keep till another time."

"Reginald," gried his sister, white to the lips with rage, "you will not dare to tell him that low-hora girl is related to real to will not dare?"

"Reginald," gried his sister, white to the lips with rage, "you will not dare to tell him that low-hora girl is related to some surprise that it was an old French real to will not dare."

"Reginal knows better than to do anything as facilith." interrupted Mrs. Champion. "But in case you should be tempted to do so," she added, turning to her son, "commiser that not a tithe of that five hundred pounds I promised you for one besides myself would take an in-your test senson's debts shall pass into your hands."

"Oh! very well, that's enough," respected Reginald, subly, "But I can fell you one thing, Flo-I believe he's free membershy or with that girl, and that he's gone off after her man."

And having uttered the.

Twenty one is not generally a very you?"

agreeable age to a young man," remarked And so the fates complied to keep a secret from Errol Hastings, which, as it turned out, was very important he should

He called at Hurst Manor the day afam expecting an influx of visitors to the fier the temptation, Court, and I shall beg of your charity "Pardon my intrusion, Miss Eyre; 1 Sir Clayton and help me to emertain them.

Sir Clayton and Lady Grace Farquiars And Errol Hastings held out his hand are coming for a formight, until their place at Endon Vale is ready, and she and he clasped it for a moment with

"I hardly think I am justified in digni-"I hardly think I am justified in dignifying my gathering by the name of a him pass before, when she was talking hall; but I mean to invite every one round for twelve miles; and as this is such a very quiet time of the year, I do not apprehend many disappointments. Indeed, I only intend giving ten days' notice."
"That will be quite chough," Mrs.
Champion agreed; "no one thinky of giving parties in the country at this time.

ing parties in the country at this time of year, and a ball will be quite a boon to the young people. I prophecy your entertainment will be a great success."

"I hope so," said Mr. Hastings, "I asaure you I shall spare no pains to make everything go off well. Flora came in at this juncture, looking very handsome in her perfectly fitting habit, and they all walked out of the window to the horses, which were walt-ing at the door. He placed her in the saddle, mounted himself, and bidding au revolr to Mrs. Champion, they started

Reginald usurped the greater part of the conversation on the way, much to his sister's annoyance, but she had no intention of betraying any lli-humor before Mr. Hastings. When they arrived at Haseli Court they dismounted, sent the lurses to the stables, and proceeded to explore the house. Miss Champian not only expressed herself, but was in realy, delighted with everything she saw. Flora was rather silent as she rode home. She was thinking how picasant it would be to be the wife of a man like lero! Hastings, and the mistress of a place like Hazel! Court. He was speak-place like Hazel Court. He ing to be in low, earnest tones; and as be passed the Farm did not turn to such an imperial air of amased isdiguation for Winifred. And Winifred, sitting that for companion qualled.

"Mr. Fenner," she said "have you "Mr. Fenner," she said "have you "have you are talking about?" under her favorite clump of heaches, book in hand, looked with wistful eyes after them; and when he had passed out of eight, without once turning to look and cried bitterly.

CHAPTER III.

the other took off his her to the girl as if she had been in ompress. She was so graceful, and had such lavely eyes! I was anxious to knew who she could be and asked him. Guess, Flo, who it was.

"How should I knew?" answered his alster, pertiahly. "How provoking you are?"

"Well, then, it was our consin, Miss again, I shall not regret it too much."

"Can I are snything to him for you?"

as a going to tell him of our connection with smiling; "it is on a question of a new her when the chestions hotted, and, by method of farming, which I fear is too the time he got them in hand again, it abstrace for me to discuss with you. But "What shall it be?" asked Mr. Hast-ings "history, novels, poetry, or theol-ogy? When you read Tennyson, look for he's gone off after her now."

And having sittered this remark with the anniable intention of annoying his sie ier, he proceeded to gott the reom.

"I think Reginald gots more unbearsable every day," exclaimed Fiora, an order.

"Sometimes," laughed Winited, "Dogenstands," laughed Winited, "Dogenstands, "Dog setimes." Inughed Winifred. "Do

"Yes," said Errol, "I must plead guilty, although I am long ugot the age when that youthful folble is permissible. But when I am alone I like to sit and look at a beautiful landscape, until my very power of vision is absorbed in thought; and I like to go back centuries, and live the called at Hurst Manor the day after Reginald lunched with him, and accented Mrs. Champion's invitation to stay and dine.

"Mrs. Champion," he said, as they sat together in the drawing room, "I am go ing to beg a favor of you and Miss Champion."

"I am sure we shall be but too happy to grant it, if hi is nour power," since turned, smilling.

"I think of giving a ball at the Court."

Mr. Hastings continued, "and before I lisate my invitations I want to secure the promise of your presence and cooperation."

"A ball at the Court; that will be "A ball at the Court; that will be charming!" exclusined Miss Champton, with nousual animation, "Hachelors at ways give such charming parties; besides, which, it will gratify my long felt desire to go over your house."

"If you really have any curtosity to see my domain, I trust you will not wait for the hall. Why not risk ever this action, and the results which it will gratify my form the second that I been chosen by such a godlike leight as King Arthur, I think I could ieft the room to equip.

"Apropos of the bull," and Errol, "I ness as this one. He rose smidenly to none had such a sweet grace of womanile | the passport with their sanction to the has promised to play hostess for the oc-casion. Lady St. Ego and her daughters will come up from Herferdshire. Mr. brought the blood rushing to her face. easion. Lady St. Ego and her usuagate, will come up from Hertfordshire. Mr. brought the blood rushing to be will come up from Hertfordshire. Mr. Then he turned slowly, and went back and Mrs. Rivers, Lady Marion Alton and to his phaeton, her eyes looking dreamily to his phaeton, her eyes looking dreamily to his phaeton. Her reverle was distance. so I shall need some assistance in my into the distance. Her recerle was novel part of host."

verted by seeing a young farmer, well part of host,"

When is the ball to take place?" inTom Fenner, sauntering leisurely down the road, hitting off the tops of the grass viciously with his stick. She had seen

Winifred was compelled to give him her hand, sorely as it chafed her that his ourse, heavy touch should brush off the ender clasp of Mr. Hastings' lithe flu

"Certainly you may come in," she an wered, coldly; "you might have done so when you pleased before. I was not par icularly engaged."
"Oh! you did see me, then? I thought m were too much occupied with your new friend to look at me." Winifred was beginning to get augry; this man had never presumed to use such tone to her befor

you want to see my father?" she isked abruptly. "No, I don't; I tert him not an honr

"Oh, very well," remarked Winifred; "but please let me know at once what you want of ms, it is time to go in and see about the fea."

"Oh, you weren't in such a harry just now, when you had that puppy of a Hastings here," said Mr. Fenner, wrathfully.

Whatred rose like a young June, with any idea of what you are talking about? "Look here, Miss Winifred?" uttyres Fenner, with great carnestness—"it's ne use your pretending not to understand me, because you can't have mistaken my meaning this last month. Pve loved you for this year back. And so to-day, in the Poor Winlfredl it was only the day intelligence that Errol Hastings had sat with he said he had no objection, provided you at't afraid or that, for you ha a your ways to me, which you w ive been if you hadn't meant as I did."

"How date you say I know what you meant or gave you say I know what you meant or gave you encouragement?" she exclaimed, passionately.

"Heenuse you did!" he returned, with temper. "If you didn't mean anything by your smiles, and tricks, and ways, you must be as false as fair."

"Enough of this!" cried Winifred, imperiously." riously, "understand, once for all, that I never had and never shall have, the remotest feeling of love for you; and if you and so long, and looked into my face is he did."

I by a ring at the bell, and she paused in her playing.
"Some books for Miss Eyre, with Mr. Hastings" compliments," said a man's voice, to the servant who answered the When it was closed again she jumped p and called: "Elizabeth!" Yes, miss. "Give them to me, and bring the lamp, saddle to talk to her stately consin, and man means the dismissal of the wrong, had never once turned to look for her,

(Yo be continued.)

THE PASSPORT IN RUSSIA.

The train slows down as it crosses racy." the platform of the first station on Russtyle, and wearing the peculiarly Rus-Do you get the passport ready. After a few odnutes of waiting, during which anxcry is not diminished, an officer in smart gray-blue uniform comes along, attended by a soldier with a wallet. He demands the precious document, and, noting its foreign origin, casts upon its possessor a keen, searching glance. Then he looks for the all-important visa which form such a substantial part of or indorsement of the Russian official our revenues. A large portion of this in the country of issue; and on finding amount, no doubt, goes for the introt be passes coldly on without a word. All this is very formal and impressive; you feel as a prisoner feels when the hain of evidence is tightening around him: your thoughts wander back to the past, and you wonder whether any in-discretion of your insignificant youth may not now be brought up in testithe ball. Why not ride over this affection and Mrs. Why not ride over this affection have appreciated him too well to requite have appreciated him too well to require and registration of these documents; and registration of these documents; and registration of these documents; that she was beautiful and charming. Certainty, my love, if you persuade Reginald, You took a little pole—a ride will do all the good in the world."

Errol had never once taken his eyes off while he had been speaking. And as he watched her, he thought that of all the women he had ever known, but the contribution of these documents; were offered round, and Miss Champion left the room to equip. mony against you. journey. The system gives the authoriand wise is the stranger who co carefully with every part of the formal- trap, the invention of a Kentuckian, ity.-Chambers' Journal.

DREADS FIRST INHALATION.

A Cigareste Victim Pescribes I ffects Caused by the Habit, "Sometimes I wonder if all eigarette mokers have the same symptoms as myself," said a rather robust young according to the Philadelphia Record. "I put off the lighting of my beneath, wherein a quantity of insecti first elgarette to as late an hour in the cide has been placed to complete the day as possible; often it is evening before I begin to smoke. And this I do actual contact with the flame. because I dread the day's first inhain- tion is also made of the fumes. tion. For that introductory whiff, go- from the liquid and impregnating the ing down into my lungs, gives me an atmosphere around the flame to imstant and unbearable sensation of unlappiness and of weakness-almost of fall into the liquid. collinose. Soon it turses nway, but it is horrible while it lasts, and day after day it must be endured before I get Will Soon Number 200,000 Per cetty properly, so to speak, into my smoking

"Another thing I suffer from is a cold perspiration of the paims of my hands, of all the American republic, is pursuing a policy of military expansion mperate allowance of eight cigarettes efficient system of national defense. It is the desire of President Diaz that "At times I give up smoking for a week or two. My appetite then be within two years the Mexican governcomes immense. I can eat a square menl every three hours, and in one week, without smoking, I have often gained as much as eight pounds. My soldiers. spirits, too, get very high when I don't ago in the turnip field-I want to see smoke I want to take lots of exercise, and I feel extremely happy and mansmilitary instruction in 11,000 public trious. But it is impossible for me to give up eigarettes altogether, though I be recruited from their number. This have no doubt that they do me a great

> Stranger (in Pacific coast photograph sillery)-Why have you got this enor ions stuffed fish hanging here? Photographer-That is for the use of ersons who wish to send to their al policy of enlightened nations. It is their daughters and would soon be riends in the East a picture of the believed in some quarters that the in50-pound sen base they have just tegrity of Mexican institutions will ers of this opinion forget that any Gaiety is not a proof that the heart Gaiety is not a proof that the heart is at ease, for often in the midst of laughter be heart is sad. De Genile is except the republic against in the midst of laughter be heart is sad. De Genile is except the republic against in the midst of laughter be heart is sad. De Genile is except the republic against in the midst of laughter be learn in the midst of laughter be laughter b laughter 'ne heart is sad. De Geuilg

PAPERS THE PEOPLE

IMPROVE THE NEGRO'S CONDITION.

By Ka-President Grover Cleveland, if wyors can bring about,

"I have come to call on Mr. Eyre—is at home?" Errol asked.
"No," replied Whilfred; "he has been out since two o'clock, and I do not expendent with the exemple."

At last shy one and went to her pane. She sat there until it grew quite dark, or lo connection with ordinary educational institutions. I am convinced that good citizenship, an orderly, contented life and a proper conception of civic virtue and obligations are almost certain to give virtue and obligations are almost certain to conduct the will be a cart into a french, with the walls of a cart into a french, with the walls of a cart into a french, with the wall of a cart into a french, with the wall of a cart into a french, with the wall of a cart into a french, with the wall of a cart into a french, with the wall of a cart into gan to bring siniles in place of tears.

"He must care a little for me," she honest, hopeful livelihood and a satisfied sense of secure thought, "or he would not have held my protection and considerate treatment.

Her thoughts were suddenly interrupt. WORK OF THE TWENTIETH CENTERY.

By David S. Jor'an, President of Letand Stanford University. The twentistli century will be strenuous, com plex and democratic. Strenuous it must wean all see. Our century has a host of things to do-bold things, noble things, tedlous things, difficult things, enduring things. More than any of the others, the twentleth entury will be democratic. The greatest disovery of the observed century was that of the reality of external things. That of the twen century will be this axion in geometry: "The tieth

And she began with eager delight to examine the hundsomely bound volumes. It was a happy evening; her new occupation chased all umpleasant memories away, and when she went to bed she had even forgotten the existence of Mr. Fencer.

But the next day poor Winifred was plunged into the depths of sadness again, for Mr. Hastings passed, bending over high saddle to talk to her stately contine, and man means the dismissal of the wrong.

The weak, the incompetent, the untrained, the disalpated find no growing welcome in the century which is coming. It will have no place for the unskilled laborer. A bucket of water and a basket of coal will do all that the unskilled laborer can do if we have skilled men for their You Cannot Move About the Country direction. The unskilled laborer is no product of democ-without the Document. He exists in spile of democracy.

the frontier, and creeps gently up to juries. They will save their clients from need of a judge neither our laws nor our policy requires the schools to the platform of the first station on Rus-sum sell. Furtively peoping out of the window, you behold a number of stalwart men uniformed in the Russian. The sword has given place to the green stalwart men uniformed in the Russian.

Insects That Fly.

is authority for a statement containing figures reaching into the hundreds of millions of dollars as indicating the ex-

the insects and worms which damage

the cotton, wheat, corn and other crops duction of new ideas which have been devised to aid in the work of destroy ing these pests, and perhaps this lates

FLAME ATTRACTS PERTS.

will receive a share of attention and serve its purpose in many a field. The known propensity of insects to fly to ward a light, the same in this instance being mounted within a metallic case

through four funnels pointing in differ ent directions. Once within the bood.

the lusect soon falls to the reservol destruction of those which escape the come the insects and cause them to

MEXICAN ARMY.

Equipped Soldiers.

States, is the most orderly and stable which seems likely to develop a highly mobilize an army of 200,000 thoroughly trained and perfectly equipped men are now receiving regular daily

To make this result possi-

Mexico, which next to the United inventor takes advantage of the ing, to which entrance penditure applied directly to statutes coincide with equity. This condition educated New York Sun. Of his experience as

STRIKES HELP WORKINGMAN'S CONDITION,

金屬,

BISHOP POTTER.

statement may seem. I believe in the conservative value of the organizations from which the strikes come. The conimproved until in reply to the demands of a labor organization itself or by the terposition of persons not interested as capitalists or laborers. The real value of the labor organization is that it appears to be the only method by themselves best by exacting most can be obliged to yield some consideration

DEMOCRACY OF THE PUBLIC SCHOOLS.

By Jacob bould Schurman, President of Cornell University, State schools are, so far as mental training nd the acquisition of knowledge go, vastly su erior to either church schools or private schools Private and church schools tend to breed caste and division among the children of the community. The public school, on the other hand s the mirror of the republic. In the public schools of a town you have the purest democracy in the world. When we look at hard facts, The lawyers of the future will not be pleaders before blood, lapses of virtue and blight of character, which we see that it is folly to blame the schools for defects of sing top boots. The polite conductor INSECT TRAP FOR NIGHT USE, THREE MEN WHO HAVE MADE THEMSELVES An Inexpensive Method for Killing WEALTHY AT FARMING IN THE SOUTHWEST. The Government Bureau of Statistics

NE of the most successful millionaire farmers in the West is David Rankin, of Tarkio, Mo., who has made $1,000,000 in farming, and who actually owns the largest farm in the world. Rankin has 23,000 acres under his personal supervision, all of which is under cultivation. He egan farming with a colt which his father gave him when a lad. colt for a pair of oxen and with them tilled eighty acres of rented land, until he had accumulated enough to buy a small tract. He had been living in fillnols, but thought better of Missouri as a farming country. So for $8 an acre be bought great tracts of ground, adding to his fields as the income of the other fields would permit, until he had surrounded himself in thirty years with 23,000 acres, all of which is sown to crops every year. He employs 200 men on the farm. He has 700 teams, and in good seasons he makes $100,000 clear money. He buys 8,000 to 10,000 head of steers every year and feeds them. He keeps these cattle, not in pastures, but in clean stables and lots, where they are fed from the products of his fields until he is ready to ship to the markets.

Take the Forsha ranch, in Kansas, for lustance, where another system s carried on entirely, Mr. Forsha is a believer in the raising of alfalfa, and he has 15,000 acres sown to that. He also raises and feeds cattle for the markets, but he never raises cereals. He has a mill on his runch, and he ours the wheat from other farmers, makes it into flour, but he raises little wheat himself. He makes from $10 to $100 net profit an acre from the alfalfa, and the fields in the fall and winter furnish pasture for his berds. Forsha began ranching and farming in Kansas only a few years ago. Today he is worth several hundred thousand dollars. John Stewart began farming in Kansas ing in a real estate office as a salesman. He bought some homesteaders' faster and fiercer; and little by little thout a dollar. He was work rights to deserted quarter sections for a mere pittance. A boom came, and three years he was worth $8,000. Then he went to Sumner County, Kansas, and began ranching and raising wheat. To-day Sumner County produces $,000,000 bushels of wheat annually, and holds the world's record in quantity for its size. Stewart bought additional land every year there was a drouth, thereby getting it at a reduction. He has made a large fortune in less than thirty years,

 A Farmer's Daughter: 1 What She Can Do. **********

tunual convention of the Indiana State Dairy Association, Miss Edith Parsons. a student in Purdue University, gave an interesting account of her experi- farm and remember that with health ence in dairying. Miss Parsons began comes happiness and with happiness with the three or four cows kept to wealth." ng the product of between fifteen and twenty cows at a profitable price because of its uniform excellence and regularity of supply.

After recounting her difficulties in getting a good herd, she said: "After you decide to begin dairying, the quesment shall be able on short notice to tion arises: Who shall care for the ble more than 300,000 boys and young mother and wife who shall do this duties, instead of a source of pleasure schools of Mexico, and the army will to her? No! program for the creation of a farmer's daughter who should come greater Mexican army is supplemented forward and say, I am young and Century Magazines. with plans for a larger naval estab- know that I would enjoy taking full lishment, two ressels for which are charge of the dairy work. How proud now under construction at the Cres. I will feel to think that I am making cent shippard, Elizabethtown, N. J. In gilt-edged butter.

this development of her military re-sources Mexico is following the natur-the work in a dairy is too hard for be severely tested when President work, no matter how hard, if entered Newitt-Indeed! And did you finally feroclous struggles.

serious internal disorder. It is post farmer's daughter is that it is an every to say about his experiences. sibly with a view of providing for day business that can not be put into some one turned on him for a story of such an emergency that the present inexperienced hands, without getting his hunting trips, movement for a large and trustworthy things out of balance, and that whole "Nothing to tell army has been instituted.—Army and days off must be few. But a girt who an experienced sportsman, who had has tact and Judgment enough to get many valuable hunting dogs, volumthe best results from a Jersey cow, is teered to tell the other man's story, well qualified to win by persuasive "You see, he borrowed one of the control of

on the farm, whether it be dairying I loaned him the dog. After an hour's In a paper read before the thirteenth or poultry raising, don't for a single time the animal came back home and oment let the tempter have posses a little later our friend here followed. sion of you, but think of your health, and he was very wrathy, and of those little gold mines on the "What's the matter with your "What's the matter with your charge would be for a life subscription to the Century for a man 33 years of age. The question was submitted to one of the large life insurance compan- My dog won't stand for that sort of ies, who reported that by the American thing." experience table of mortality, assuming milk and the butter? Shall it be the money to earn three per cent annual infurmer and his sons who toll in the terest, a man 33 years of age should field all day, or shall it be the tired pay $81.64 for a life subscription to the Century. The publishers do not think work, thinking it one of her many it is worth while to open a department for life subscriptions, but it is interesting to know that a man of 33 can look "In my opinion, it should be the forward to the probable enjoyment of > ! High Freight Rates. It costs almost twice as much to have send boxed goods from New York to life. San Francisco by rall direct as it does via London, the Suez Canal, Hongkong and Yokohama by steamer.

Life Subscriptions.

Miss Flyrt-Oh, yes, I've had nine proposals since I saw you last. Miss laugh immoderately at beholding their Diaz retires from office, and that a into with the soul and willing hands, reward his perseverance by accepting strong government, including an effectionage to be drudgery and becomes an him :- Philadelphia Catholic Standard.

THE "BORE WAR !!

Why Famous Correspondent Was Get-

The late Julian Raiph, one of the out known reporters and war correondents, began his career as a copyolder in a printing office, thence passd into the office of a weekly newspaper as a printer's apprentice, and aferward formed a connection with the s war correspondent, Mr. Halph wrote.

which I have no confidence.

Upon my recovering this inferior and makeshift other leg, my horse shot By Bishop Potter, of New Yers. me into a wire fence, which tore both I believe in strikes, shocking as the arms into shreds, painted one thigh like an omelet and the other like a South African sunset, and left me an internal fracture which I must keep dition of the working man was never as a perpetual souvenir of what we are all beginning to speak of as the bore war.' Try to imagine the spirits of a man who finds himself thus gradually changing late an exhibit for a medical musuem, and you begin to obtain which the great interests which serve a glimpse of the fatigue with which I low view this war.

>  TRAGEDY OF A TROUT STREAM. ****************

A big, brown and white bird came alling up the trout stream, his long wings stretched far out to right and left. He flow slowly, for he was looking for something—something that he wanted very much. He was doing the family marketing. Up in the top of a big pind tree, a mile away, his wife was sitting on a nest full of eggs, and t was both his duty and his pleasure e find a supper for her. Suddenly he stopped short. He had caught sight of the thing for which he was searching-a dusky, shadowy shape with an outline like that of a submarine torsedo boat, lying moveless in the clear water. For just an instant he seemed to hang poised in the air, but it was only long enough to change the direction of his motion; then down he went with a rush and a swoop.

The brook trout saw him coming and tried to dart away, but it was too With a mighty splash the osprey truck the stream and went clear under and out of sight, while the water boiled. and surged over him. He could not see for the commotion about him, but him aim had been true, and his outstretched feet touched a slippery, slimy, wriggling body that was just eginning to gather headway. Quicker than a wink his toes closed about it and his sharp takens sank deep into the trout's flesh. Then up he came rising out of the stronm like some fabled monster of old, and shakshower of flying drops. Every thread of muscle in his wings and breast was working with all its might to lift that heavy trout. Up went the bird's great pinions till they were straight above him; then down they came, lashing the air like whips. Up again and down, up and down, up and down bard he and his victim rose above the stream, till at last they were clear of the tree tops. Then straight away to the nest in the old pine, where the wife was waiting to make them both

welcome.-Lealie's Monthly

Dog Was Disgusted. The amateur hunter had very little

"You see, he had not a see ager for dogs," he said, "and he was eager for dogs," he said, "and he was eager for the game he was going to get. He said he had never shot very much, but his father was a good shot before him. "You see, he borrowed one of my dog? he demanded. 'Nice sort of creature with which to go hunting. What did he come back home for?

"Did you shoot several times and A Century subscriber recently wrote to the publishers inquiring what the stirred up for you? I asked. miss good game which the dog had "He was frank enough to say that such was the case "Well." I said, 'that was the frouble,

And the amateur hunter humbly Times, while the laugh went round.

Army Lieutenauts There are now some 2,000 Heuten auts in the army, less than 300 of whom are graduates of West Poin). Most of the lieutenants have been up over eighty dollars' worth of future pointed since the war with Spain, hundred of them were officers of the volunteer army, 400 have been premoted from the ranks for merit and 500 have been drawn directly from civil Few of these men, therefore,

> Spinoza's favorite amosement was to set spiders to fighting, and he would

When men complain too much of enotony, look out for a cyclose is