

BROOKER'S KILLING.

Wednesday, one of the hands, a young man, from the Saguaw mill, arrived in the city, presumably to get a good start on the Fourth of July celebration. Judging from the way he started out he will do the thing up proper from a brooker's point of view. He engaged a room at the Sherwood Hotel, and then started out to take to the town. The night work, Mr. Brooker, who gave him a room under any circumstances while in his drunken state and so soon blurted out that he had come on at six in the morning. The room for him came back and began to make trouble. He claimed he had paid for one of the best rooms in the house and wanted it. The proprietor did not see it to let him have it as he was to be drunk in the morning. When the man came back and began to make trouble, he claimed he had paid for one of the best rooms in the house and wanted it. The proprietor did not see it to let him have it as he was to be drunk in the morning.
