

WIFE'S DEATH

For a long time now, the baseball fever has been right close to "105" in Juveniles Lodge, K. of P., of this city. About three weeks ago, the lodge set a challenge to the Helms of Helms Lodge, Eugene, Helms at the time, not knowing the standing of Juveniles' team, and having knowledge of the own prowess, treated the challenge with disdain, worthy of still greater diploma giving as a flimsy excuse that they had a game on with the "Feds." It transpires, however, that they have become better advised, as for the champions of the day, Helms having had advice from the national league that Manager McEllen and Tom Medley are two of the cracker-jack ballplayers who, and therefor the Helms' record of Eugene has gradually concluded that Juveniles is worthy of its steel or bat, as the term might be. So here comes a challenge to July 25, the Juveniles to choose grounds. Juveniles, in an attempt to avoid the challenge, had to meet the Helms on their own battlefield, and notwithstanding that effect has gone forth. As soon as it was generally known, a great excitement commenced for tickets, and many inquiries have been received asking for excursion rates, etc., and it is confidently understood that the Southern Pacific will run excursion trains from Corvallis, Salem, Roseburg, Grants Pass, and San Francisco, with the low-ball outdoor stands of Portland will come by special train. The league players of Portland, it is said, will probably be down in large numbers, a committee of 15 composed of the regular members of the first and second stipes of Portland, having been appointed to be on hand to loan the games.

SEMPER PAROLEM

D. T. Ashby, agent for Wells Fargo Express Co., this city, met with a serious and what might have been a fatal accident last Friday. Mr. Ashby is always at the depot in person when the trains arrive to look after Wells Fargo boxes, and on that day when the baggage train is loaded, it is said that in putting the mail on the mail car, when the No. 10 train arrived last Friday, the baggage man being pushed one of the paper mail sacks was thrown upon Mr. Ashby's back. Mr. Ashby did not see it until the train was nearly in the station, when he attempted to move his trunk back in order to get his better opportunity to swing the sack onto the coach. In doing this he pressed his head against the trunk, just as the locomotive rushed by. That was the end. Mr. Ashby knew he was being picked up and restored to consciousness. At first it was thought that he was seriously injured, but a medical examination it was found that his bones were broken, and made from some severe laceration on the head, lip and side and a skinned eye that would at first be an eye, and that starts in for recovery the afternoon of the second or third of July. A great damage was done although it will be a week or so before Mr. Ashby will be at his home. As a result of this accident, Mr. Ashby's trunk, which was full of life and always fortunate, and Tom is very glad to pronounce this one of the most fortunate. Had he been a few inches nearer the moving train, death would undoubtedly have been the result.

WIFE'S DEATH

Last week a tragedy of the woods was witnessed by Foster Phillips and Silas Gibbs, who were fishing above the Phillips homestead cabin on Mosby creek. The boys had gone up the stream and were fishing down when they heard the boom of a deer. Turning around they discovered a big buck in the water a short distance up the creek, with a huge array of timber well standing guard and watching him. The boys were without guns of any description and therefore were to protection to the deer. Whenever the deer would attempt to get to the shore the wolf would howl and off and on the deer would wade water again. This was kept up for some time when the deer was taken at a disadvantage and killed in an instant. The boys state that the wolf was a monster, and when they made efforts to drive him away from the deer he stood his ground and acted as though he just as soon would add a man or two to his dinner as not. The boys made up their mind that they didn't care for venison anyway and contented themselves with taking a few more trout.

NEARLY A FIDE

What might have been a disastrous fire was happily averted last Sunday morning at the residence of Mr. and Mrs. James McEllen, residing in the Edwards' residence in the west part of this city, by the prompt action of the occupants of the home. It appears that one of Mrs. Edwards' little boys had found a match, and in his play he had lit the same, notwithstanding that the entire residence property, one of the best in the city narrowly escaped destruction.

RESIGNED POSITION

E. W. Hebard, who has been with L. Larch for several years, and who has made many friends in this city, some weeks since resigned his position, and has accepted a place in the store of Yetts & Bridges, Yoncolla, Mr. Hebard having, prior to coming here, worked a number of years in the employ of W. H. Hebard, who expresses regret upon leaving Mr. Larch, he finds it compulsory, as exclusive indoor work is undermining his health. In his new position he will also be identified with stock and ranch work, which will give him about half of his time in the open.

FIREST RANGER

The many friends of C. J. Bingham will be pleased to learn that he has received the appointment of Forest Ranger. Mr. Bingham will take up his work about the middle of next week. He will be stationed on the Middle Fork of the Willamette, with headquarters at the Riddon ranch. Mr. Bingham is a good mountaineer, having spent many years hunting and fishing in the mountains. He will make a good ranger.

DEISION

Goods that have a value will sell at that value. Shrewd buyers do not expect to purchase at less than rightful value. The house that fixes prices and adheres consistently to them must of necessity fix conservative prices. Standard values insure regular prices. When there is no regularity of price there is no certainty of value. It does not require an expert to buy from a one-price house. If too much is asked to start, how are you to judge what is really correct? Can you depend on the man who confessedly tried to get too much in the beginning? When a salesman asks $400 for a piano and then takes $300 he confesses a willingness to get $100 too much, provided the customer is not informed. You will never find but one price on our high grade Needham pianos and organs. One price with a reasonable discount for all cash sales. The Richardson Piano House is a one-price house. RICHARDSON PIANO HOUSE, Cottage Grove, Ore., Lena F. Foreman, Manager.
