

Spring Medicine

There is no other season when good medicine is so much needed as in the spring.

The blood is impure, weak and impoverished—a condition indicated by pimples and other eruptions on the face and body, by deficient vitality, loss of appetite, lack of strength, and want of animation.

Hood's Sarsaparilla and Pills

Make the blood pure, vigorous and rich, create appetite, give vitality, strength and animation, and cure all eruptions. Have the whole family begin to take them today.

"Hood's Sarsaparilla has been used in our family for some time, and always with good results. Last spring I was all run down and got a bottle of it, and as usual received great benefit." Miss BEULAH BUCK, Stowe, Vt.

Hood's Sarsaparilla promises to cure and keep the promises.

Left-Handed Persons Not Wanted.

Few business men will employ a left-handed person as a clerk or book-keeper and the prejudice against them extends to the government departments. The chiefs of these departments are entirely willing to overlook bad penmanship on the part of a really good and industrious clerk, but it is the man or woman who writes with the left hand at which the balk is made. The dead line is drawn just the moment it is ascertained that a clerk is left-handed and he is forthwith informed that if it is his desire to continue in government service it will be necessary for him to write with his right hand. This information is always a bitter pill for the left-handed penholders, but there is nothing to be done but to begin to write with the right hand or "throw up the job," and few are anxious to quit government service even for this cause.

That Acid Trouble.

Colusa, Cal., April 18th.—Much has been said and written recently about Uric Acid in the system; what causes it and how to get rid of it. It is known to be the first cause of Rheumatism and many other diseases and has therefore received a great deal of attention from medical men.

Mr. L. F. Moulton of this place claims that he has solved the problem of how to get this acid out of the system. He says:

"I had this acid trouble myself for years. At times the kidney secretions would be very profuse and at other times scant. The acid was always in my system. Medicine failed to cure me till at last I heard of a remedy called Dodd's Kidney Pills and after taking a box I seemed to be entirely cured. However it came back on me and this time I took several boxes with the result that I was completely and permanently cured. This was three years ago and I have not had a single symptom of the acid trouble since. I am 75 years of age and I am well as ever. I was."

Success.

Some people think success means simply to get rich. Others think it means merely to keep out of jail. One of these definitions is about as near correct as the other, says a philosopher.

HUMOR OF THE WEEK

STORIES TOLD BY FUNNY MEN OF THE PRESS.

Odd, Curious and Laughable Phases of Human Nature Graphically Portrayed by Eminent Word Artists of Our Own Day—A Budget of Fun.

"I wonder what has become of Goodley. When he was at school, you remember, he used to talk so much about lifting mankind. Entered the ministry, perhaps."
"Oh, no! He's manufacturing explosive shells and torpedoes."—Philadelphia Ledger.

Directly Under It.

"It's funny," said the long-winged bore, "but nobody ever seems glad to see me."
"And haven't you ever found out the cause of your unpopularity?" inquired the candid friend.
"No, I can't discover it."
"Well, well, it's right under your very nose."—Philadelphia Press.

Extreme Measures.

Mother—If I catch you chasing those boys again I'll wash your face every day next week!—Punch.

True Enough.

Towne—Did you tell Markley you had just bought a magazine ride?
Browne—Yes.
Towne—You're a truthful gentleman! Why, it's only a cheap single-barrel affair.

Charitable Sex.

He (at amateur concert)—What do you think of Miss Screecher's voice?
She—Oh, I think it's all of what it's cracked up to be.

Then or Never.

Miss Willing—Should a girl allow her fiancé to kiss her before they are married?
Mrs. Wedderly—Well, if she wants him to kiss her at all she should.

Something to Mow.

"I wonder if they produce hay in the arctic fields?" said the hall-room boarder.
"I don't know whether they call it hay or not," replied the cheerful idiot, "but it's something the Eskimos do."

A Princely Reward.

"Boy," said the wealthy man, beaming with gratitude, "you have done me a great service and I am going to reward you."
"Oh, thank you, sir," gasped the small boy.

The Cares of Youth.

"Here, in this case, is the first dollar I ever made. Gaze on it and let it inspire you to be industrious and saving. Good-by."—Philadelphia Ledger.

Wot's worryin' him?

"Noper; worser'n that. He says today's the day he's decided ter propose to the teacher."

Why She Objected.

"I suppose, my dear," said old Moneybags, "that you object to my using tobacco because it is a poison."
"Yes," replied his young wife; "because it is—er—such a slow poison."

An Old Saying Applied.

"I am agreeably surprised at the room you have given me," said the manager of the theatrical troupe, with a patronizing air. "It's really first-class."
"Ah!" replied the proprietor of the hotel. "Your room is better than your company."—Philadelphia Press.

Slight Mistake.

Shopper (in department store)—Isn't it rather early to have those mosquito nets on sale?
Saleslady—Beg pardon, but those are boarding-house blankets.

Finale.

"Are you still making visits to your dentist?"
"No."
"How's that?"
"Oh, nothing, only I ran out of teeth."

Safety Appliances.

Husband—Why did you want a speaking tube from the dining room to the kitchen?
Wife—So I can give the cook orders without having her throw dishes at me.

Not in Her Line.

Mrs. Fadden—Have you ever had any experience in firing china?
Mrs. Artless—No, indeed! Our cook attends to that when she has a bad day.

An Unlucky Combination.

Prison Visitor—What brought you here, my man?
Convict—Superstition, ma'am.
Prison Visitor—Superstition?
Convict—Yes, ma'am. It was the unlucky 13, ma'am.
Prison Visitor—Thirteen! In what way?
Convict—Why, the judge an' the jury united against me, ma'am.—Cleveland Plain Dealer.

Easily Found in the Dark.

He—I think I ought to take a hot foot bath. Where is the mustard?
She—Out in the pantry.
He—Pshaw! It's dark out there and I haven't got a match.
She—You don't need a match to locate it. It's right alongside of the Limburger cheese. — Philadelphia Press.

Not Quite the Same.

Mrs. Backwoods—Our Henry's doll's real well in town. He's runnin' a hotel now an' it's a big one, too.
Mrs. Korntop—Do tell!
Mrs. Backwoods—He surely is. Got a letter from him this mornin' an' he sez, "I'm a hotel runner now an' it's a real swell place."—Philadelphia Press.

Maculose View.

"The coming woman," said the type-writer boarder, "will not take a back seat for anybody."
"I hope you are right," rejoined the scantily-haired bachelor. "Those females who occupy the back seats reserved for smokers in street cars make me real weary."

Usurping Her Prerogative.

"Will you marry me, darling?" asked the young man in the parlor scene.
"Sir," rejoined his fair companion, "this is leap year and you should know that in matters of this kind a gentleman should wait until he is asked."

No Chance for a Blow-Out.

"If I were to give you $10," said the philanthropist, "would you blow it in?"
"Nary a blow, mister," replied the hard-luck victim. "If I was ter git blowed up dat much coin in er lump it 'ud take me breeth erway." See?

Other Side of It.

"When women get their rights," said Miss Strongminded, "there will be less foolish lovelornings."
"That's all right," rejoined Mr. Masherton, "there won't be a girl left worth spooning over."

Botany Class.

Teacher—Mushrooms always grow in damp places.
Pupil—That's why they look like umbrellas, ain't it?

An Indorsement.

Ascum—But does this medicine really cure deafness?
Clerk—Oh?
Ascum (shouting)—I say, does it really cure deafness?
Clerk—Well, I should say so! I've taken it regularly for twenty years.

There's the Rub.

Towne—If it hadn't been for that fellow Cutter I'd be $100 richer to-day.
Browne—Oh, forget about it. You ought to take things philosophically.
Towne—I do. That's easy enough, but it's hard to part with things philosophically.—Philadelphia Press.

Cooked Up.

"So this is the old family Bible?" said Mr. Newsometer, who was waiting in the parlor for Miss Passy.
"No," replied Miss Passy's little brother, "that's the new one sister but in last week you should write in it all about when she was born."—Philadelphia Press.

Synonyms.

"Oh, there's a word of nine letters that describes Crabbe to a 't'."
"Ah, yes—'poemistat'."
"Well, I meant 'dyspeptic,' but it amounts to the same thing."—Philadelphia Press.

Murder Will Out.

"You simply can't get that girl to tell her age."
"Well, time will tell, even if she won't."
The Style that Costs.
"After all, I guess it doesn't cost much to live in New York."
"It may not cost much to live," replied the man who had tried it, "but it costs a lot to make people believe you're living and not merely existing."—Philadelphia Press.

The Gypsies.

Gypsies were found in England about 1514, according to "A Dialogue of Sir Thomas More" (1529), but the exact year of their arrival is unknown. They were present in Scotland in 1568, and possibly they were the "Saracens" whose depredations in that country prior to 1400 are on record.
Battalions and other authors believe that gypsies existed in Europe from immemorial times, for they find no account of their crossing the Bosphorus, and no record is known to exist of their passage to England or Scotland. They were better received in these countries than in any other, but so early as 1531 an act was passed requiring the Egyptians to quit the realm under pain of death, a similar edict being issued in Scotland in 1541 and at varying periods in most of the European states.
Transportation across the seas was among the milder means adopted and probably was the cause of much further dispersion of the tribes. Under Henry VIII gypsies were shipped from England to Norway or France, and from France, so recently as 1802, they were deported to Africa.
