GOOD RAINS

For several days past there has been a heavy downpour of rain.

It was much needed in the valley by the farmer who found his ground to hard to plow, by the millmen in the mountains when the streams had become very low. It will also help the feed on the winter ranges.

On the first page of this issue is an article taken from the Daily Mining Record of Denver on the "Oregon Eddy Law." A great many people in the State regard this law as inimical to the mining interests. If it is, it should be repealed. Certainly information and discussion upon the subject is in order at this time.

NO IMMEDIATE CHANGE.

It is quite evident from letters received from the post office department at Washington, that the mail route up Sharps creek to Bohemia will not be changed, for some time at least. To those familiar with the conditions, it would seem that all it is necessary to do is to establish a route up Row river to Orseco, letting the present service up Sharps creek remain as it is.

The Lewis and Clark Centennial Exposition Company offers for sale at the price of two dollars ($2.00) each, 25,000 Souvenir Gold Dollars. To each purchaser of five coins will be given one coin free of charge, making six for ten dollars. These coins are issued by the Secretary of the Treasury, under authority of an act of Congress, approved by President Roosevelt, April 13, 1904. The issue is limited to 250,000.

These coins are singularly interesting from the fact that they have two heads or obverses. On one side is the head of Captain William Clark and the words "United States of America" and "One Dollar." On the other side appear the head of Captain Meriwether Lewis and the words "Lewis-Clark Expedition, Portland, Ore." and the date "1904." The coin has neither wreath nor stars.

Some estimate of the value of this small issue of souvenir legal tender gold dollars may be made from the present value of the ordinary United States gold dollar, of which there were coined 19,492,377 between the years 1849 and 1890. These now sell for two dollars each.

No coins of this issue will be placed upon sale at a lower figure than is quoted in this circular. All coins are sent to purchasers by registered mail at the expense of the Exposition Company. These coins are for sale at the Banks.

Portland Chamber of Commerce Bulletin.

The October number of the Chamber of Commerce Bulletin has been received at the Nugget office.

It is a very interesting and instructive number and should be widely distributed. The articles upon the enterprises and industries of the state while not lengthy are comprehensive.

The contents are editorial comments on the "Wheat Situation" and "Recognition by the Value of the Bulletin," "The Dalles-Celilo Canal" by Captain A. A. Fries, "Three Railroads; One Railroad" by W. A. Mears, "The Coming National Conventions in Portland" by D. C. Freeman, "Apple Growing in Oregon" by Geo. H. Lamberson, "Advertising a State" by Rinaldo M. Hall, "Why a Mining Stock Exchange is Necessary in Portland" F. J. Hard.

In this article Mr. Hard discusses the benefit derived from Exchanges in Colorado and other states and claims Portland is an ideal city for an Exchange governed by its business men. "Work of the Chamber" by the Secretary, "American vs British Trade Methods in China" by Edward S. Bragg, "Commercial Organizations and Agricultural" by J. D. Lee. Also many facts concerning the industries of Oregon. The price of this number is 10 cents per copy.

Rev George H. Feese.

The Rev. George H. Feese whose picture is here given, will on Thursday, together with his family leave this city for their new home in Corvallis, where he has been assigned as pastor of the M. E. Church at that place, by the Conference recently in session at Eugene.

For the past two years he has been the pastor of the Methodist Church in Cottage Grove, where he has given his best thought and energies to its upbuilding.

Reverend Feese is an able scholar and is still devoting his spare time to study. He is pleased, that when the change came, it was to such a school town as Corvallis, where at the Agricultural College alone are some 600 students.

Mrs. Feese has been an earnest worker with her husband and has made many warm friends during her residence here.

All will wish them well in their new home.

A ROUND BARN.

A Pennsylvanian Tells Why He Likes It and How to Build.

My barn, built in 1900, will accommodate seventy-five head of cattle and fifteen horses, besides a good sized flock of sheep. The cost was less than a square barn of the same capacity. It is more convenient, and, I believe, it is warmer in winter. My estimate is that it requires about three-fourths as much lumber as a barn of ordinary shape, says an American Cultivator writer.

To cover it required about 75,000 shingles, and the amount of lumber was 75,000 feet. It is 300 feet in circumference and has in the center a silo sixteen feet in diameter and forty-five feet high, holding 245 tons. Around the silo is a tin which I use for potatoes, holding about 2,000 bushels. The floor of the barn is cement and two-thirds and, putting on a layer two inches thick on top of the gravel. The floor costs about 6 cents per square foot. The beams are made of 1 by 6 inch stuff, two boards thick, nailed in one piece, extending entirely around the barn. The inside posts are 4 by 6 inch lumber and set twelve to sixteen feet apart. The sill is of 1 by 8 inch boards, six boards thick. The silo, beams and plate around the silo are made of 1/2 by 6 inch boards nailed around in one piece and form hoops in which to build the silo. Four posts support each hoop.

The silo is boarded perpendicularly inside the hoops, then lined horizontally with half inch stuff, being careful to break joints at the end of boards. Lath and then plaster with cement. After the basement is up raise the silo about twelve feet or to the height wanted for the scaffold over the driveway, then raise the posts between floor and bay and build the beam on them in same manner with 1 by 8 inch boards. Now put up the overlays from silo beam to this and raise outside posts (4 by 6 inches) and fasten well to build the plate (1 by 6 inches) on. Now build up the silo to where the roof comes, raise the posts for purlin plates and put on the rafters 2 by 5 inch lumber after sliding up around outside.

The doors in the silo are 18 by 30 inches, made of matched pine, and about ten inches apart from bottom to top. There is a chute for silage to drop through in front of doors 18 by 30 inches with wing doors.

A round barn is very handy to work in. Hay can be unloaded with a horse fork, using no truck. The silo is in the center of the feeding floor, and cattle can be fed with very little walk. When cleaning out I drive a cart around behind the tie-ups. I save about 25 per cent in cost of barn, amount of lumber and in labor of caring for the stock.

Less Foreign Beet Sugar.

Consular advices of interest to the beet growers of this country state that the European beet area this year totals 3,801,861 acres, a decrease of 9 per cent from 1903.

ODD FACTS ABOUT COLOR.

One of Them Is That There Is No Food That Is Blue.

Did you ever notice that there is no blue food? We eat things green, red, yellow and violet; flesh, fish or plants in all the colors of the rainbow except blue.

Many deadly poisons are blue in color, such as bluestone or the deadly nightshade flower. The color stands in our slang for everything miserable and depressing.

But this is only one of a thousand queer facts about colors.

Heat a bar of iron and the particles of the metal are set in motion, shaking violently one against another.

Presently the surrounding ether is set in motion in large, slow waves through the air, like the waves of the sea, until they break upon our skin and give us the sensation of heat. As the iron gets hotter other waves are set in motion in immense numbers, traveling at more than lightning speed, and these break upon the eye, giving us the sensation of red light.

The red-hot iron, getting still more heated, throws out other sets of waves, still smaller and more rapid—orange, yellow, green, blue, indigo, violet, all the colors of the rainbow. The eye cannot tell one from another; the whole bundle of rays mixed up gives us an impression of white. That is the glow from white-hot iron, and such is the light from the still greater brightness of the sun. Sunlight is a bundle of rays of light—red, orange, yellow, green, blue, indigo and violet all mixed together. The mixture of all colors is white light. The absence of all color is utter darkness.—New York Journal.

CLIMATIC CURES.
The influence of climatic conditions in the cure of consumption is very much overdrawn. The poor patient, and the rich patient, too, can do much better at home by proper attention to food, digestion, and a regular use of German Syrup. Free expectation in the morning is made certain by German Syrup, so is a good night's rest and the absence of that weakening cough and debilitating night sweats. Restless nights and the exhaustion due to coughing, the greatest danger and dread of the consumptive, can be prevented or stopped by taking German Syrup daily and regularly. Should you be able to go to a warmer climate, you will find that of the thousands of consumptives regain strength are those who use German Syrup. Trial bottles, 27c; regular size, 70c.
