

GEMS IN VERSE

The Lucky Boy.
The boy who's always winning That's the one that might be
And never lose his prize.
Is the boy that's found to see
His plans all come to failure.
His hopes and dreams in vain.
For that's what comes when winning
And working hard to gain.

The "Jack" that I believe in.
Is that which comes with work.
And no one ever doubts it.
Who's honest in his work and shirk.
The man the world calls "lucky"
Will tell you, every one.
That success comes not by wishing.
But by hard work, bravely done.
—Karl E. Rexford

Man's Best Friend.
He was strong and trim and a good sized cur.
A giant of dogs with soft skin fur.
Pulsed head of an intelligent dog
And two straight, limber legs were a tall whose gestures were eloquent.
A bark with a grain of caution in it.
And this dog looked upon the whole as if he had gathered some crumbs of wisdom from the feast God spread for man.

There went with his strength and his ancient stride
A dignity not to be denied.
God's humbled creature, however we turn.
Are full of lessons for man to learn.
This night that he crunched by the fireside door
And the great, majestic figure of man had looked the dog with his head of steel
He looked with more than a human's soul.
For strength and courage and life.
The conqueror's look and the noble kneel.
His own creature with a quick, sure eye
And head that could follow a man's
A half-fledged, even he bore
A half-learned man to the welcome door.
And when the dog of the great deed came
He looked with more than a human's
soul.
He talked with the dog's head and did and said: "I have shown you nothing new."
It is what we are for and how to do
In life of every day.
In the dog's eyes and his
In the dog's eyes and his
My rate brings life to the race we love.
—Will Carleton in "Everywhere"

The Lord's Prayer.
Our Father who art in heaven,
Who hast to us the power given Thy soul to be.

Thy hallowed name receive the praise,
Thy children's feeble voices raise,
Alone to thee.

Entrust thy will to every power
May thy enduring kingdom come.
Ever to be.

Then daily let us still be fed:
Give us this day our daily bread,
So full and free.

Forgiving, we are forgiven:
Lead us step by step to heaven,
Nearer to thee.

Deliver us by thy power and might
When evil assaults thy right.
Our God to be.

The Reformer's Lament.
Oh, you folks with home and friends,
You who do not roam, but live,
You have quoted over the years,
But I'm willing to forgo.
For as moving time approaches
You have troubles of your own,
And I'll chide you sure but gently
In a soft and pitying tone.

You have beds and big pianos,
You have pictures, stoves and chairs,
You have dressers, tables, sideboards,
To be trifled down the stairs.
You have mattresses and bedsprings,
You have carpets, curtains, rugs;
These must be removed in haste,
With a million grunts and hugs.

Then for days there will be chaos
In the shack to which you go,
And your life for weeks thereafter
Will be one long streak of woe.
But when I, O reader, behold thee,
Find my rent too nearly due
I just pack my trunk and vanish,
And my moving suit is through.

You may boast of cozy friends;
There are times I envy you.
You may boast of your penance,
Which is more than I can do.
But at moving time I'll be sure
You would sell your suit for junk
Just to know the joy of roaming
And of moving in your trunk.

The Sick Child.
He for whom the world was made
Cannot lift his heavy head.
All his pretty, dimpled cheeks
Burnt with fever, parched with drought.

He, the tyrant, whimsical,
With the round world for his ball,
In a dreadful patience lies,
Old since yesterday and new.

Like a martyr on the rack
Smiles, his eyes fixed on black,
While the fever still devours
His small body, sweet as flowers.

Dreadful patience like a sword
Stabs his mother's heart, dear Lord,
Make him naughty, wild and gay,
As he was but yesterday.

Little service he can give
With his weak and his praise, While his eyes ask pardon still
That he is troublesome and ill.

He lies smiling with a fire
In his cheeks, brown and high and gay,
By the wind of fever fanned,
Lord, his times on any hand.

Give me back my boy, I pray,
Turbulent, of yesterday,
Not this angel, like a sword
In his mother's heart, dear Lord!

Homage.
Not finely shaped, not satin smooth, not white,
But labor worn and spare and rather red
It lay within a trouped pool of light
Cast by the shaded lamp upon the bed.

And while the wearied woman slumbered
there
The man whose soul was sick of "might have been,"
Gazing his breath, knelt down and, with a prayer,
Kissed the poor hand as though it were a queen's.

CHAMBERLAIN'S COUGH REMEDY

No one who is acquainted with its good qualities can be surprised at the great popularity of Chamberlain's Cough Remedy. It not only cures colds and grip, effectually and permanently, but prevents these diseases from resulting in pneumonia. It is also a certain cure for croup. Whooping cough is not dangerous when this remedy is given. It contains no opium or other harmful substance and may be given as confidently to a baby as to an adult. It is also pleasant to take. When all of these facts are taken into consideration it is not surprising that people in foreign lands as well as at home, esteem this remedy very highly and very few are willing to take any other after having once used it. For sale by New Era Drug Store.

Free Assays

TROUBLES

"I had Theodore's Black-Draught cough medicine for liver disease.
I could not get any other and after two weeks of suffering, I took the medicine I took—THEODORE'S BLACK-DRAUGHT, Roseburg, W. T.

If your liver does not act regularly go to your druggist and secure a package of Theodore's Black-Draught and take a dose tonight. This great family medicine cures the constipated bowels, rids the torpid liver and causes a healthy secretion of bile.
Theodore's Black-Draught will cleanse the bowels of impurities and strengthen the kidneys. A torpid liver invites colds, influenza, chills and fever and all manner of sickness and contagion. Weak kidneys result in Bright's disease which claims so many victims as consumption. A 2-cent package of Theodore's Black-Draught should always be kept in the house.

"I had Theodore's Black-Draught for liver and kidney complaints and it cured me in ten days."
—WILLIAM COFFMAN, Marshfield, Ill.
