

Catarrh

Whether it is of the nose, throat, stomach, bowels, or more delicate organs, catarrh is always debilitating and should never fall of attention.

It is a discharge from the mucous membrane when kept in a state of inflammation by an impure, commonly acrofurious, condition of the blood.

Hood's Sarsaparilla

Cures all forms of catarrh, radically and permanently—it removes the cause and overcomes all its effects. Get Hood's.

Among those who have received the highest award—the Grand Prize—at the St. Louis World's Fair, was the A. J. Tower Co., the makers of the PIRIL BRAND STICKERS. Many of our readers who went to the fair will recall their fine exhibit in which waterproof garments were shown. Adapted to so many uses that almost every department of the world's work was suggested. The Grand Prize was a deserved tribute to one of the oldest manufacturing concerns in the country.

COLLEGE BUILDING RACE.

As It May Be with Millionaires in Competition.

Andrew Carnegie has assured Pittsburgh people that if they are really desirous of having a university which shall beat anything in the country he will help.

Imagination falters, says the New York World, when it attempts to picture the struggle that must follow among the philanthropists when such a paucity starts in the school-making race. Fancy the scene at the Millionaires' Club five years from now when Mr. Carnegie will come swinging jauntily into the room with his golf clubs under his arm.

"Well, John," he will say, "I have just added 200 acres to the Pittsburgh campus and deposited $5,000,000 in steel bonds as endowment to provide gymnasium facilities."

Mr. Rockefeller will rub his hands in glee and say:

"Too late, Andrew. Very good in its way but antiquated. I have just bought Lake Michigan for the University of Chicago for its crews to practice on. All out at Saug. See, Marie hereafter."

Mr. Vanderbilt will look up from his paper and remark casually:

"I might say that the family has just purchased all the land within two miles of the Yale campus and will cover it with dormitories."

Mr. Vanderbit will say this very modestly, but with a gleam of triumph in his eyes. But "Ah!" he will exclaim, as he returns to his paper. "Boy, bring my checkbook! Gentlemen, Mrs. Stanford has just bought the Sierra Nevada mountains for the school of forestry of the Leland Stanford, Jr., University."

The three rich men will pale at this announcement.

"There's one thing left to do!" they will cry in chorus. "Raise the professors' salaries. We must stay at the top."

"I give an annual income of $100,000 to raise the professors' salaries," one of the millionaires will blurt out.

A college professor who happens to be a guest at the club that evening will be carried out fainting.

Smart Actor.

When David Belasco and H. C. De Mille wrote "The Charity Ball" there was a speech in it that did not please Herbert Kealey, the leading man of the company. The words Kealey objected to were quoted from one of David's plays.

Ignorant of its origin, Kealey said to Mr. De Mille:

"I don't like that line, it's too old fashioned."
 "The line is not mine, but David's," replied De Mille, referring, of course, to the playwright.

"I thought so," cried Kealey, triumphantly. "I'd recognized David Belasco's style anywhere."

The Adage Held Good.

Judge Cox of the United States Circuit Court, while delivering a lecture at Columbia University, told of a young lawyer who came before the Supreme Court to argue a case in which he was also defendant. Addressing the court, he referred to the old French adage declaring that he who argues his own case has a fool for a client. After the case had been heard he left for his home in St. Louis, asking a friend to notify him by wire when the decision was handed down. This was the fifth dispatch he received. "Old French adage affirmed,"—New York Tribune.

Heart Sorrow.

A little girl had the whooping cough very badly, and it seemed that no one could aid her in any way when a paroxysm of coughing seized her one day, after a most severe one, she sat down all tired out, and with a look of patient resignation said: "Oh, I'd feel so sorry for myself!"

Where the Rub Comes.

Untraveled Youth—I believe I will go to Florida next week. What is the fare?
 Traveled Elder—Young man, if you had enough to pay your board after you got there, you wouldn't ask about such a trilling incident as the railroad fare.

Eggs as Food.

Eggs have been used as food in the Orient from the earliest times and were also believed to be an antidote to poison.

Good Date for Wedding.

Miss Millieu—What do you think the most appropriate time for marriages?
 Old Sunday—April first.

About the only advantage the wife of a preacher seems to have over other women is that her husband is home more and has more time to hang shelves.

JOLLY JOKER

 Tourist—Can I have a couple of cigarettes, Landlady—Are you going to stay here all summer?—Lustige Blaetter.

Some one tells a story of a steamboat passenger watching the revolving light of a lighthouse on the coast, and exclaiming:

Book Agent—Now, sir, can I sell you an encyclopedia? Old John—No, I don't think so. I'm too old to ride now.—Punch.

Clara overheard her parents talking about Bible names. "Is my name in the Bible?" she asked. "No, dear." "Didn't God make me?" "Yes." "Then why didn't he say something about it?"—Harper's Magazine.

Tom—Young Higgins has a cheap look about him, yet he is decidedly popular with the fair sex. How do you account for it? Jack—Oh, I suppose there is a sort of bargain-counter charm about his cheap look.
 "I am amazed, sir, that you should propose to my daughter. You have not known her a week." "True, madam, but I have known you for some time, and everybody says your daughter takes after you." He got the girl.

"Why," said Bobby to his elder brother, "do herring have so many more illnesses than other fish?" "Who says they do?" asked the youth addressed. "Why, this book says that thousands upon thousands of them are cured every year."
 "No, Harold," said the sweet girl; "I can only be a sister to you." "Well, then," he savagely replied as he heard a subdued chuckle. "as your brother, I shall claim the privilege of lying under the sofa while you make fools of the other fellows."
 Mrs. Potts—Just to think of you talking to me in such a style. You, who used to swear I was an angel.
 Mr. Potts—Look here, my dear, that isn't fair, you know it isn't. What is the use of twitting a man about the lies he told fifteen years ago?
 "If a man tells the exact truth at all times," said the philosopher, "he has done as much as ought to be expected of him." "My friend," answered the weather forecaster, "he has done a great deal more than ought to be expected of him."—Washington Star.

Friend—I don't understand why you and your husband should have separated so soon. Mrs. Abernath—it was all owing to the baby's temper. "Mercy on us! How can that be?" "We couldn't agree as to which one of us the baby took after."—New York Weekly.

Little Ruth visited a large wholesale grocery store with her aunt. While there a clerk gave her a small sample bottle of ketchup. That evening she tasted it and seemed much pleased. "Oh, auntie," she exclaimed some time later, "when you go to that store again, please tell the clerk I would like another example of ketchup."
 "Little Chronicle.

"You were never married, I believe?" "No; I was never married." "That's singular, isn't it?" "No, not at all. You see, the first time I fell in love I said to myself—'I'll marry her or none.' " "Why didn't you marry her, then?" "Well, you see, after I had become better acquainted with her, I said to myself—'I'll marry none rather than her.' Since that I've got along very well with none."

How Passenger Got Even.
 An elderly gentleman hurried out on the platform of a small country railroad station the train started to move. It was going slowly, however, so he grabbed the handrail and reached the step in safety.

While pausing a second before going to the platform he was pulled violently from the train by an officious brakeman, who said, as he landed his victim on the ground:

"You have no business to board a moving train. I have saved your life, sir."
 "Three hours till the next train comes, isn't it?" questioned the train but self-controlled passenger, and receiving an affirmative nod from the brakeman as with the ease of long practice he swung himself upon the lower step of the rear platform of the now rapidly moving train.

But he was not quick enough, however, to elude the grip of the older man, who hauled him from the step, and as the train rounded a curve and passed from sight, remarked:

"One good turn deserves another, young man. Now, I have saved your life."—Philadelphia Press.

WILL MEET AT PORTLAND.

Quadrennial Convention International Anti-Cigarette League.

Oregon is to be favored with the international meeting of the anti-cigarette devotees. People young and old interested in this "most successful of reforms," as U. S. Senator Teller, of Colorado, terms the Anti-Cigarette League, will gather in the Lewis and Clark city on July 15-16-17 next. The meetings of the convention are timed to fit in between and overlap with the conventions of the American Medical Association and the National Board of Charities and Corrections, so that prominent persons interested in these two great events may also have the opportunity to take part in the deliberations of the anti-cigarette meetings—many of the leaders in medicine and the work of charity and reform being also identified with the efforts of the opponents of the cigarette.

A great campaign of education among the schools of Portland has just been completed by Dr. Wallace R. Struble, general superintendent of the International League, and over 7,000 young people have been enrolled as members of the league in that city. Those will be properly organized and officered and will be divided into proper committees for the reception and entertainment of the young people who may attend as delegates or visitors from abroad. Many interesting events are being planned for the entertainment of the junior section of the convention, embracing field sports, musical attractions, oratorical contests, etc. The election of International Junior officers will also be held, an event that will doubtless occasion much competition. As the league now extends throughout Great Britain and Canada as well as the United States, there will be numerous aspirants for the official honors.

 Of Toronto, International President of American Anti-Cigarette League and Vice President of Canada of the International League.

Information as to the convention may be obtained by addressing Elmer Ellsworth Miller, secretary board of directors, 612 Commercial building, Portland, Oregon.

SCALLOPS ARE REVIVED.

Sharming Fashion of Days of Empress Eugenie Again in Vogue.

Of the multitude of charming things which the present revival of fashion has given us, nothing is more fetching than the scallop, which is so gracefully decorative that one can only wonder at its long absence from the sartorial field.

The scallop was in high favor with the Empress Eugenie, and consequently the second empire gowns are very liberally bescalloped.

The peerless Eugenie rarely made a mistake in matters of dress, and her judgment was unerring. She was the arbiter of fashion for many years, and, save for the ugly crinoline, the modes of that period were exquisitely graceful and beautiful, and the numerous things which we are now borrowing from the second empire are invariably attractive when adapted to our present-day ideas.

This season we are being treated to a wealth of scallops, for the French have taken a fancy to them, and thus we are favored.

Many of the new gowns have no other form of decoration than scallops bound with the same material. One may perhaps suppose that this is a most economical arrangement, but scallops are only for the long purse, unless they are made at home, for it requires a deal of time to bind each scallop carefully, and as the binding down is done by hand, it is a long task, and in large dressmaking establishments this sort of thing means big bills, but on these expensive gowns flowers are scalloped till the whole is as fluffy as wool leaves.

Scallops are bound with a contrasting material in color many times, and thus a great variety may be obtained if one delights in scallops sufficiently to have several gowns trimmed with them in one's wardrobe at one time.—Boston Globe.

"Want some money, do ye?" said the old lady. "Now, I wonder if ye deserve it. What would you do with a penny if I got it to ye?"
 "Lads," replied the polite beggar, "yer kindness would touch me so dat I'd buy a postal card and write an' write yer a note of thanks."—Catholic Standard and Times.

It Would Seem So.

 Nibbles—Because why?
 Stringer—Because so many stockings are hung up about that time.

Bushman Dwell in Nests.

Several travelers who have returned from the heart of Africa and the Australian continent tell wonderful stories of nest-building people who inhabit the wilds of those countries.

The bushmen of Australia, or, perhaps, the lowest order of men known, they are so primitive that they do not know enough to build even the simplest form of hut for shelter. The nearest they can approach to it is to gather a lot of twigs and grass and, taking them into a thicket or jungle, build a nest for a home.

The nest is usually built large enough for the family, and if the latter is very numerous, then the nest are of large size. Sometimes the foliage above will form a natural covering, but there is never any attempt at constructing a protection from storms.

CAUGHT BY THE GRIP—RELEASED BY PE-RU-NA

"The World of Medicine Recognizes Grip as Epidemic Catarrh."
 Medical Talk.

La Grippe is Epidemic Catarrh.

It spares no class or nationality. The cultured and the ignorant, the aristocrat and the pauper, the masses and the classes are alike subject to la grippe. None are exempt—all are liable.

Grip is well named. The original French term, la grippe, has been shortened by the busy American to read "grip."

Without intending to do so, a new word has been coined that exactly describes the case. As if some hideous giant with awful grip had clutched us in its fatal clasp.

Men, women, children, whole towns and cities are caught in the baneful grip of a terrible monster.

Have you the grip? Or, rather, has the grip got you? If so, read the following letters.

These testimonials speak for themselves as to the efficacy of Peruna in cases of la grippe or its after effects:

A Southern Judge Cured.

Judge Horatio J. Goss, Hartwell, Ga., writes:

"Some five or six years ago I had a very severe spell of grip which left me with systemic catarrh.

"A friend advised me to try your Peruna, which I did, and was immediately benefited and cured. The third bottle completed the cure."—H. J. Goss.

Cured in a Few Weeks.

Miss Jean Cowgill, Griswold Opera House, Troy, N. Y., is the leading lady with the Ambrey Stock Co. She writes the following:

"During the past winter of 1901, I suffered for several weeks from a severe attack of grip, which left a serious catarrhal condition of the throat and head.

"Some one suggested Peruna. As a last resort, after wasting much time and money on physicians, I tried the remedy faithfully, and in a few weeks was as well as ever."—Jean Cowgill.

Saved by Per-una.

Hon. James R. Guill is one of the oldest and most esteemed men of Omaha, Neb. He has done much to make it what it is, serving on public boards a number of times. He endorses Peruna in the following words:

"I am 68 years old, am hale and hearty and Peruna has helped me attain it. Two years ago I had la grippe—my life was despaired of. Peruna saved me."—J. R. Guill.

THE WATERLOO MONUMENT.

The field of Waterloo, where the star of Napoleon I. forever set in a night of gloom, has been variously marked with monuments by the nations whose soldiers took part in that titanic struggle. No more attractive memorial has been erected, however, than the new one just dedicated by France to her soldiers who fell in that conflict. The French lost about 30,000 men, while the allies—English, Dutch and Germans—lost 23,000. These frightful casualties threw into insignificant the combats thus far waged in the East and which Japanese admirers would have the world believe as transcending anything preceding them. The monument is crowned by a wounded eagle, typical of the defeat France sustained in the downfall of Napoleon.

Up to date.

"Winning the eucure trophy was something of an honor for Mrs. Carter, wasn't it?"
 "Yes; quite a bird in her hat!"—New Orleans Times-Democrat.

Salt Lake Note.

Duncan Mellick moved yesterday to his new twenty-story residence in Salt Lake avenue. The family was an hour and ten minutes passing the postoffice. —Newark News.

Nerve Testers.

"Pa," said the small boy who was struggling through the medical anatomy, "where are the nerve centers located?"
 "Oh, at any of the Chicago crossings," responded pa, who had been dodging automobiles.

Point of View.

"Did you notice how I moved the audience last night?" asked the amateur elocutionist.
 "Moved isn't the proper name for it," rejoined his critical friend. "It was little short of a stampede."

OFFENSIVE CATARRH

I suffered for a long time with a bad case of Catarrh, and took a great deal of medicine without any benefit.

I had a continual headache, my cheeks had grown purple, my nose was always stopped up, my breath had a sickening and disgusting odor, and I coughed incessantly.

I heard of your S. S. S. and wrote you. I commenced to use it, and after taking several bottles, I was cured and have never since had the slightest symptom of the disease.

MISS MARY L. STROM,
 Cor. 7th & Felix Sts., St. Joseph, Mo.

Wheeling, W. Va., May 29, 1901.
 I had Nasal Catarrh for years for which I used S. S. S. with very gratifying results. I tried local applications for some time, and getting no permanent relief I came to the conclusion that the seat of the trouble was in the blood. Knowing S. S. S. to be a good blood medicine I began its use, and after using it for some little while it did away entirely with the offensive mucus in the nostrils, and I did not have to hawk and cough, especially in the morning, to dislodge the catarrh matter.

1627 South St. FRED H. PRESSY.

The filthy secretions and foul mucus that are continually dropping back into the throat, and their way into the stomach and are absorbed into the blood, Catarrh then becomes constitutional, and the only way to get rid of it is through the blood. Write us if you have Catarrh, and our physicians will advise you without charge.
