D. T. Awbrey went to Portland Sunday on business.

It is almost time for candidates for city officers to appear in our midst. Any parties caught trespassing on my premises with dog or gun will be prosecuted. Wm. Laksons.

D. B. Vernon, proprietor of the Oakland Owl, attended the Woodman gathering at Albany Saturday.

Mrs. F. J. Markly and Mrs. Ed. Dunsford went to Junction City Tuesday where they will visit relatives.

Fred Wright and Mell Thompson, of Roseburg, came down Sunday and were looking into the book and news stand business with a view to engaging in that line here.

The girls of the freshman class of the High School on Tuesday evening at the Odd Fellows Hall, gave a reception in honor of the boys basket ball team of the high school.

The Cottage Grove band with its eighteen members, all in uniform, presented a fine appearance at Albany Saturday and attracted attention by their fine rendition of numerous selections.

Superintendent J. G. Blake of the Pacific Postal Telegraph Company, of Seattle was in Cottage Grove Monday looking after contracts for telegraph poles and other matters in connection with the lines.

Tuesday morning the occupants of the business blocks along Main Street had the mud which has accumulated during the winter, scraped into piles and the city fathers caused it to be hauled off. While it is a little trouble and expense the improved appearance of the street is worth them.

The Nevecker Vandeville Co. opened a weeks engagement at the opera house Monday night. The show consists of songs, dances and specialty work, contortion, moving pictures and illustrated songs and is a good show for the small price of admission, 15 and 10 cents.

City Marshal, Ed Underwood, with his monster wooden Woodman axe, bearing the words, "Bohemia Camp, No. 260, W. O. W." attracted more notice than any other particular feature of the big parade at Albany last Saturday evening. All along the line he was hailed with enthusiasm as the biggest Woodman with the biggest axe, and was continually an object of interest and subject of remark. He certainly made a hit and came home with a bad nick in his blade.

The "Y" Medal Contest.

The Medal contest at Woodman hall last Friday night by some of the members of the "Y" was quite well attended.

Mrs. F. D. Wheeler presided and the Cottage Grove orchestra that volunteered to assist, was present and added largely to the pleasure of the evening. The judges chosen to decide who should receive the medal were: Mrs. J. T. DeSpain, Mrs. W. G. Woods and W. B. Root.

While all who recited did well, in the opinion of the judges the medal was fairly won by Mrs. W. C. Connor, although it was very closely contested by Miss Lizzie Orpard, who in the mar tings was but a point behind.

Miss Ethel Castle sang "Sweet Clover" which pleased the audience so well, she was obliged to respond to the encore by repeating it.

Altogether it was an evening's entertainment worth attending.

Following is the program:
Music, Orchestra.
Prayer.
Music, Orchestra.
Recitation,—"A Terrible Charge"
Miss Olaf Mierky.
Recitation,—"College Old Cans"
Winous Gunn.
Music, Orchestra.
Recitation,—"The Convict's Soliloquy"
Mrs. W. G. Connor.
Recitation,—"The Bridal Wine"
Miss Lizzie Orpard.
Vocal solo,—"Sweet Clover"
Miss Ethel Castle.
Recitation,—"The Greatest Evil"
Mc. Hermann Palmer.
Music, Orchestra.

While the judges were rendering their decision, Mrs. Gertrude Palm, who received the silver medal at Junction a short time ago, recited "Sworn Off."

No Local Option.

No local option election will occur in June. It seems that the house committee representing the anti saloon crusade in the legislature promised members that if the Jayne bill was defeated they would not call for any election in June.

At a meeting of the standing committees of the Anti Saloon league and the State Prohibition Alliance of Oregon, held Tuesday in the rooms of the Young Men's Christian Association this decision was reached.

The action of the committee does not bind absolutely all precincts, cities and counties of the state, as the initiative can be taken and the work carried out independent of the fact that the state organ's actions advocate this course will no doubt prove effective in preventing local option elections where no vote is taken on other matters.—Astoria Herald.

CHAMPION LINIMENT RHEUMATISM.

Chas. Drake, a mail carrier at Clatskanie, Conn., says: "Clatskanie Pain Balm is the champion of all liniments. The past year I was troubled a great deal with rheumatism in my shoulder. After trying several remedies the storekeeper here recommended this remedy and it completely cured me. There is no one else suffering from that painful ailment when this liniment can be obtained for a small sum. One application gives prompt relief and continued use gives a short time relief produce permanent cure. For sale by The Modern Pharmacy."

WOODMAN DAY AT ALBANY

land, Captain Parrish, of Salem, and General Organizer Tichenor also spoke briefly and feelingly.

It was a late hour when the gathering came to a close, making one of the best fraternal conventions ever held in the state.

The home contingent including the Cottage Grove Band of 18 pieces and the delegation of visiting Woodmen, and excursionists accompanied by Chief of Police Ed. Underwood and his monster ax with a handle ten feet long, boarded a special car and were picked up by the afternoon train. All along the line excursionists boarded the cars bound for Albany. At Junction a special car was loaded with the Junction Band of 14 men and their delegation.

On arriving at Albany a parade was formed and marched to the headquarters, after which supper was partaken of.

At seven o'clock the grand procession was formed and with the division arriving on the evening trains headed to the residence of the mayor where speeches were made and the visitors presented the keys of the city. The Herald says:

"At 7 o'clock the teams and bands again lined up in marching column for the big parade of the evening and passed through the streets to the passenger station, accompanied by carriage bearing distinguished visitors and members of the executive committee. The special train from Corvallis and Philomath brought in a large crowd at 7 o'clock and the new arrivals formed and their position in line. At 7:30 o'clock the train from Portland and Salem arrived loaded down with Woodmen, several teams and entire camps coming for the evening's work. When the parade column was formed, headed by the carriages bearing the distinguished visitors and members of this committee, the march through the city commenced. The seven bands were distributed through the column and to the strains of patriotic and martial music the greatest parade ever seen in the city passed through the streets in accordance with the published program. Fireworks and music were the principal characteristics of the monster demonstration, and for an hour the city was in a blaze of glory the result being entirely satisfactory to the management of the campaign and particularly gratifying to those who had labored so earnestly to make the campaign a success."

Amid the sound of music, the cheering of the thousands that lined the streets, the bursting of rockets and Roman candles and the explosion of fire crackers, the marching column headed by a carriage occupied by Head Consul of the Executive Committee W. C. Hawley, Head Banker C. V. Cooper, Brigadier General J. C. Jones, Colonel J. M. Woodworth and General Organizer F. B. Tichenor, the parade passed through the streets to the residence of Mayor W. H. Davis, where a stop was made, and Mayor Davis on the behalf of the city, presented to Head Consul W. C. Hawley the "key to the city" in the shape of a monster axe, at the same time expressing the welcome of the city and giving the distinguished visitors the freedom of the municipality.

Head Council Hawley arose in the carriage and in a neat address thanked the mayor for the courtesy and hospitality shown, assuring him that the Woodmen had not come with any hostile intent and that the privileges granted by the mayor would not be abused.

From this point the parade continued, until it wound up at the Woodmen hall when it broke up, the bands taking positions on the street, where for an hour they entertained the populace with the sweet strains of popular and patriotic music.

The music for the parade and on the streets yesterday afternoon and last night for the entertainment of the public were furnished by the bands coming from Salem, Oregon City, Stayton, Cottage Grove, Brownsville, Corvallis and Junction City.

Among those attending from Cottage Grove other than the band were: C. H. VanDenburg, Frank Rosenberg, Wm. B. Root, Billie Perman, Ed. Underwood, Prof. and Mrs. A. L. Briggs, Mrs. Gray and daughter, J. M. Isham, Wm. Garman, E. H. Rosenberg, J. C. Huff, D. H. Ribble, J. M. Bentley.

SUNDAY AT THE CHURCHES

At the Christian Church Sunday night the exercises were varied somewhat from the usual order. Before the pastor's sermon which was along the lines of foreign missions, Miss Vina Dorward recited, "When the Deacon Spoke in Church," Miss Stella Cochlin recited "Today," Charles and Nina Chandler sang a duet. A quartette from the choir also rendered a selection.

Methodist Episcopal Church.—Next Sunday evening will be given the second sermon in the series of "Substitutes for the Gospel," viz. "Modern Spiritism." Regular services in the morning.

Today,
By Mary Vaughn.

Tomorrow never comes! But here's today.

A crystal cup to brim with life's good wine;
Today for love and laughter, work and play;
Far high resolves and serious dilemmas.

Today to lift glad eyes to skies of blue.

To watch the sunshine sitting through the leaves;

Today to note the raindrops, or the snow;

And feel the swallows twittering in the eaves.

Today to kiss the lips of those we love.

Or clasp with friendly palm a comrade's hand.

Today the joy of simple tasks to prove.

And know ourselves at one with God's command.

What though tomorrow lingers on the way,
And comes not when the fair today is bowled.

Another sun will bring a new day,
A shining pearl of price, and all our own.
