The Ladies aid of the Christian church met at the home of Mrs. J. Byrnes on last Wednesday afternoon for a rag tacking. In order to prove that more work than talk was the order of the day, will just state that 32 pounds were sewed and wound.

On Thursday the ladies of the Christian church met at the home of Mrs. Smith for a short time. About 40 of the ladies were present. Refreshments of coffee, sandwiches, cake, pickles, crullers and cookies were served, and the time sped swiftly in social conversation.

Such gatherings as this we think are good for the community as they serve to cement lasting friendships and sisterhoods.

The University of Oregon Glee club which has in many other cities of the state won merited comment, gave one of its delightful entertainments at the Opera house Saturday night. The lack of a male quartette among so many good singers was noticed. Some features were better than others, but all were good. At the close of the evening's entertainment, a reception at Woodmen hall, by the young ladies was tendered them, which was enjoyed by all until a late hour.

Forty Years Ago.

Forty years have passed away since the battle of Petersburg and the surrender of Robert E. Lee.

Yet there are many living who were men at that time and who fought upon one side or the other during the Civil war.

Few are now living who have more cause to remember the time than has Mr. S. R. Piper of this city.

On the second day of April 1865, while the battle was raging, a ball from the gun of a yankee struck the ground just in front of Mr. Piper and glancing, hit him in the right shoulder inflicting a serious wound.

He was placed in an ambulance and after three days of traveling reached the hospital at Farmville, Va., where the ball was extracted and which he kept and on Sunday last remembering the day, hunted it up and showed it to some of his friends and recounted the story.

While at the hospital he was paroled, which he has preserved and reads as follows:

"To whom it may concern: This is to certify that the bearer hereof, S. R. Piper 63rd Regt. Tenn. this day gives his parole not to bear arms against the government of the United States, nor enter into any military capacity until duly exchanged by the military authorities.

J. B. FAIRBANKS, "Capt. 36 Mass. Vol. Asst. Provo. Marshal," Farmville, Va., April 17, 1865.

As Mr. Piper has not been duly exchanged he considers he is not yet eligible for military duties.

A New Industry.

Thos. Awbrey has started, in a small way it is true, but nevertheless it is a step toward a trout hatchery.

Mr. Awbrey has been studying the latest works on fish culture and has secured a site for his plant at the mill race of the Cottage Grove Flour Mills.

He has had made in Portland the proper appliances for the hatching of the eggs and has enclosed a place for the troughs etc. He will begin with the eggs of the rainbow trout, twenty or more thousand which have been arranged for.

After the trout are hatched they will be kept in the troughs for about two months when they will be placed in the race above the mill which will be screened so they cannot escape. Mr. Awbrey says it will take three years to raise his own stock fish, meanwhile he will procure eggs from other sources.

The propagation of trout and the annual stocking of our mountain streams would be of future value to this locality, as fishermen will travel long distances to visit good trout fishing.

It is said there are but two trout hatcheries in the state.

The tourist travel is worth looking after and the next legislature might do worse than to take up the question of trout hatcheries.

Cottage Grove Boy Wins.

At the annual debate, April 1st, with the University of Washington, the Oregon team was given the decision by two of the judges in the contest last night. The local team supported the affirmative side of the question: "Resolved, That it would be the policy of the United States not to hold territory permanently unless with the purpose that it shall ultimately enjoy statehood."

The affirmative based its argument upon the position that it has been the past policy of the Government to confer free government upon the people of all acquired territory, and that a departure from this historical policy would destroy the unity of the nation and involve the country in the dangers of colonial empire. John C. Veatch of the University of Oregon, was the most effective speaker of the evening. His work consisted chiefly in rebuttal. He was ably assisted by his colleagues, Francis F. Galloway and Frederick Steiwer.

For the Washington team, Charles H. Hall did the best work, following his colleagues, Floyd Hatfield and Willis Parker. The debate was spirited throughout, and was very close. No one could guess the result until the decision was announced, when Villard hall rang with the shouts of the enthusiastic Oregon students and the debaters were carried from the hall upon many shoulders.

The debate was the first won by Oregon since 1902, when Washington was defeated on the question of the 13th amendment.

The judges were, John B. Cleland, W. W. Cotton and R. A. Leiter, all of Portland. Lawrence T. Harris, '96, presided. A large audience heard the contest. The members of both teams and the judges went to the home of president Campbell for an informal reception.

DR. SANBURN

FRENCH SPECIALIST

The White Medicine Chief—The King of Cures.

I am now in your town introducing my wonderful arts of healing now before the public.

Don't fail to come and have your diseases told, and be cured if you wish. Remember, I tell your diseases, I have two arts of healing. I heal with magnet power, and with roots, herbs, bark and berries. Come one and all and I will tell everybody their diseases. Please bear in mind that I am the only man who manufactures these remedies this side of Paris, as there is where I learned these arts of healing, and shall in the future put certain kinds of medicine in your drug stores for the benefit of the public.

My office and laboratory are at 182 1/2 Hurst street, University Park, Portland, Oregon.

Now located at Central Hotel. Office in parlor and room 9.

Will remain in Cottage Grove till April 30th and return every month in the future.
