WEDNESDAY, APRIL 12, 1905

The Grand Jury held in Portland adjourned on Saturday after indicting quite a number in connection with the so-called timber frauds. Among those indicted are several of our Lane county citizens. An indictment is not always equivalent to a conviction and criticism is withheld until these men are found guilty in an open court. This paper is not trying these men, as some others in the state seem to believe is their prerogative. Every man should have the benefit of the doubt until proven guilty.

The Nugget this week prints a portion of an article, written by the well-known mining writer Frank Tonge of Denver, on zinc ores of Colorado. The rest of the article will be in next week's number. This has been done, principally for the reason, that in Bohemia there are large bodies of ores which, together with other materials, carry a heavy percentage of zinc, and has been a discouraging feature to many mine owners.

When the proper conditions have been reached, as they have been in Colorado and other states, then ores will be of value. Railroad rates to smelters are being secured and next week the Nugget hopes to give some information regarding the shipment of concentrates which have certain values in zinc and other metals.

It begins to look as if Bohemia will be a pretty lively mining section within a few months.

The questions whether there are large quantities of ore in that district and of a sufficient value to stand the cost of mining and treatment charges would seem to have been assured by the developments of the past year and especially of the last ninety days.

Without exception so far as we are able to ascertain, wherever systematic work has been carried on, and depth gained, the ores have been found in large quantity and of a value in the precious and base metals to pay a good profit to the operator, as soon as the facilities always necessary for a prosperous mining section shall have been added.

Capital is already sending its representatives to investigate the advisability of erecting the proper reduction works for the treatment of these base ores.

There are several proposed plans underway, but it is to early to state them. There are enough miners in the district for the present needs, but it is a very good time now for those with capital and a desire to engage in mining to visit the district, as properties can now be secured for less price than will be asked for them at a later date.

DIED.

HENDRICKS—Thomas Jefferson Hendricks was born at Elk Head Douglas County, Oregon, April 9, 1873. Died at Mahden Washington, April 8, 1905.

Mr. Hendricks spent his boyhood in his native state. The last few years have been spent chiefly in Southern Oregon, Washington, Idaho and Montana.

Though a young man Mr. Hendricks was a successful man of affairs and at his death interested in mining operations in Montana.

Mr. Hendricks was well known in Cottage Grove and his sudden death from pneumonia came as a sad surprise to his relatives and friends.

His mother Mrs. M. J. Emerson of this city received a message on Friday evening announcing his serious sickness and started to him but he passed away before her arrival. The body was brought to Cottage Grove on Monday's 3 p. m. train accompanied by his mother and brother Robert J., and buried in the I. O. O. F. cemetery under the direction of the I. O. O. F. lodge of this city of which he had been a member for about a year. The funeral address was given by the pastor of the Christian church.

Mr. Hendricks leaves to mourn his early demise his mother, Mrs. M. J. Emerson of this city, Glen O. and John R. Hendricks of Harney, Ore., Hugh B. of Grants Pass and Robert J. of Salem, Ore., David A. of Butte Mont., Hamilton H. of Fossil, Wash. and many warm friends.

Oregon Securities Meeting.

New York City, April 3d, 1905. Mo the Stockholders of the Oregon Securities Co.:

The special meeting of the stockholders, held March 24th, was well attended, nearly all of our most prominent eastern shareholders being present, representing a very large stockholding, both personally and by proxy. The meeting was most harmonious in all respects, no dissenting votes being registered on any proposition submitted.

The resolution to authorize the sale of the property of the Oregon Securities Company of New Jersey as an entirety to the Oregon Securities Company of Oregon was carried unanimously.

The charter of the new company was read and with the by-laws was approved unanimously. The vote was largely in excess of the majority required.

In accordance with the instructions given to the officers of the company at the meeting, all of the property of the New Jersey company has since been deeded over and formerly transferred to the Oregon Securities Company of Oregon.

Stockholders can now exchange their holdings, share for share, without expense, for stock in the new company, and are requested to kindly facilitate the work of transfer, by forwarding their certificates at once for this purpose to the Oregon Securities Company, No. 15 William street, New York, in the enclosed envelope.

In connection with the proposed transfer, it will interest our shareholders to learn—

(1.) That the new stock is full paid and non-assessable and carries non-personal liability.

(2.) The Oregon Company is of the same capitalization as the New Jersey Company and its stock has the same par value, and will be registered as heretofore by the North American Trust Company of New York City.

(3.) The same amount of shares now in the treasury of the New Jersey Company are transferred to the treasury of the Oregon Company.

(4.) By this transfer the Oregon Company saves nearly $2,000 per annum in taxes, and there is no change in the indebtedness of the Company, either in amount or character.

The Company is not involved in litigation of any kind and there is no suits now pending against it or any claims or demands in controversy, from which litigation would be apt to arise.

The Company is in very good condition financially and a complete statement of assets and liabilities, income and disbursements and cash statements will be sent to all shareholders at the close of the fiscal year next July.

The present board of directors will continue in the management of the new Company's affairs and the same officers have been elected to the positions in the Oregon Securities Company of Oregon that they held with the New Jersey Company. The Company's office will be maintained, as heretofore, at No. 15 William street, New York City.

OREGON SECURITIES COMPANY.
G. B. HENGEN,
Secretary and Treasurer.

NOTE.—Since issuing our circular of February 24th, the work of drifting, both east and west, on the Champion vein has been diligently carried on. Our present force of fifty men will be gradually increased with further development.

In the manager's report of March 10th mention was made of striking the ore shoot in the east drift. The values in this shoot, as shown by assays, are extremely satisfactory and are reported as follows:

Three feet of ore on hanging wall, value $49.91 per ton, of which $21.19 is free milling.

Two feet of ore in center of vein (horse), $1.50 per ton.

Two feet of ore on foot wall, value $19.95 per ton, of which $7.19 is free milling.

All of this ore will be milled and it will be noted that the average value reported for the entire width of the vein is $23.56.

An appraisal has been started in the east drift, preparatory to stopping Ore is also being delivered to the mill and the manager advises that the mill will be in operation by April 5th.

The condition of the drift on the Champion vein to the west justifies the belief that the ore shoot there will be encountered at an early day.

The railroad company has followed the lead of the Oregon Securities Company in changing its corporate home. It is now an Oregon corporation, although like the Securities Company, it will maintain its office in New York City as heretofore.

ROBBED THE GRAVE.

A startling incident, is narrated by John Oliver of Philadelphia as follows: "I was in an awful condition. My skin was almost yellow, eyes sunken, tongue coated, pain continually in back and sides, no appetite, growing weaker day by day. Three physicians had given me up. Then I was advised to use Electric Bitters; to my great joy, the first bottle made a decided improvement. I continued their use for three weeks, and am now a well man. I know they robbed the grave of another victim." No one should fail to try them. Only 50 cents, guaranteed at Morgan & Brehaut's drug store.

A SUMMER PICTURE.

For the Nugget.

Away where the ever green forests rise
And pierce the depths of the western skies,
The balmy breezes that come and go
Are cooled by the stretches of gleaming snow.

The dogwoods lift their banks of bloom
North the depth of the fir trees fragrant gloom,
And the acres of orchards everywhere
Spread their scent to the mountain air.

The buttercups gleam like stars in the grass
And the sweet briar bends, as the zephyrs pass;
And roses cling to the trellised wall
And their perfume yield, as the twilight fall.

The scented air is filled with the haze
Of our dear old Indian summer days,
And the beesy clouds drift idly by,
A filmy lace across the sky.

In the heat of noonday the shadows cool
Lark o'er the peaceful, dimpling pool;
The withering tints of the forest's green
In the emerald breast of the pool are seen.

On the moss grown bank by the streamlet's side
The earliest buds of the violets hide;
Over the boulders the tiny stream
Sparkles fresh in the sunset glare.

Idly I lie on the short green grass
And watch the humming birds fit and pass;
And over me creeps the gray blue haze,
As I dream a dream of the summer days.

—LAURENCE DAKE.
Mr. Dake spent some months in Oregon last year and was for a time a visitor of Cottage Grove and as will be seen by the foregoing lines, was well pleased with the country. [Ed.]

Agricultural Association Organized.

Lorane, April 1, 1905.

Pursuant to call, the citizens of Upper Siuslaw and vicinity, met for the purpose of adopting a constitution and by-laws of an agricultural association. Electing permanent officers and performing any other business that might come before the meeting.

W. B. Hawley was called to the chair and W. N. Crow appointed secretary.

Permanent officers were duly elected: W. B. Hawley, president; vice-presidents, W. I. Coleman and F. P. Davis; secretary, J. Atkinson; treasurer, W. N. Crow; directors, Geo. Landseth, J. H. Crow and G. B. Standish.

Constitution and by-laws were properly adopted. On motion our fair is to commence the first Wednesday in October and continue three days; all exhibits for premiums to be in by noon the second day.

On motion a committee was appointed to solicit premiums, special and otherwise. Committee as follows: J. H. Crow, W. I. Coleman, Geo. Landseth, W. H. Davis, J. A. Crow, W. B. Hawley and Jerry Atkinson.

Moved and carried that secretary send proceedings of meetings to the papers for publication.

W. N. Crow, Secretary.

Bankrupt Stock for Sale.

I have on hand a bankrupt stock of General Merchandise and Patent medicine's one door east of the Griffin Veatch Company, which I will sell at greatly reduced prices. Call and be convinced. No trouble to show goods or answer questions.

ZINC MINING IN COLORADO

cept in a few isolated instances, be mined alone, on a business basis for profit.

THE COLORADO BEGINNING OF ZINC PRODUCTION.

From 1898 to 1900 the attention of Eastern and European buyers of zinc became attracted to Colorado as a field for the purchase of zinc ores, some small shipments having been made to Eastern points, notably the Kansas and Missouri zinc smelters, and some to Belgium, the Colorado zinc industry thereby receiving a stimulus and increased investigation and consideration. This resulted in several zinc-concentrating plants being erected at Leadville and ordinary concentrating plants in other Colorado zinc-producing districts being equipped with apparatus for the output of: (1) A zinc concentrate, and (2) iron-lead concentrate. These concentrates are in some cases first run over amalgamation plates to save the free gold as far as possible, the iron-lead concentrates being afterwards shipped to the precious metal smelters and the zinc concentrates to the zinc smelters. These mills, as a rule, consist of crusher, rolls, jigs, concentrating tables (of various makes), and slimmers.

This milling of zinciferous ores is now receiving a great impetus, by reason of: (1) Increased price of spelter; (2) greater demand for zinc ores and concentrates; (3) the preparations being made by the plants to treat and smelt the base zinc ores of Colorado, which require somewhat different treatment to the zinc ores of Joplin, Missouri and Spain. As the result of the successful concentration and separation of the various metallic contents of Colorado zinciferous ores, many old Colorado mines have been or are being resuscitated and comparatively new mines opened up, which were heretofore practically worthless.

As one instance, among many, a certain Colorado mine was practically abandoned years ago by the owners, even though its ore, when assayed, showed the following values: Zinc, twenty-three per cent.; lead, eighteen per cent.; copper four per cent.; silver, twelve ounces; gold, forty one-hundredth ounces. The combined value of the gold, silver, lead and copper contents was enough to make the mine a paying property but for the heavy penalties imposed by the smelters because of the excess of zinc. There being then no Colorado facilities for separating the zinc from the other metallic contents of the ore, the owners of the mine abandoned it. This property is soon to be reopened, however, as it is now feasible to first extract the zinc from the ore and then extract the gold, silver and copper. An estimate of the value of this particular property may be formed when it is noted that the ore carries twenty-three per cent. zinc, whereas the Joplin mines average about four and one-half or five per cent. zinc.

The price at the present time for crude ore or concentrates carrying from forty-three to forty-five per cent. zinc is from $20 to $23 per ton, f. o. b. Denver, with an allowance of from fifty to seventy-five per cent. for the gold and silver contents. This basis now practically places zinc as the prime factor of such ores instead of being a mere by-product.

The zinc buyers offer from seventy-five cents to one dollar per unit for each unit over forty-five per cent., so that crude ore or concentrates carrying fifty per cent. zinc and upwards are decidedly profitable to the producer. This premium is paid on account of this grade of ore being so much more desirable, as with high percentage of zinc there is less room for impurities; and the displacement feature in the manufacture of spelter, with the size of tetorts still in use, is also a consideration.

Tobacco and Wife.

[Hopkinsville Kentuckian.]

Postmaster Breathitt has received the following letter from a former Kentuckian, who now lives in Oregon. We publish it to assist the writer in supplying both of his wants:

Erwin Ore., Feb. 5, 1905.—Mr. Post Master: Will you please hand this note to some old tobacco raiser. I want 5 dollar worth of home made tobacco from old Ky. for chewing. I want as old tobacco as their is and as good. I want to pay what it is worth. Would like if it was twisted. Who ever gets this note answer at once. I use to live in Ky., in Livingston co., and if there is some good old maid or a widowed lady a Bout 35 or 40, tell them to write to me if they want to change there name for a Better one. I was married once in Ky. I got my license at smithland, was married at love's chapel, close to caryville. I got a fine lady; I want a nother one from old Ky., they are the people most respected. Believe me, yore friend,

A. J. BESS.

P. S.—Say lady, if you do write send me yore picture. I am this way, quick sales and good profits. My wife has Bin dead 7 years. I have no children. By By.

The writer of the above evidently has neglected to look about Oregon. If he had he need not be writing to Ky. for a wife. Possibly our Oregon ladies are a little bit particular themselves and its a case of have to with him.

Perfect guarantee goes with glasse Madsen's.
