WEDNESDAY, NOVEMBER 29, 1905

Money begets money and no other form of investment begets it in such goodly quantities as mining but the same as it takes time to establish a paying business, cultivate a crop, fatten stock, etc., it takes time to thoroughly develop a mine and place it in the productive stage.

Tomorrow is the day for everybody to get out and think up the things they have had to be thankful for during the year and forget the unpleasantness of their lives. If you can, hunt up a bit of stray sunshine, help your neighbors to it. Don't treasure up the joys of life just for yourself, but help to make your brother thankful for your spirit and your grasp of life.

BUCKHORN.

London Items.

Things are rather quiet around London just now.

Mrs. Hart has gone to Blackbutte to take charge of the cook house there for a short time.

Mrs. Mount is at the hotel and with the help of Dina and Mary Hart will look after the wants of the guests.

Levi Geer has been quite sick with the grip and sore throat. He is better now.

The Coast Fork Grange has made arrangements to celebrate Thanksgiving at the Grange Hall. There will be some interesting subjects discussed and a big dinner will be served. Everybody is invited to come and bring their basket full of the beauties of life, and we predict you will never regret being there. The Commercial Club is especially invited to be represented there and also the business men of Cottage Grove. Come let us reason together for the general betterment of every one. Not but what Cottage Grove and the surrounding country is in a prosperous and thriving condition but we realize it is far behind what it should be, considering the ability of the natural resources of the country, for we believe that this is the favored spot or at least nature has bestowed on us a great abundance of her good things, much more by far than we are making use of. We have extremely fertile soil, a good climate, an abundance of fine water, almost unlimited quantities of the finest timber. With the Bohemia gold mines, the Blackbutte quicksilver mines and the London springs which are only in their infancy yet, they have given a market for hundreds of thousands of dollars worth of merchandise, produce and labor even beyond the supply. For many of the products which might be raised in abundance, we hear a great cry that we have no market.

I once heard an old man say that the man who had nothing to sell was the man that was farthest from market and we find it holds good. Still the farmers have some room for complaint and the merchants are also justified in complaining.

We have made some statements which we hope will call out at least some comment.

We think these different subjects should be discussed separately in our local papers as well as at our public gatherings.

The merchants, the business men, the farmers, miners, the mill men, and also the laborers interests are so closely linked together that one cannot prosper without the other.

We all know these are facts but we hear the cry go up that they won't do right and there is no use for us to try. But let us not make this excuse any longer but put our shoulder to the wheel and do a little lifting and we will see almost every one else doing the same. You know we are great imitators and inclined to do as we see others doing so let us all give one general lift and we will see business begin to move for all. No selfishness but a general good will.

COAL IN DOUGLAS COUNTY.

B. W. MADDON, representing the Umpqua Coal company was in town Thursday in the interest of his company. He says that the deposit of coal owned by them will solve the fuel problem for Southern Oregon. The mines are located about twelve miles from Drain on the line of the new road from Drain to Marshfield. They have four veins already opened up, and the analysis shows it to be a very good grade.—Ashland Tribune.

A Runaway Bay.

Edward Kinsman, a son of a millman in Linton, ran away from his home Sunday and was picked up Sunday night by Watchman Pitcher. The boy finally told who his parents were, said he was treated well and had no reason to run away except that he wanted to see the world. The marshal telegraphed his people and his mother came on the Monday night train after him and took him home with her. The boy thinks home will look pretty good to him now.

An Interesting Program.

Following a custom established a number of years ago by the Christian Churches throughout the United States, the First Christian Church of Cottage Grove held Boys' and Girls' Rally Day exercises on last Sunday evening at the church, at which time an interesting program was rendered, consisting of speeches, songs and a cantata, all rendered by the little folks.

A collection was taken at the close the proceeds of which go toward helping the Home Mission work in the United States, the Sunday before Thanksgiving is set apart for this special purpose, and is universally observed.

A crowded house greeted the children and about $15 was raised. Half of this amount goes to the national work, the balance being retained for the state work.

A Chicken Ranch.

Chas. Wall of Spaulding, Nebraska has bought the Sherwood place about a mile east of town and will move here at once with his family. He will rent a house close to his place until he can build a home of his own. He will start in the chicken and dairy business and expects to make a thorough success of it as he has had considerable experience in that line. He is on the right line for if there is anything this town needs right now it is some hustling chicken raiser.

Signs.

The town must be fixing up, and getting ready to do a lot of business. The sign painters are busy. Walker says it keeps him going all week and Sunday too, as well as night to keep up with them. The Owl Bearding house and lunch room is getting two new signs as well as the Owl saloon. The Graham hotel is getting a large sign for the hotel. The Home restaurant is getting a new one, as is the Kirk boarding and lodging house. Veach the shoe man has a brand new sign.

Mrs. J. R. Thompson returned from an extended visit with friends on Thursday—to the great happiness of the entire Thompson family.

The High School

Seniors.

As the "Little Chronicle" is not published this year, we, the seniors of the High School of this city, through the kindness of the editor, will have a short account of our proceedings each week in the columns of the Bohemia Nugget.

We hope that the readers of this paper will read our notes and take interest in our doings.

Our class organized in October of this year and elected officers as follows: President, Ben Sanford; vice-president, Hugh Curran; secretary, Daisy Hawkins; treasurer, Alice Huff. Class motto: In antio facultibus, paratus (Ready in mind and resources.) Hugh Curran was chosen critic for the first two months. Reporter for first week, Alice Huff.

We are glad to have Maybel Coffman with us again. She was out of school for some time on account of the sickness of her brother who, we are glad to say is now improving.

Daisy Hawkins has been out of school for the past three weeks on account of sickness in her home. We hope she will be with us again soon.

Miss Munday (in latin explanation) "If I were a bird, I would fly; but I'm not a bird—Papi! (aside) "No, you bet she isn't, she's a peach."

The seniors have received the new class pins and are now vastly distinguished from the other classes. The pins are in the form of a pennant, decorated with our colors and bearing the inscription "1906."

We wonder why Katie and Stella go to Professor's room so often.

One of our class has been in despair for the last few days on account of losing her class pin. It was found yesterday.

Law Partnership Formed.

Attorneys John M. Williams and Louis E. Bean have formed a partnership for the practice of law and they will occupy Mr. Bean's present office rooms in the Eight street McClung block and add two rooms to the suite. They will have rooms 12, 13, 14 and 15.—Guard.

James Hart came from Bohemia Thursday. He has been working on the Belcher group belonging to the Great Eastern Mining Co.

Geo. Lea is much put out at the delay he has been put to on the water system by the slowness with which the pipe has been delivered to him. He has been ready and waiting for the pipe for weeks, and it would only come in small shipments. On Monday our car came in, but is not loaded with enough pipe to complete the work. Mr. Lea is very anxious to get the work done before the rains become so heavy.

Wm. Wechter of the Golden Rule Mining Co. is in town and says things at the mine are looking well, but that until the patents to the properties will not go to any great expense in the installation of machinery or plant, but when such patents are secured the company will be ready to go ahead and expend a great amount of money in installing machinery and in making the mine a producer. Mr. Wechter is as anxious as the rest to see the land office open for business.

Porter Bros. & Stewart let the contract for the tearing down of the old wooden structure back of the hotel for the construction of a new two story 30x66 frame building to be built in its place by Wm. F. Hart. The wooden building is being rapidly torn down. The intention was to build the frame of wood and after sheeting it with wood to cover it with a covering of iron to resemble brick, but it is understood that some objection has been raised to this by the Fire Committee of the Council, and that other arrangements will be made.

When copper plates are stained with verdigris, which prevents their amalgamating with and saving the gold, the plates can be cleaned in the following manner: Thoroughly scrub the plates with fine sand and water, using a coarse gummy sack or scrub brush. Wash off the sand and then scrub thoroughly with a solution consisting of one part of all vitriol and four parts of water. The acid disintegrates the verdigris dissolving the oxide of copper, and leaves the plate clean, when it will readily amalgamate with the mercury without the use of cyanide solution, except the acid solution should have been made stronger than herein prescribed, in which instance the plate should be washed off with water, and then dressed with a solution of cyanide as usual. The formation of verdigris on the plates can be stopped by plating them with silver amalgam, after cleaning as before mentioned, exactly the same as mercury leaving the plates thoroughly coated with silver whereby they become more effective for catching gold and silver and will operate better than plates which have been electroplated with silver.
