We note that one paper makes the statement that any person that has not registered so as to be a duly qualified voter can swear in his vote on election day and to that end the party will have an office prepared with a number of freeholders present to swear in such persons as they may know. That may be politics, but it is mighty poor when looking out for the best interests of the county and state. If a man does not take enough interest to register at the proper time he should not be permitted to vote under any circumstances and until such a point is reached fraudulent voting will continue. A few freeholders will swear in the votes of hundreds of voters who they have never seen, such is the history of every election and when an open statement is made of the intention to swear in anybody who will swear that he is a legal voter, the situation is not all that it should be.

Governor Chamberlain Will Speak Here
Governor Chamberlain will speak at the Opera House Tuesday afternoon May 22nd at 1:30 o'clock. Game warden Baker had advice Monday that the Governor was going to speak in Eugene Tuesday night, the 29th, and he made arrangements so that the Governor would speak here in the afternoon and afterwards be taken to Eugene by carriage so as to be there to speak in the evening.

Gasoline Sawmill

William McCoy, of Cottage Grove, Or., holds the distinction of cutting lumber with less power than any mill in the northwest. His power consists of a five-horse power Zimmerman-Wells-Brown gasoline engine, which is belted direct to a 32-inch saw. The carriage is eight feet long, and the screws are turned by hand. The knees are about 12 inches high. The carriage is fed by the use of a peavy. From the well-worn look of the holes in the floor of the mill under the carriage, it is evident that the "peavy feed" could not be considered entirely automatic in action. Under the saw is placed a wheelbarrow, which answers all the purpose of a saw-dust conveyor. The ties are manufactured from small, sound, second growth timber cut into eight foot logs. The crew consists of Mr. McCoy and two men. The banner day's cut of eight and one-half hours in the mill was 134 7x8 ties. If the logs were too small to admit of the logs being squared up on four sides, two lines are all that are made. The ties net the mill 30 cents each for the square tie and 27 cents each for the others. The cost of manufacturing ties and delivery is about 20 cents each. When the tie sawing season is over, Mr. McCoy converts his mill into a wood-sawing rig, the whole being mounted on wheels, and proceeds accordingly to convert his slab wood into fuel for the local market. Mr. McCoy certainly enjoys the distinction of making lumber in his canopy-top, peavy-feed mill with less cost for the original plant than any other mill on the coast.—The Timberman.

Wildwood Mill May be Operated.

A number of parties have been looking over the Wildwood mill recently, and there is a strong possibility that the mill may be sold and put into operation within a very short time. The people at Wildwood would be very glad to see it put into operation again, and hope that it will not be long. With the market as good as it is every mill ought to be running.

A New O. R. & N. Train

The new local Upper Columbia River train put on by the Oregon Railroad and Navigation Company May 20th, will do much toward attracting tourists to points along the river between Portland and The Dalles. The new train, leaving Portland as it does at 8:15 a. m. and arriving at Portland at 6:00 p. m. the same day, gives one an opportunity to spend the day at some of the delightful places along the Upper Columbia River and permit them to return home the same day.

The train is made up of baggage car and coaches, and stops at all points in both directions so as to accommodate local travel as much as possible. The lightness of the train, however, permits it to run at a high rate of speed between stations, so that even with the stops, good time is made.

There are many beautiful places along the river, such as, Rooster Rock, Latonelle, Multnomah Falls, Bonneville, at which a day's outing and picnic can be enjoyed to the utmost and this new service makes it possible to take such outings, whereas, in the past, when the service has been performed by the heavy through trains, it has not been possible to do this.

Columbia Southern passengers instead of waiting at Biggs, which is unattractive, are taken to The Dalles promptly where they await the train for Portland, coming in on No. 1, as at present, or taking the local, as they may desire.

New Boiler and Donkey.

The Chambers Lumber Co. will shortly install an additional boiler at the sawmill above Dorena, and will also put in a new donkey and make other improvements. Mr. Russell of the firm of Russell and Rogers, who own and operate the Chambers Lumber Co. is going to spend the summer here and will probably move the office to the mill in order that he may give his personal supervision to the work.

Hawley Will Speak Here the 28th.

W. C. Hawley, republican candidate for congress will address a mass meeting in the Opera House on Monday evening the 28th. Everybody is expected to turn out and hear Mr. Hawley as he is a very able speaker and has a strong side to present.

Cottage Grove Takes First Place as a Dairying Center

Cottage Grove is daily advancing in importance as a dairying center. J. D. Anderson of Medford has sold his fine farm there, and has purchased 100 acres of John Cooley of this place and will establish a model dairy. It is understood the purchase price was $6000. Mr. Anderson is an experienced and successful dairymen, and expects to conduct a model dairy farm upon the most modern principals. He is the father of Herman Anderson, who recently purchased Mrs. White's farm and wrote such an account of the dairying possibilities here to his father as to cause him to sell out to come here. The farmers are just beginning to realize the opportunities for successful dairying here and are preparing to improve their stock and methods so as to really make a winner of it. The creamery is getting more cream almost every day and always finds a ready sale for its entire product.

Must Work to Get Local Train

J. P. Jones, Traveling Passenger Agent of the S. P. was in town Monday and stated that the Southern Pacific officials, all the way through, were anxious to extend the local to Cottage Grove from Eugene and that they all favored it, and that A. L. Craig was especially anxious for it, but that the cost of starting the change, that is by building the extra side tracks, the turntable, etc. were so great that the road had concluded that such a move was not a wise one at present. He said the road appreciated the interest of the town and that they knew the town would like to know that they wanted to run the local here when it could be made to pay, and that maybe after a time it could.

The Commercial Club, who were the first to take the matter up and the citizens will have to get together and make some strong pleas. The train might not pay at first, but it would after running a time. A united effort and expression of the town will do much.

Clay Anlauf

Clay Anlauf was born at Anlauf, Douglas Co., Ore. Oct. 23d 1886, and died there the 6th day of May, 1906. He was the son of Robt. Anlauf, and leaves beside his parents, one brother and four sisters and innumerable friends to mourn his death. He had been in poor health for four months prior to this, and seven days before he died he suffered a rupture of a blood vessel in his brain which resulted in his death. The funeral services were conducted by Father J. M. O'Farrell of Eugene, after which the Woodmen of the World, of which organization Clay was a member, took charge, burying him in the Comstock cemetery.

He has been taken from our midst in his youth, and his cheery presence, being always ready with a pleasant word, patient in sickness, and kind to all, will be greatly missed by us all, but the Infinite One knows best and in his wisdom has seen best to take from us our dear one.

Rate Bill Passes.

Friday marked the passage of the rate bill at Washington by a vote of 71 to 3. It has undoubtedly had more attention from the country at large than any other bill for many years. As passed it is devoid of many of the best features originally contained in it.

The Flag Arrives

The Foresters were out with the band Monday afternoon to greet their new prize flag, when A. Hart, the new Junior Woodward arrived with it from the Condon meeting of the lodge. In spite of the rain the boys unfurled the flag and marched triumphantly up the street.

New Zealand's Political Status

New Zealand has a peculiar place in the political situation on account of her laws, and G. S. Clapham, a lecturer and Economist who has made their laws and customs a close study will lecture in the Opera house Tuesday evening the 29th, giving as carefully as possible a statement of their social and political laws, their systems of taxation, of government etc. It will be exceedingly interesting as everyone knows who heard his lecture here a couple of weeks ago. A small charge will be made for the lecture to pay for his expenses.
