The Cottage Grove creamery is making a large quantity of butter each month and keeps on the increase. Manager Suller is very much pleased with his success and is doing all he can to help build up the industry, by fair and honest treatment of the farmers, and by giving them every bit of value for their cream that he can. That he is treating them well, and is meriting their patronage can be seen from the fact that he does not lose any customers, but keeps gaining new ones. New dairies are being started and it will not be long before Cottage Grove will, and should take place as a dairy center of first importance. When a first class creamery is at hand that can turn out as fine a grade of butter as is made here, the cream supply must be first class in quality, and brings a high price, which is of course worth much to the farmer.

The country around Cottage Grove possesses natural advantages for a dairying district on account of its abundance of fresh water, the ease with which good feed can be raised, and the mildness of the seasons. The business is just opening up and should be attractive to many farmers who are not now making nearly as much as those who are working the dairy part of their farms for all it is worth.

Vesuvius

As work goes on new surprises are given the Vesuvius owners. Saturday F. B. Roberts sent out samples of ore from a new discovery on the property, which adds another source of supply of Free Milling ore. In Bohemia the claims are large; nearly all companies have a number of them, the entire district is covered by a series of veins, nearly all groups of claims are traversed by several veins. One immense strike, or body of ore, does not indicate that the entire acreage is valuable, nor does a few feet of barren vein matter indicate that there is nothing good to be had. A small piece of ground properly developed is enough to break or make a man. The only way to know what is in the ground is to dig and see, it takes time and money.

There is scarcely a property in Bohemia that will be thoroughly developed for years to come, and the writer believes that there is not a legitimately held group of claims in the district but that contains within its bounds untold riches for the owner that is fortunate enough to be able to thoroughly prospect and patent enough to stay with his holdings.

The Vesuvius company, it is understood does not claim to have their extensive possessions fully developed, in fact, the manager has informed us that they expect to find greater and better bodies of ore than they have yet discovered. From the day the Vesuvius company was formed, systematic development has been carried on.

They have a large plant, good buildings and several thousand feet of mining done in a manner that adds much to the value of the property. This new ore only adds to the confidence of those that believe the net work of the veins of Bohemia contain within their texture many fortunes for the careful and intelligent mine operators.

The Vesuvius company expect to have all in readiness for a steady run of their mill soon.

The Oregon City Chataqua, July 10-25, announces a splendid program for this year. Poets, authors, musicians, athletes, teachers, artists, men of science and men of skill are to be there professional entertainers, famous lecturers, singers of renown and story tellers, both men and women. Captain Jack Crawford, the poet-scout, has a national reputation; Leon Harrison is the most popular Jewish rabbi in America; Martha Gleason has made a fortune with her "Old Plantation Songs and Stories"; Miss Belle Kearney is called the greatest woman orator ever produced by the South; Professor Badungardt has the knack of making astronomy popular, and Mark Beal is a reader and impersonator said to be the peer of any in America. The musical program will also be exceptionally good. It includes leading soloists of the state and a chorus of one hundred and twenty-one instrumentalists in Hayden's oratorio, "The Creation," on Saturday, July 14, and a second grand evening of oratori from Mendelssohn on Saturday, July 21, all under the direction of Professor W. Gifford Nash.

Mr. Trygstad reports "that the Oregon-Colorado working tunnel has been going steadily ahead and that there has been no particular change." The Oregon-Colorado company has extensive development done and hopes to have a plant installed for the treatment of the ore in a short time. The wagon road has kept in good condition and the machinery is the only remaining requirement to put this company on a paying basis.

Donkey Arrived on Sunday

The donkey engine for the logging camp of the Brown Lumber Co. arrived after many weeks of delay and vexation to the company on Sunday, and was at once sent to the camp and was set up. Mr. Fischer states that he hopes to run the mill steadily from now on at a daily capacity of 40,000 feet. A large company of the mill boys were on hand when the engine came in and set up a lively cheer, for the delay of its arriving has cost them many idle hours.

Philip Hohl has shipped most of his blacksmith tools to his sawmill at Curt N. Spur, below Comstock. The woodwork of the mill is nearly all completed and is in shape for putting the machinery in place. The machinery is delayed by the blockage in the Portland freight yards and is expected to arrive almost any day. Mr. Hohl hopes to get his mill to run very quickly after the machinery arrives.

The big engine at the electric light plant of the Willamette Valley Company has been put in motion several times recently but is not yet ready for constant and steady work, owing to a bad breakdown and several things which have to be changed before it will work properly.
