NO. 24

BOHEMIA MINING NOTES

And General Mining News Gathered from Exchanges.

Coleonda mine in Sumpter district began operation of mill last Friday upon ore from three new rich ore chutes recently opened in. The mine will again become a producer of note.

W. A. Hogate with his wife and daughter and son left for the Vesuvius camp on Monday morning bright and early. Mr. Hogate will drive the big team this summer to and from the mine, and Mrs. Hogate will look after the gastronomic needs of the miners with the assistance of her daughter.

A tunnel site while it only holds the actual width of the tunnel for 3,000 feet virtually controls the ground for 3,000 feet square, as all leads discovered by the tunnel can be located 1,500 feet on either side of the tunnel if so desired by the tunnel site owner.

F. B. Roberts came to the Grove yesterday from the Vesuvius and will go for a vacation to Portland. Mr. Roberts has not been out from the mine for nearly a year. He reports progress at the Vesuvius and says all is being done that is possible to do to hurry up the day of production from the mine that will prove one of the big and steady producers of Bohemia in a short time.

F. J. Hard celebrated the 4th by going to the mines. If the weather does not get cooler he will remember this Fourth as the day he took a hot 25 mile horseback ride. Mr. Hard takes with him a gentleman to investigate the mines and plan for machinery for the reduction of the ore.

100-Ton Concentrating Plant

F. J. Hard has just received the plans drawn by J. A. Traylor & Co. of Denver, Colo., for a 100-ton concentrator plant for the Oregon-Colorado mine in Bohemia. Mr. Hard has got the work at the Oregon-Colorado to a point where he feels that the property will justify such an expenditure, and he hopes before long to commence the work of installing the plant.

Cottage Grove Choral Union

Messrs. Harry Webber, J. M. Isham, Oliver Veatch, Frank Woolly, Thos. Aubrey, Frank Jordan, J. M. Fisher, Andy Nelson, and others met together Sunday afternoon and formed the Cottage Grove Choral Union and will at once get to work. They elected Harry Webber, president, J. M. Isham, vice-president and Oliver Veatch secretary and treasurer. It will be a mixed chorus and will include a full orchestra. It is thought that forty or fifty good singers can be gotten together and a good class of music is outlined for work. Anyone desiring to join should apply to any of the officers. The position of manager, director and pianist are yet to be filled. The next meeting will be Sunday at Jones hall.

The Eugene ice plant has resumed business after a shut down of a few days, and will be run all summer.

SALOONS ALL CLOSED UP

Local Option Went Into Effect Saturday Night at Midnight.

After the decision of Judge Harris that Eugene's city charter did not have ruling over the state or county law, and dissolving the injunction of Walker and Renshaw, restraining the County Court from declaring prohibition in the county, the saloon keepers quietly obeyed law and closed up, although an appeal will be taken to the higher court. In Cottage Grove liquor flowed quite freely on Saturday but there was little disturbance.

The various saloon keepers are either moving to other places or simply closing up.

Great Activity in the Grove.

The Oregonian of Monday had the following concerning the Grove: Cottage Grove, Ore., July 1.—(Special.)—The seven saloons that were running here closed up their doors promptly at midnight last night and no disorder was in evidence. They are preparing to move their stocks elsewhere. On account of unusual activity in this locality, people will be too busy to miss the saloons.

Entire Water System Flushed.

Marshall Underwood and Street Commissioner Bennett did a good work Friday in thoroughly flushing out the entire water system. A great deal of dirt was washed out and the water should be much purer, and the pipes much cleaner now.

Sawmill Town and That's No Lie

The Eugene papers have dubbed Cottage Grove the sawmill town, and they were just right. Cottage Grove is going right ahead, dry or wet. With the local extended down to the Grove, Eugene people now have a chance to come down and stop at a good hotel and to trade where they can get their money's worth. Eugene hotels can take lessons of Cottage Grove, if they care to.

Land Mark Gone

The big barn standing close to the road at Red Rock where Teeters Creek empties into Row river burned to the ground early yesterday morning.

The Nelson boys were using the barn to store their logging tools and some of their men slept there, tools and beds were burned. The barn belonged to West Chrisman.

The petition asking the county court to locate a road from Blue River city to the mines, connecting with the Gate Creek road was received in Eugene last evening, and it will be presented to the court at its next session. Twenty-one free holders signed the petition and there were appended the signatures of 26 men who would use the road, and who are owners of unpatented mines in the district.—Guard.

The gas engine has been of incalculable value and convenience to the mining industry of Arizona, where most districts suffer from a scarcity of water and cheap fuel. There are probably more internal combustion engines using gasoline, distillate, crude oil, or producer gas in this territory in proportion to the extent of mining operations than in any other state.

COTTAGE GROVE LOCAL

First Train Arrived Monday Night at 9:50 and Left Tuesday Morning at 5:10.

Monday the Cottage Grove local made its first trip to Cottage Grove coming in as a special and brought six passengers. As the turntable was not complete the train went on to Divide to turn the engine. Tuesday morning the regular service commenced with the regular morning train at 5:10 which started on its initial journey with eight passengers.

The turntable was gotten into shape Tuesday so it will be used hereafter. The dirt crew filled in the track on Monday afternoon and put the track up to level.

Oregon Election.

A. J. Dodge in American Economist.

It is manifest from the results in Oregon that apathy and want of interest in the election results will be the chief difficulty confronting the republicans in the congressional elections. The democrats are encouraged by hope of carrying the next House of representatives, believing that victory next fall would be a decided encouragement for their general ticket in the presidential election of 1908. Considering the character of the contest made in Oregon, however, there is every reason to believe that with proper effort put forth during the summer in the interests of protection, the next House of Representatives will be saved by a substantial majority.

Family Reunion

The Ashby family big, little and small gathered at the old home place Friday in a family reunion. Six children and twenty grandchildren surrounded old John Ashby and his wife, and made the day a memorable one to the old folks. They celebrated the day with a big dinner, sufficient to give them all memorable pangs, and the children had to go without their favorite dish of ice cream because there was not enough ice in town to make the cream for them, but they compromised on the promise to give them three dishes apiece the next time. Pictures were taken of the old folks and their children for mementos.

The same night several of the children who were here with their families left for their homes in Southern Oregon and California.

J. E. Young, Justice of the Peace.

J. E. Young, Justice of the Peace for Cottage Grove precincts took his oath of office on Monday and began his official duties. He is ready for all that is coming.

Near Cracow in Poland, is a mine that has been worked for salt continuously since 1251, and so vast is the deposit that it is estimated there is enough salt in reserve to supply the world for centuries. Vast caverns of salt are met with in the mine, and at certain places the owners have had carved out of the salt houses, chapels, monuments and other ornamental forms. When illuminated these objects present a scene of surprising splendor.

Rev. Billington and wife returned to the Grove Tuesday.
