Cottage Grove Local

The first regular train of the Cottage Grove local left the local depot Tuesday morning, having come from Eugene the night before as an extra. The S. P. construction crew made things fly, Saturday, Sunday and Monday and put the turntable and switch in in record time. While the switch is built up on trestle work at present the dirt crew is expected here today to fill in with solid earth. While the crew is here several other minor changes will be made in the yards, in the cutting out of the old style switches, and the installation of split switches. The steam crane that ran into the ditch a week ago is on the track here and Monday and Tuesday a crew of men were busily at work putting the boiler back in place and replacing the broken parts, so that it will be in shape to use in putting in the concrete piers of the two bridges.

Ice Shortage Scare.

Small consumers of ice, and the creameries and soda fountains have been indulging in quite a little scare about an ice shortage, because the liquor houses in Eugene and Albany that have made the ice which has been used at those places and here are going to shut down, and a subsequent scarcity of ice. Such a scare is needless for other means will be found of supply the market.

Eugene capitalists will put in a small plant sufficient to supply all demands upon it. Ice has been sold at such a high price that the average householder has felt that he could not afford to use it daily through the summer. If some factory would get to work and make it cheap enough so that the householder could afford to use it, a large trade could shortly be worked up. In Cottage Grove the creamery uses a ton a week, and other places about 1000 pounds, which could be greatly increased. Within a short time there will be no shortage at all and the scare will be a thing of the past.

Gamewarden Baker Honored.

Gamewarden Baker has just returned from the gathering home of Kentuckians at Louisville. He has many a jolly story to tell of the grand time he had. He was especially honored at the gathering and his picture was printed in all the Louisville papers as the man that lived farthest from Louisville in the United States that returned to attend the celebration. Had the ruling not admitted Kentuckians who had come from foreign lands to the convention, he would have won the gold medal, for coming the farthest distance. He took with him a wine glass that was given to him in 1852 and which he had carried across the plains to Oregon and then back to the reunion. It was a moment that attracted much attention and was toasted high and low, in celebration. The warden had the time of his life but says Oregon beats them all.
