A TRAGIC FINISH.

A watchman's neglect permitted a leak in the great North Sea dyke, which a child's finger could have stopped, to become a ruinous break, devastating an entire province of Holland. In like manner Kenneth McIver, of Vanceboro, Me., permitted a little cold to go unnoticed by Dr. King's New Discovery. He writes: "Three doctors gave me up to die of lung inflammation, caused by a neglected cold; but Dr. King's New Discovery saved my life." Guaranteed best cough and cold cure, at Benson's Pharmacy, 50c and $1. Trial bottle free.

The 5 and 6 inch pipe for the North creek extension arrived Monday and on Tuesday it was hauled along the line. Contractor Hart hopes to have the water running through it by Saturday.

The big athletic clubs of Oregon are going to send Dan J. Kelly, the University of Oregon athlete, to the big Chicago meet to represent Oregon, being sure of his making a great record for the state.

The saloon men who have put in soda fountains and ice cream booths have been heard to state that they made more money on soft drinks on the Fourth and are doing so daily, than they ever made on booze. Not a bad ad for a "dry" town, is it.

H. D. Lincoln was out with his new wagon made by Eby & Markley on Saturday. The wagon is a fine one and Mr. Lincoln is well pleased with it and is very glad to have it to use, after the long time it has taken to make and finish it up.

The Nugget office through the courtesy of Mrs. A. B. Wood has a magnificent bunch of rhododendron blossoms, brought down from Bohemia. The whole hills are in blossoms up at Bohemia with these splendid blossoms, and their beauty is one that can not be pictured nor told by word nor pen.

Wm Bowers, an old resident of Cottage Grove was operated on last week at the home of his sister for the removal of a large cancerous growth, which has been becoming a serious menace to his health. Drs. Job, Oglesby, Best and Woods attended the case and Mr. Bowers is now well on the road to recovery.

J. H. Baker is going to open up a blacksmith shop at the Red Bridge and is getting ready to ship up a forge, blower, anvil and tools, so that he can open up as soon as possible. Joe can be heard at work at about daylight and from then on, without hardly a break for meals until long after dusk in the evening. He is figuring on making quite a little stake this summer.

Dean Sanderson, dean of the Eugene Divinity School was a visitor in the Grove over Sunday to hear two of the young ministers attending the school preach, one of whom preached in the Grove and the other at Hebron. The Dean likes to keep posted on how the various students of the school are coming on and how they reach their audiences.

J. T. Hunt of Wildwood has been in Eugene on business and stopped in at this office Monday on his way back home. He mentioned the fact that men are so very scarce, and that they seem to enjoy moving from one place to another, whether they have a good job or not, for they know they can get a job most any place they chance to stop. Such a condition is demoralizing to business and when Oregon has such a great chance as she has at present to be hindered in her development by the scarcity of good help is an unfortunate condition.

Newspaper reports say that the people in San Francisco seem to have gotten quite out of the way of drinking and now that saloons are plenty they have very little drunkenness than before and that the ardor to take out licenses is cooling down.

The Cottage Grove Commercial Club seems to have about gone to sleep or to the mountains for the summer, from the attendance at the Club on business nights. It seems to be difficult to get a sufficient number together to hold a meeting, and then there is little enthusiasm. The club seems to be like other people, after a burst of enthusiasm they have to take a rest.

Portland seems to have been getting the worst of the franchise grafts. The United Railway Company has sold its franchise to another company. Of course a man has a right to sell anything he has, or so has a company, but we don't like to see a franchise obtained from a city simply to be used to sell to somebody else. Portland claims that is what is happening there and maybe it is. It is too bad that while the sale was on the Willamette Valley Co. did not get hold of it.

When the sweet peas come into bloom, cut their flowers as soon as they begin to fade. This prevents them from forming seed, and the plants, in their efforts to perpetuate their kind, will, straightway produce more flowers, and keep on doing this as long as interfered with. In this manner flowers are secured throughout the entire season. But, if seed is allowed to form, you will have comparatively few flowers during the latter part of summer. Eben E. Rexford in "Making the country home," in Outing Magazine.

E. O. Mowery and E. B. Spangenberg were over from Yoncalla this morning. Mr. Mowery has purchased the Spongenberg sawmill five miles east of Yoncalla and will increase the capacity to 35,000 feet per day by adding another boiler to the power plant. Mr. Mowery is from Humboldt Co., California, where he has a large shingle manufacturing plant. They also have a large wood working plant at Oakland, California, and will establish lumber yards there for handling the product of the mill recently acquired in this county. Either a flume or a cable system will be installed for bringing the lumber to the railroad. Mr. Spangenberg will remain in this county for the present at least. Roseburg Review.

COTTAGE GROVE TO EUGENE

New Railroad Franchise for Railroad to Connect the Towns Will be Applied for in Eugene.

Extension of the Oregon & South Eastern railroad from Cottage Grove to Eugene, and large improvements in the Bohemia mining district are under contemplation by eastern investors, who are now interested in these properties.

A conference of men connected with the railroad and mines is being held in Portland today. Among the conferees are: G. B. Hengen, New York; A. B. Wood, Cottage Grove; J. A. Eads, Orseno, Ohio; John W. Wheeler, Orange, Mass.; Herbert R. Smith, New Haven, Connecticut. A franchise will be asked from the City of Eugene to build and operate the railroad into that place.—Monday's Journal.

The Great Crack.

The crack has been followed one hundred and ninety-two miles. It is widest where it enters the sea at Alder Creek, near Point Arena, and its violence was greatest at that point. It was also noted about fifty miles further out in the ocean where it unshipped the rudder of a steamer passing Cape Mendocino. From Point Arena it goes in a straight line, passing in the sea near Fort Bragg and reaching the bridge over the Pajaro River at Chittenden. From that point it passes about twelve miles, ending two miles southeast of San Juan Bautista Mission. At its northern end, and for about a hundred miles there was a violent movement of the earth to the southward on the east side of the crack, the move being sixteen feet and seven inches in various places measured. On the peninsula of San Francisco the movement is about eight feet. It falls to two feet at the bridge over the Pajaro river and then passes to nothing. It is not quite certain whether the east side moved southward or the west side northward, but the evidence known to me all favors the latter view. The east side is about three feet higher than the west side in this region, while north of the Bay of San Francisco the west side seems to override about the same distance. There are some very picturesque phenomena along the line of the fault, as in passing in front of a man's house a row of small trees are all shifted in front of the dairy behind. The rose garden in front of the house is shifted back of it and a patch of raspberries takes its place.—David Starr Jordan in the July Pacific Monthly.

Labor Conditions.

Perplexing, contradicting and extremely difficult to understand are the reports on the general situation in San Francisco. Simultaneously with the news that the city is still sadly in need of alms comes the report that 2000 saloon-keepers have taken out licenses at $500 each. Again we are told that the scarcity of money is delaying building operations, but the plumbers are striking for more than $6 a day. Men who have lost everything are walking the streets in quest of employment, but the steamship owners who refuse to pay more than $75 to $100 per month for ordinary foremast hands are forced to ship Japanese or keep their vessels tied up. As a study in political economy, San Francisco offers opportunities that are unobtainable at any other place in the known world.—Oregonian.

U. S. Weekly Weather Report.

The first five days of the week were very warm and temperatures of one hundred degrees and over occurred in the Willamette valley, Southern Oregon and in the Columbia river counties east of the Cascade mountains. The winds during this hot spell were generally light, and the damage, therefore, was less than otherwise would have been the case. The last two days were not so warm, although the temperature continued above the normal. Between the Coast and the Cascade ranges of mountains dry weather prevailed during the entire week. Local rains occurred in a few of the coast counties, and the weather generally in this portion of the state was cool, with considerable fog at night and for a few hours in the early forenoon. During the last three days the weather was partly cloudy in the eastern counties, and thundershowers occurred in many places, but the precipitation attending them was too light to be of any benefit, except over very limited areas.
